
Learn the Background.

Love the Outcome.

When you know the story behind a piece of art, it takes on a whole new dimension. Or if you learn why a vintner is so passionate about winemaking, each sip tastes even better. And that's the advantage of meeting the artisans along the Rural Routes to Main Street Cultural Trail. Their stories become your stories when you take home their handiwork.

A Self-Guided Trail So You Can Take Your Time

The trail loops through three counties in central Indiana: Hendricks, Morgan and Putnam. You can pick any path you want, visiting the types of destinations that most interest you. And while you're at each destination, we encourage you to make your visit your own! Ask a painter what inspired the artwork you're taking home. Take the time to breathe in the aromas at a bakery as you linger and taste something new. Try your hand at making art yourself. This guidebook details each of the nearly 40 stops along the trail. It's organized by category as is also shown on the map on the next page.

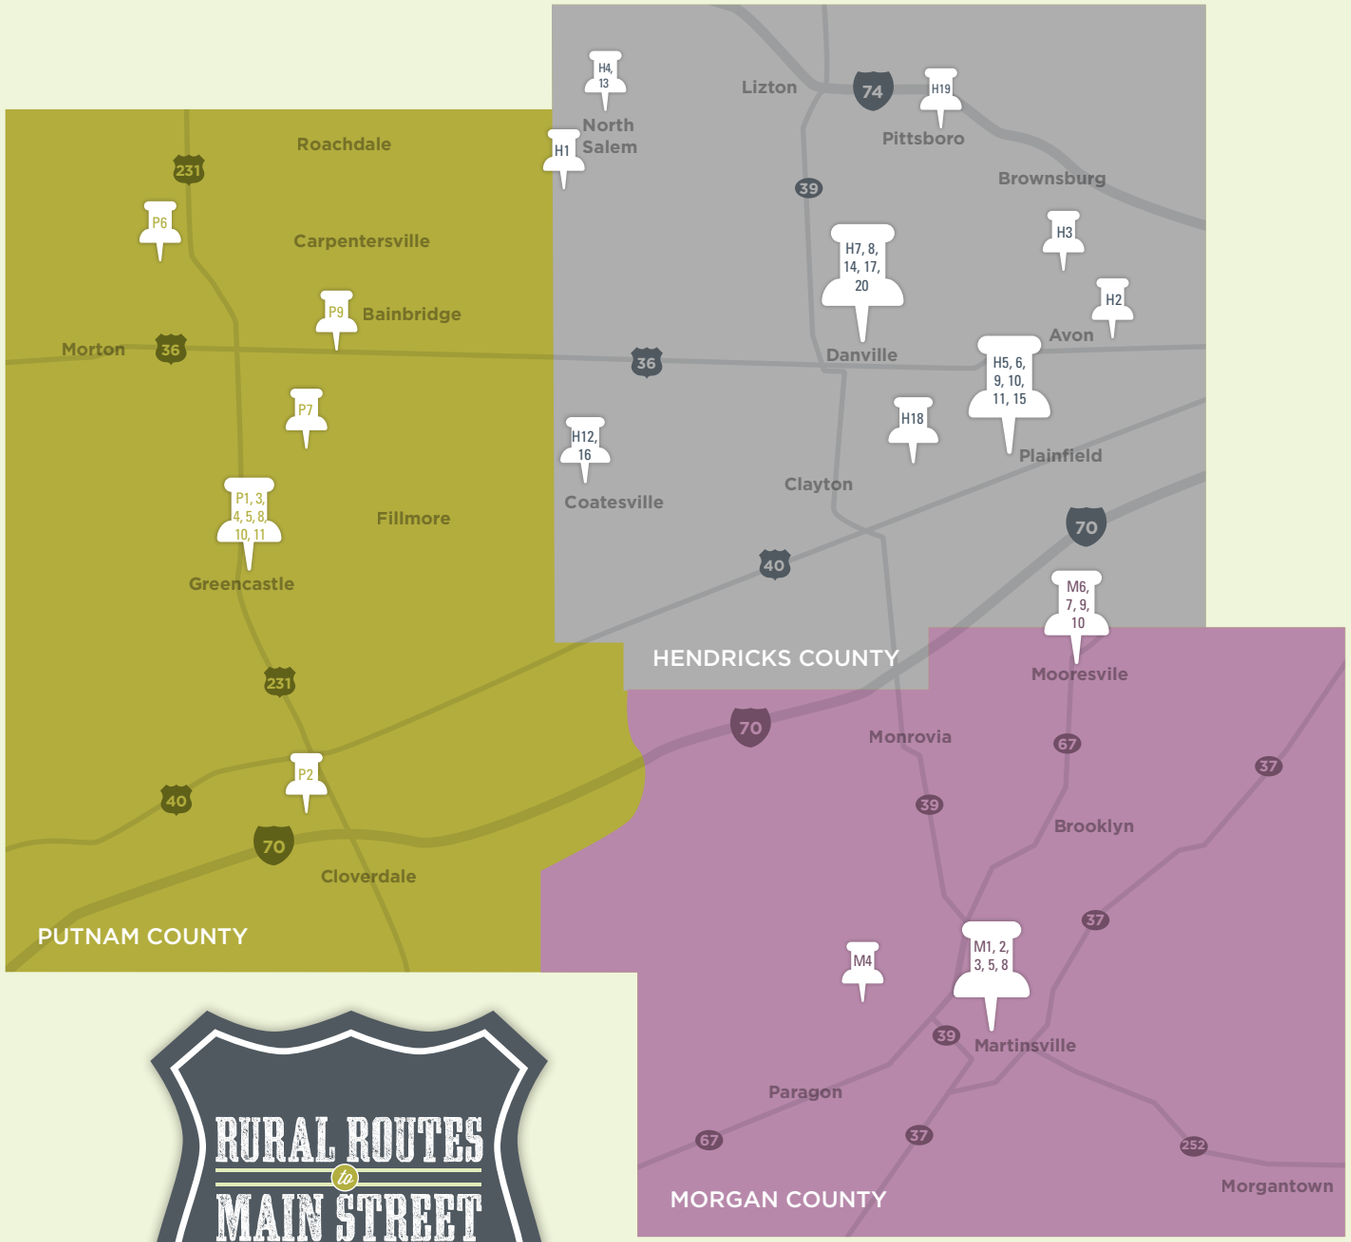
Personalize Your Trip!

Take this guide along with you so you don't miss a stop! Then note your favorite things in the margin of each destination's page. You'll also see recommended stops to further your trip.

Enjoy Special Hours and Events on Second Saturdays

It's TGI*SS* along the Rural Routes to Main Street Cultural Trail! Every Second Saturday, you can enjoy even more along the trail:

1. Some of our destinations hold special events on the Second Saturday. Find upcoming events on the events calendar online at RuralRoutesToMainStreet.com.
2. Other destinations in this booklet open their doors to the public only on Second Saturdays. You'll find those listed on pages 40-43 of this Guidebook. Don't miss these unique opportunities to go behind the scenes at these museums and studios.



RURAL ROUTES to MAIN STREET CULTURAL TRAIL

Make the Trail Your Own!

Below you'll find all of the stops divided into three main categories: Arts & Crafts, Food & Drinks, and Galleries & Studios. To make it easy to locate on the map, each location's number begins with the initial of its home county. You can also cross reference with the page number for each location's detailed listing. Happy trails!

Favorite maple product:

Harris Sugar Bush

The signature item at this quaint rural shop is its all-natural maple syrup, produced on site. Take some home in locally produced jugs or packaged in unique gift jars. Be sure to try the maple cream, maple candy or delicious maple nut toppings, too.

While there, feel free to ask questions of the owners or request a tour to learn how the syrup is made. The shop also offers other products from Indiana producers such as honey, barbeque sauce, jams and jellies, and sorghum. After shopping, relax on the porch swings or play ring toss. This shop is off the beaten path but well worth your time!

Gallery on the Square

Located on the east side of the historic Hendricks County Courthouse Square, this co-op art gallery boasts Hoosier charm and fine arts and crafts from more than two dozen award-winning Indiana artisans. Paintings, photography, sculpture, glass, metal, wood, fiber, jewelry and clay pieces fill the 1,200-square-foot historic building.

The Gallery recently added its year-round "Forever Christmas" display in the new Artisan Market which also features gourmet foods—many of which are exclusive to GOTS. It even hosts regular classes and workshops in watercolor, acrylic, oil painting, drawing, weaving, felting, jewelry-making and deco-clay while regularly holding Paint 'n Sip events.

Putnam County Museum

Interactive and ever-changing, the Putnam County Museum celebrates the area's historical, natural and cultural heritage. In addition to the museum's many exhibits and docent-guided tours, visitors will enjoy a variety of special speakers throughout the year, from astronauts to zebra farmers! Kids have plenty to do here, too, starting with the barn that's inside where young visitors can play with vintage toys, try the dress-up clothes and excavate artifacts in the sand table.

The gift shop offers a fascinating selection of regionally themed books, jewelry, toys, artwork and food items. Groups are welcome, and tour bus parking, celebration and meeting spaces are available.
