Now Casting: Major Cable Network Looking for Families Moving Back into Their Childhood Homes

Augusta, GA- A production company is looking for families in the Augusta area who are planning or may be planning to move back into their childhood home. The Augusta Convention & Visitors Bureau is pleased to assist Leftfield Entertainment in seeking Augusta participants for an upcoming production.

Full-scale television production company Leftfield Entertainment is working with a major cable network on a new home transformation series. Each episode will follow a different family as they move back into their childhood home and renovate it to their liking. At the same time, the show will follow their parents as they move out of their old home and look for a home for the next chapter of their lives.

Interested families should email desiree.kmiecik@loudtelevision.com. Please include your name, contact information, location, parents' names and contact information, family photos, photos of the home you'll be moving into, and a brief description of what needs to be changed in the home to make it a perfect fit for your family. Families must have at least one child between the ages of 10 and 16 years old living with them full-time. Leftfield will be casting for this series through September.

Leftfield Entertainment has created a number of programs for various networks, such as The History Channel, Discovery, A&E, and FYI.
