

FOREST HILLS GOLF CLUB

*A course with remarkable history.
It's here Bobby Jones began his 1930
Grand Slam, and where future greats like
Phil Mickelson ('89) and Davis Love III
('81-'82) played during their college years.*

A Legacy of Excellence

Playing golf in Augusta, Georgia is a different experience than playing anywhere else in the world. Home to the prestigious Masters® Golf Tournament, Augusta and its surrounding area boasts a huge stable of courses with an even bigger sense of history.

Although the Augusta National is closed to the public, you can still partake of the same local restaurants and shops the pros enjoy, and play the courses, such as the Aiken Golf Club, frequented by past Masters® winners. Or, tee off at Mount Vintage, which has been designated “a magnificent layout” by golf legend Byron Nelson.

When you play here, stay here. Explore local culture, relax, and enjoy everything our thriving community has to offer from one of our many hotels. Hospitality is, after all, at the heart of Augusta. And with dozens of cultural attractions and entertainment offerings, you’ll discover plenty to do after your time on the links.
