Dining Features

Napa Rose at Disney's Grand Californian Hotel® & Spa

At this often Zagat-honored crown jewel of the Orange County culinary scene, French-trained Executive Chef Andrew Sutton tells a Napa Valley story through his frequently changing menu crafted in an exhibition kitchen. The Wine Spectator-awarded wine list highlights California wines, but also 450 international wines and 1,000 different labels from its a 17,000-bottle cellar.

Breweries

Anaheim is experiencing a brewery surge, with 15 currently open and more on the way. Modern Times' Leisuretown is set to open in 2018, which will include boundary-pushing beer, a café, Southern California fare, and a swimming pool complete with a poolside bar, movie screen and great coffee.

Anaheim Packing District

In the restored spaces that were once orange groves and Sunkist® citrus packing facilities, the city's foodie movement thrives at the Anaheim Packing House and Center Street Promenade. The packing house is anchored by a central communal table surrounded by more than 20 artisanal eateries and drinkeries specializing in innovative takes on comfort food.

The RANCH Restaurant & Saloon

Award-winning chef Michael Rossi serves up local farm-to-table fare and beef from the restaurant's own ranch in the Santa Ana Mountains. Master sommelier Michael Jordan oversees an extensive wine cellar that received the 2015 Wine Spectator Award of Excellence. Live country music acts perform on The RANCH Saloon's 40-foot concert stage and in front of a 47-by-26-foot dance floor. The well-appointed Dining and Events Center on the sixth floor can accommodate groups up to 250.

Angel Stadium of Anaheim

Buyout Capacity: 44,050

This gorgeous, twice-renovated Major League Baseball facility has been the home of Angels Baseball since it opened in 1966. Its iconic, 230-foot “Big A” scoreboard, which lends the ballpark its “Big A” nickname, still soars as an illuminated message board. The ballpark features a centerfield “California Spectacular” rock formation and waterfall, two mammoth outfield Daktronics video boards, six full- color LED displays and full-service restaurants.

Honda Center

Buyout Capacity: 19,200

Opened in 1993, this premier sports and entertainment venue is home to the 2007 NHL Stanley Cup champion Anaheim Ducks™. The arena, which has a seating capacity ranging from 17,174 (hockey) to 18,900 (center-stage configuration), is equipped with Cisco’s state-of-the-art StadiumVision platform, incorporating 500 HD monitors and a 27-by-47-foot scoreboard that provides the highest definition picture available in any North American venue. Honda Center also features a 7,000-seat theatre; a 15,000 square-foot Shock Top Terrace, an indoor/outdoor entertainment space with a 250-seat, full-service restaurant and chef-inspired menu; the Standing ‘O’ and Jack Daniel’s Old No. 7 Club restaurants; and two function rooms (Vista Room and Board Room) for private meetings or luncheons.

House of Blues

Buyout Capacity: 3,300

The House of Blues at Anaheim Garden Walk opened in February 2017 with four individual performance areas, including the exclusive Foundation Room for a VIP experience. Catch their famous (and delicious) Sunday brunch with a side of gospel, or enjoy a night out jamming to great music. With access to the world’s most exceptional musical entertainment, custom menus and mixology, this new venue in Anaheim will exceed the expectations of even the most discerning guest.

City National Grove of Anaheim

ACC Buyout Capacity: 5,000

World-class musicians, celebrated comedians and entertainers perform at this venue that also often hosts large private and corporate receptions, dinners and roaming networking events. Each room has a distinctive style and ambiance, among them a vintage industrial lounge, a private outdoor Palm Terrace and an art deco lobby perfect for cocktails.

Colony House

ACC Buyout Capacity: 750

The Colony House is a hip, contemporary, and industrial inspired event venue with craftsman style architectural influences that complement the neighboring Colony District of Anaheim, CA. Owned and operated by 24 carrots, Southern California’s most sought-after catering and events company, the rustic yet stylish 6,000 square foot venue features a number of versatile indoor and outdoor spaces that can host weddings, socials, or any type of corporate event.

We’re excited to help you create a meaningful experience for you and your guests.
