THE BOULDER COUNTY Farm trail

Explore Boulder County's farms, from field to fork

Back to Our Roots

Early on, Boulder's residents made clear a deep love for their land. In 1967, Boulder became the first city in the United States to tax itself for funds to be used specifically for the acquisition and management of open space. Around the same time, countywide residents approved the use of public lands for agriculture, seeing value in the care and use of public land by farmers. Today, about 25,000 acres of the county's public lands are leased to farmers.

An even broader agricultural industry feeds Boulder's obsession with fresh foods and its outdoor-loving ethos. There are over 850 farms in Boulder County! This brochure is devoted to a number of those farms that welcome visitors on a regular basis.

It's our hope you'll get out and meet our extraordinary farming community, feel the warm Colorado sunshine on your skin, swing on a tire swing, let a handful of juicy raspberries drip down your chin — and see for yourself why Boulderites are so passionate about our land and the foods that come from it.

5 things to try...

On the Farm

Experience Boulder's acclaimed food scene at its source, get a little dirt on your hands and meet some furry friends.

- Bike-to-farm. Boulder Bike Tours offers scenic rides to local farms via country roads and bike paths with beautiful mountain views. Electric bikes are available. Choose from a Thursday evening ride that ends with fresh pizza pies topped with the day's veggie harvest or a Sunday brunch ride.
- Get farm smarts. On-the-farm classes let you get up close and personal to the land and its farmers. Take a course on wild herb picking and natural medicine at Three Leaf Farm, an officially designated botanical sanctuary; or choose a beekeeping class at Growing Gardens. Check the listings on the opposite side for more ideas.
- Dine fresh. Feel free to kick up your boots, chat and laugh under a string of shimmering lights on Eden-like Lone Hawk Farm. Check our listings for more farms offering dinners, and plan ahead, as they frequently sell out.
- Shop the farms. Pick up some famous peaches-and-cream sweet corn from Munson Farms, savory sausages from SkyPilot Farm, or cheeses, soaps and handcrafted goodies at Isabelle Farm. Or stop at Ollin Farms, where an on-site helper can point you to the best picks. Dig your own irises in May and June at Long's Gardens.
- Picnic in style. Spread out a quilt in the sun, unpack some goodies and lunch it up while you watch life on the farm. Check the listings on the other side for more picnic options.

At the Market

Established more than 30 years ago by a handful of local farmers, the Boulder Farmers Market will fill your belly and soul with happiness. With more than 150 vendors, it's a top visitor attraction and a weekly tradition for residents.

Saturdays, 8am–2pm (First Saturday in April through the Saturday before Thanksgiving)

Wednesdays, 4–8pm (First Wednesday in May through the first Wednesday in October)

- Meet the farmers. Only vendors who grow what they sell are permitted. They tend to be a friendly lot, so feel free to ask questions and admire their crops.
- Redefine “food court” food. Handmade tamales, steamed dumplings, stone-fired pizza and fresh-pressed juices await in the market's prepared foods area. Grab a plate and take a seat at the tables or in a shady spot next to Boulder Creek.
- Sample the goods. Locally crafted artisan cheeses, breads, jams, pastas, salsas, granolas and more are offered throughout the market for you to taste.
- Stop and smell the roses. Farm-grown flower stands bring a riot of color to the market. Pause for a sniff or a photo, and maybe pick up a bunch for your hotel room.
- Jam out. Local bands are often heard striking up some tunes in the food court area. Sit back and watch, or simply listen as the melody floats through the festival-like atmosphere of the market.

On Your Plate

Boulder was named America's Foodiest Town by Bon Appétit, and Pearl Street ranked one of the 10 Best Streets for Foodies in Food & Wine. Why? We think it has a lot to do with an abundance of creative chefs who insist on ingredients plucked straight from local fields.

- Chefs turned farmers. Boulder chefs are taking out the middleman and starting their own farms to ensure only freshly harvested foods make it to your plate. This is true of Black Cat, Blackbelly, Leaf, Salt, Lucile's...we could go on and on.
- Go green. The Kitchen has been called the “greenest restaurant in the West” and is a leader in sustainable, farm-to-fork dining — not to mention deliciousness.
- Cuisine with a conscience. Chef Bradford Heap of Salt Bistro has taken a stand against genetically modified organisms (GMOs), and will only buy from suppliers who can guarantee their products are GMO free. It makes for a menu that's worry-free yet incredibly sumptuous.
- Homegrown collaboration. Seeds Library Cafe in the Boulder Public Library — an organic, locally sourced eatery on a bridge overlooking Boulder Creek — is the result of a partnership between the library and Boulder County Farmers Markets.
- Sip fresh. Try a cocktail made with regional ingredients at Oak on Fourteenth, Salt or Bitter Bar. Sample Colorado wines at three wineries. Go behind the scenes at one of four local distilleries. Or savor our booming craft brewing industry at 20+ breweries around town.

With the Kids

Homegrown fun and simple country pleasures (think strawberry-stained chins and hay stuck in your hair) will have every member of your family grinning from ear to ear.

- Big. Red. Barn. At Longmont's Agricultural Heritage Center, tour a historical farm, pretend to be a draft horse to see how much weight you can pull, and watch as little ones push buttons inside a tractor cab and play at the fruit stand.
- Pumpkins for lil' punkins. During harvest time, Rock Creek Farm goes all out, with acres of pumpkin patches, jumpy castles, slides, farm animals, a hay-bale maze and a corn maze — all with a sweeping vista of the Rocky Mountains.
- Seeds of peace. The Children's Peace Garden is a great place to wander, snap some photos under the charming rainbow entryway with the gorgeous Flatirons as backdrop, and teach little minds about some of Boulder's most cherished ethos: locally grown health foods, kindness, community and peace.
- Babies! Meet baby goats and learn how the farmers milk the does at Growing Gardens on a tour.
- The family that farms together. Volunteer to lend a hand at Sunflower Farm for some quality bonding time. You'll soak up lots of knowledge and inspiring views. Or make a reservation to pick apples together at Ya Ya Farm & Orchard, for a memorable experience among the pretty orchard rows.
