HEART OF THE JOURNEY

*On the Road to Yellowstone
- A story crafted by Brady Mclean*

If the Road to Yellowstone is on your horizon, allow me to suggest Casper as a pro's kick off. My name's Brady, I'm a motorcycle man native to Ol' Wyo and I know this land like the back of my hand. To start, a journey through Wyoming can be as deep or shallow as you choose. I've seen countless tourists take the fastest routes, get their selfie, tag the location on the 'gram and move on to the next. As if travel is some to-do list and the one with the most places visited wins. In my opinion, you can "visit" a place and never actually have "been there." Wyoming isn't just a state – it's a state of mind.

Before you set out on the Road to Yellowstone, spend some time in the heart of Wyoming: Casper. My advice? Kick off your day in downtown Casper at Eggington's - my favorite breakfast spot where I always order more than I can eat. After, take a stroll and pop into the local shops. They say "When in Rome do as the Romans do." I say, "When you roam, do as the roamers do," so make sure to stop in at the iconic Lou Taubert Ranch Outfitters. At Lous you can get proper Wyoming attire, and they even fixed me up with a hat box that I could strap to my bike: BIG win!

Next, with coffee in hand from any of the local coffee shops (Metro, Scarlows, Perfect Cup, you can't go wrong), rip up Casper Mountain for some twisties, elevation and stunning views of the diverse land. You'll see the blend of rugged historic terrain and modern amenities that make up Casper, with local culture deeply rooted in its cowboy heritage and a culture invested in blending that history with modern-day amenities.

No matter how you travel, I encourage you to take your time. Breathe in the local sights and get a feel for the area while you're here - things change a bit once you get to the park! So, before you embark on the long stretches to Yellowstone, fill up on tasty eats, explore the culture, and chat with folks you meet along the way. You'll embark on your Yellowstone adventure with a deeper appreciation for the beauty and spirit that makes Wyoming, Wyoming from the locals at the heart of it.

"... a place that truly defines what it means to call Casper home..."

As a Casper native, spending time on the mountain has always been one of my favorite parts of growing up here. It's the perfect getaway—just a 15-minute drive, yet it feels like a completely different world once I'm there. I'm really thankful that, no matter the season, there's always something fun to do.

Over the years, some of my favorite mountain activities have included gathering around campfires with friends, mountain biking along the Eadsville trails, snowboarding at Hogadon, and capturing the Milky Way through astrophotography on Muddy Mountain. If I had to choose, though, my all-time favorite activity would be running the Bridle Trail, especially in the fall. There's something peaceful about tackling a challenging trail, breathing in the crisp mountain air with yellow leaves crunching beneath every stride.

Casper Mountain is where I love to play and where I've made some of my favorite memories. Whether I'm jamming along on a trail or catching a quiet night under the stars, the mountain continues to inspire and ground me. It's a place that truly defines what it means to call Casper home, and I feel lucky to have such a beautiful escape so close to where I live and work.

“...THE BEST FISHING TOOL...”

Story crafted by Dave Zoby

When I arrived on the North Platte River banks in the sultry summer of 1999, I had just moved back to Wyoming after a year away. I didn't unpack. Instead, I immediately bought an annual non-resident fishing license. At the fly shop, I asked the clerk to pick out a half-dozen flies for me. He urged me to buy a baggie of split shot, advised me to get my flies down, and sold me a pack of yarn indicators. With that, I headed out for Grey Reef, with my only companion - back then - my overweight chocolate lab, Sweets.

Together, we found the parking area at the dam and, as if we had been doing this for years, waded in among the other fly fishermen. Remarkably, I caught several fish on that first outing. Sweets crowded me, nipping at the thrashing fish – some of the largest trout I had ever encountered. The North Platte was living up to its reputation as one of the best tailwaters in the country, thanks in part to the heroic restoration efforts by the local North Platte River Revival group.

I didn't return to Grey Reef for two weeks, but when I came back, the air had cooled a bit; things had changed, and the flies that had worked so well for me no longer were. I stuck with it for hours, venturing to the other access areas, but no luck. Watching a local angler hook fish at regular five-minute intervals, I stowed away my pride and asked him what he was using.

“Rock worm,” he said, showing me a simple size 18 hook wrapped in red material. Even I could tie one of these... The man turned out to be one of the guides who had a rare day off. “Sometimes it's the simplest things,” he added before hooking another rainbow.

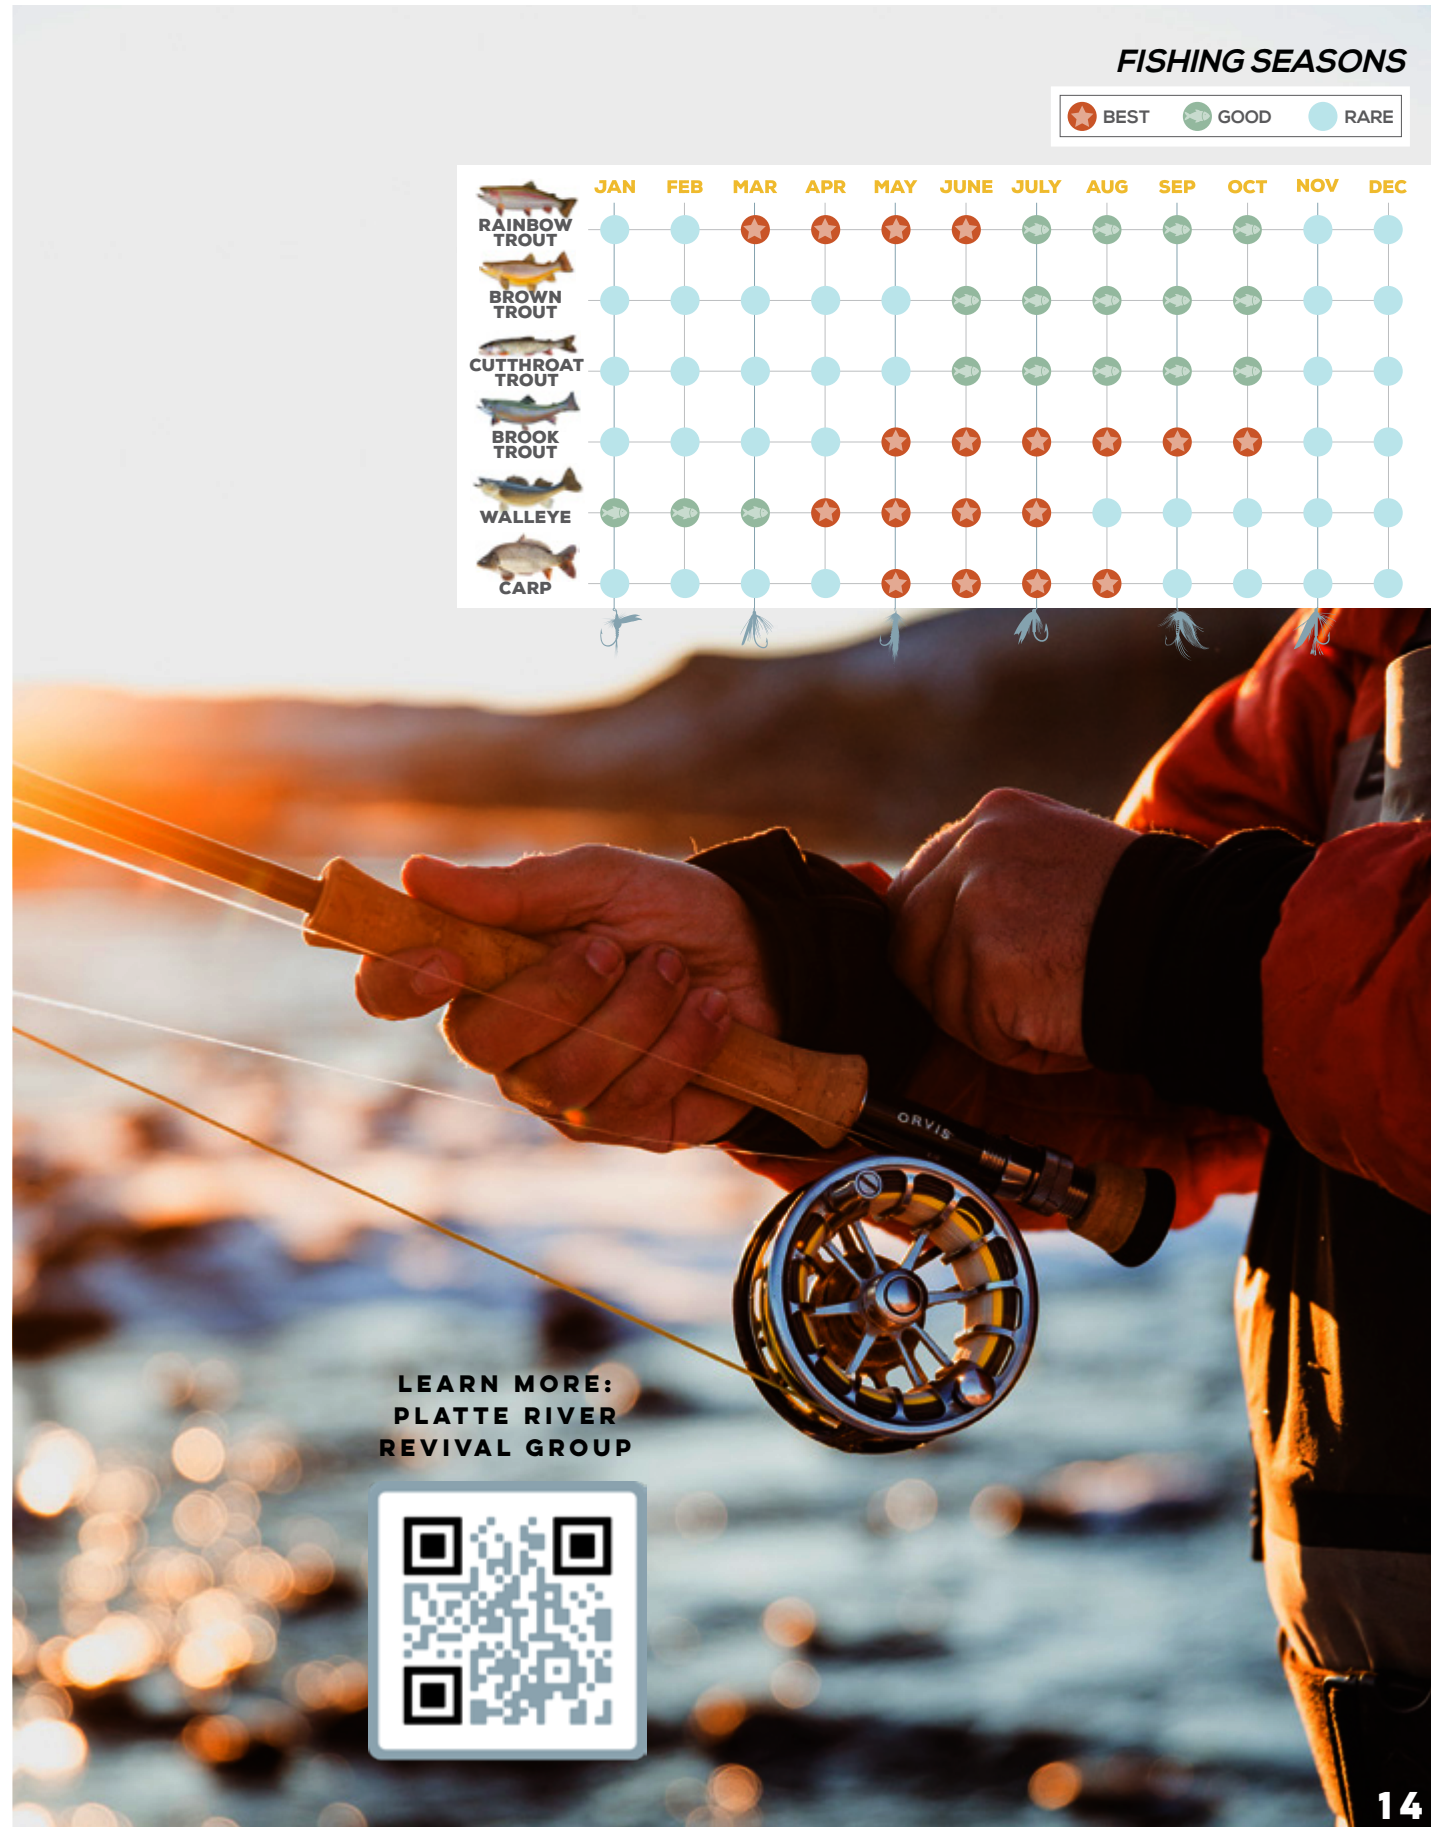

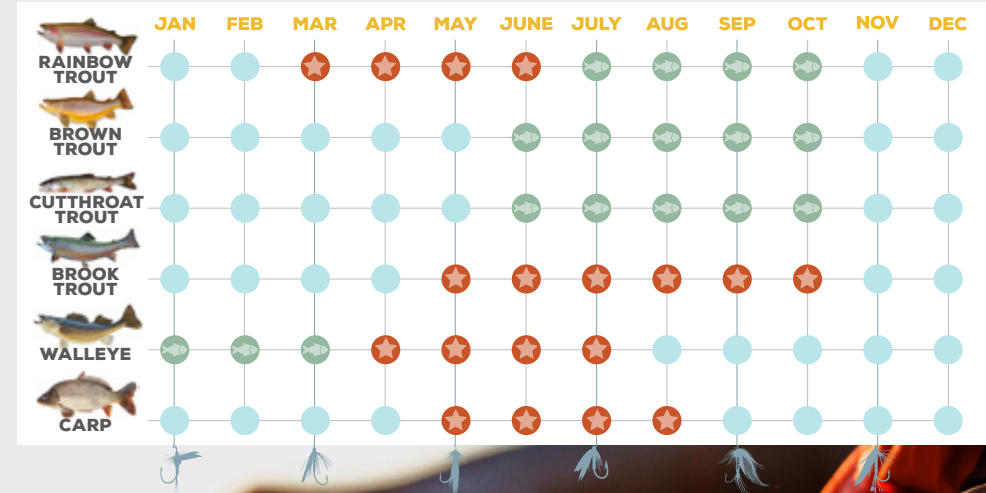

Sweets and I bumbled around Natrona County, getting lost on two-tracks without catching a single fish. My only success in those early days was when I fished with locals or dropped into fly shops to read the chalkboards. Because it's a tailwater, there's open water year-round. Decades of knowledge are passed down from seasoned guides to the young upstarts, all of which was available to me had I only taken the time to talk to the professionals behind the counters. But I was a slow learner, and didn't do things the easy way back then.

The conclusion I came to that year was that the North Platte River system has no rival, and the best fishing tool is, without a doubt, the knowledge of the locals who came before me – who fished, tried, failed, and learned. When I try to compare the North Platte to other tailwaters, when I try to suggest a place with a chance at a trophy rainbow, I can't think of anything that equals this one-of-a-kind stretch just outside Casper.

Though I came to these realizations and techniques over time, if I could go back to 1999 and find myself on the riverbanks, I would advise my younger-self to make friends with those guides and save myself a ton of trouble.

“...NOT JUST A SPORT; IT’S AN ART...”

CICI

Fly Fishing - with Ugly Bug Fly Shop

Born and raised near Omaha, NE, my parents took my brother and me west on fly fishing trips every summer. Who would’ve known that one day – after being drawn to the mountains to study Environmental Sciences at Utah State University – that I’d end up graduating and moving to Casper to manage the very shop that took us on our guided trips way back then!

One of the reasons I love living and working in Casper, at the Ugly Bug Fly Shop and Crazy Rainbow Fly Fishing, is how tight knit the community is here. We have so many enthusiastic anglers, and the relationships we build with returning guests are invaluable. Fly fishing is not just a sport; it’s an art passed down generationally amongst Casper natives and shared with anyone eager to learn more about the sport.

I’m so proud of the Ugly Bug and Crazy Ladies events that have been offered and flourishing over the past 5 years. We’re growing more each year with women traveling to attend from as far away as New York!

Fly fishing has historically been a male-dominated sport, but these events and courses help bridge the gap between interest and action, and I’m so proud to help remove the barrier of entry to the sport – creating avenues for women to become lifelong anglers.

I’m excited to continue to cultivate interest in and care for these new horizons, our traditions, and our fishery. We’ve worked to maintain a long season (almost 10 months), a healthy and diverse trout population, a river that allows for many methods of fly fishing, and a central location that’s easy to access while still feeling like the ‘Wild West’.

One of my passions is providing opportunities for others to experience fly fishing, after all, as I think there’s a lot to be found in Casper’s fly-fishing culture (and not only in the pursuit of fish). Whether you are looking for a new hobby, to immerse yourself in nature, find new community, or embrace a new challenge, you can find that here, and we’re so proud to be a staple in Casper fly fishing.

AGRICULTURAL TOURISM

AGRICULTURE

While Natrona County is most well-known for its year-round outdoor recreational opportunities, the energy industry that helped it grow into the community we enjoy today, and a growing art scene, agriculture has been at the heart of Casper since its founding. Explore a piece of our agricultural history at The Bishop House, the former home of Wyoming sheep rancher and postmaster Marvin L. Bishop and his family.

Get away to the One and Only Casper, where you can pick out fresh produce during the summers at our many local Farmers Markets, savor delicious Wyoming raised beef at Frank’s Butcher Shop, and try your hand at learning some ranch skills with the C-Bracket Horse Barn.

Then, visit our friend Cathy at The Bloomery on select summer nights to enjoy her sheep-ranch-turned-flower-farm that is now one of the most unique concert venues in the county! Still enjoying their horses, raising feisty poultry, and growing stunning wildflowers, you’ll feel right at home in their backyard oasis; enjoying whatever performance you attend!

CATHRYN BECKER- Owner & Creator of The Bloomery

I always dreamt the farm would be a place for people to ‘step off the world for a while.’ A land and haven for both people and wildlife. In 2020, I finally began to plan that dream and, with a flower garden planted and the first summer concerts booked, the farm ‘bloomed’ as it was always meant to.

This land, with over a century’s worth of owners contributing to its uniqueness, reflects the agri-based businesses and cultures of Casper and Wyoming. From the old bunkhouse to the native prairie (home to all kinds of wildlife), where we stand is rich with history that inspires us to be good stewards of it and our world.

While I don’t know what the future holds, The Bloomery grew from 39 attendees at our first show to over 300 last summer. There’s magic in every event and word of “Summer Concerts on the Farm” is spreading among artists and bands from all over the country! With the mission of The Bloomery at the forefront (to host an accessible, welcoming, and memorable space for every visitor), the realization that the farm means so much to so many people inspires me to look to a future full of opportunities. From summer shows to creative and educational workshops and, of course, flowers!

THE ONLY PATH TO THE PAST

At the heart of Wyoming lies some of the state's richest history, just waiting to be uncovered. Casper's storied past reaches as far back as the prehistoric era, through to the American Indian trails, fur trappers, and pioneers, and into the Wild West, a thriving oil and gas industry, and WWII. Casper offers a hands-on journey through time and history, and the best way to experience our touchable history is to just dive in.

PREHISTORIC WYOMING

The area's amazing history stretches back thousands, even millions, of years. Connect with ancient history and start your journey through time by visiting the Tate Geological Museum at Casper College – where you can discover rich geological and prehistoric exhibits all for free! You can even watch as paleontologists work on their latest findings, and meet Dee, an 11,600-year-old Columbian Mammoth, along with thousands of his fossilized companions. At Alcova Reservoir, you can hike the Cottonwood Creek Dinosaur Trails and encounter fossils of some of the earliest dinosaurs in their natural setting.

WHERE HISTORIC TRAILS MEET

As pioneers and forty-niners headed west in the mid-1800s, Casper became a central hub for some of the nation's most historical and well-traveled trails. With the Oregon, California,

Pony Express, and Mormon Trails all converging here, more than half a million travelers stopped in Casper to rest and refuel before continuing on their journeys. The stories they left etched into the landscapes extend beyond the trails themselves, though, as pioneers would carve their names into Independence Rock - a fascinating historical landmark - before resuming their final treks west. A remarkable site, the rock sits just 50 miles southwest of Casper off Highway 220, where you can still see the names of those inspiring adventurers.

Visitors can learn more about the trails at the world-class National Historical Trails Interpretive Center, Fort Caspar Museum and the Mormon Handcart Visitors Center at Martin's Cove; where each visit offers the chance to connect with the past and create lasting memories.

THE OIL CITY

As early pioneers began to see the beauty of Casper, a settlement was built. What started as a cluster of shacks transformed into a small town of 1,000 residents in the 1800s. Following the oil boom of the early 1900s, Casper's population skyrocketed – growing by over 600% - earning our small western town the title of the “Oil capital of the Rockies”.

MILITARY & AVIATION

During World War II, Casper briefly served as an Army Air Base contributing their support to the war effort. Today, remnants of that era can be explored at The Hangar (just 10-minutes from Casper), or the Casper/Natrona County International Airport, where several original buildings and hangars still stand, including the Wyoming Veterans Memorial Museum.

Scan the QR Code for a self-guided tour, where you'll dive into fascinating stories about the airport's wartime operations and how soldiers had their own bowling alley right on base! These museums and tours offer a chance to connect with a little-known, but important history, while honoring the sacrifice made.

Renowned specials filmed here include a special for “Ghost Adventures”, and National Geographic’s “Running Wild with Bear Grylls - The Challenge”, which followed actor Bradley Cooper as he navigated the rugged wind-swept Wyoming Basin and repelled into Fremont Canyon.

Casper has also hosted major feature films (and film stars), including: Hell Fighters (1968) and its star John Wayne, and the legendary sci-fi film Starship Troopers (1997). Set amidst the almost-alien terrain of Casper’s iconic Hell’s Half Acre, the stars spent weeks in Casper as they battled it out for the fate of the world against their giant alien insect foes.

These adventures and films highlight Casper’s untamed beauty and dramatic vistas; offering visitors and prospective filmmakers the chance to immerse themselves in the landscapes that have captured the imagination of creative minds for decades.

Home to Film Casper (an organization that collaborates with local, state, and federal agencies, and which helps filmmakers and production teams achieve their project visions), Casper continues to uphold its reputation as a valuable filming destination by supporting projects in a variety of industries. From education to advertising, the growing community of film-workers and enthusiasts are here to provide the best of what Casper has to offer in film and television.

One of Wyoming's Best Kept Secrets...

With a variety of outdoor recreation areas within a 15-minute drive from town, you're never too far from Casper's iconic sporting events, activities, or culinary scene!

OUTDOOR RECREATION

Rock Climbing

When it comes to rock climbing, Casper may not be at the top of your list, but it should be! Situated 30-minutes from Casper is Fremont Canyon - one of the most beautiful, hidden destinations in Wyoming. With towering rock walls and the North Platte River flowing through it, the canyon is just as visually beautiful as it is challenging. With steep canyon walls, climbs range from 40 to 400+ feet and range in difficulty from 5.6 to 5.13, allowing for climbers of all skill levels to experience and enjoy this best-kept Casper secret.

Biking

It's never too early to tune your mountain bike up for the season! Casper has an exciting up-and-coming mountain biking scene on Casper Mountain: home to beautifully lush trails of varying difficulty and length. For riders looking for paved trails, look no further than the miles of concrete paths that stretch and wind along the Platte River Trails. No matter your skill level, Casper is home to bike trails and paths guaranteed to offer a memorable and scenic spring ride.

Wildlife Watching

Wildlife is abundant in-and-around Casper, but especially in spring when the deer roam with their fawns, birds begin their warm-weather songs, and small mammals emerge from their winter-shelters. While Edness Kimball Wilkins State Park boasts beautiful trails and premium fishing locations, the park is also well-known for being a must-experience wildlife-watching destination and designated important bird area by the Wyoming Audubon Society.

Just a 10-minute drive from Casper and with over 360-acres nestled on the North Platte River, the area features endless cottonwood trees and riparian areas making it a natural habitat for a variety of wildlife including birds, deer, antelope, and fox: a wildlife and bird watchers' paradise.

What is 5150'? It's the nickname our locals have fondly given the Casper-area based on our elevation. To close out the summer, local vendors, musicians, and food trucks gather downtown to celebrate all things Casper.

OUTDOOR RECREATION

Golf

Though a round or two might already be played by the first day of summer, golfing is in full swing come June. With two visitor-friendly courses, tee times are easy to come by in Casper.

At Three Crowns - a former oil refinery once known for pumping out 100,000 barrels of oil during its prime in 1923 - the front and back nine are as challenging as they are scenic, with clear views of Casper Mountain. If players are feeling hungry, they can also stop in at Three Crowns' restaurant, The Refinery, for refreshments and food!

Casper Municipal Golf Course, also featuring stunning views of the mountain, is a more affordable and beginner-friendly course. The course has three different nine-hole courses, and offers twilight golf where players can take advantage of discounted prices after 5pm!

PRIDE

Celebrate Casper PRIDE with a full week of events, festivals, and community gatherings honoring the LGBTQI community in Casper and Wyoming.

Casper Collins Day

This family-friendly event will take you back in time at the historic Fort Caspar, named for Caspar Collins (Casper's namesake!). Make this event part of your tour along the historic trails that converge in Casper, Wyoming.

Beartrap Summer Music Festival

Get out your dancing shoes for the Beartrap Music Festival. Each summer, crowds gather to enjoy a weekend of concerts, vendors, and beautiful views.

Summer Hiking

Sitting five-minutes south of town, Casper Mountain teems in the summer months with wildlife and outdoor enthusiasts. With over 50-miles of multi-use trails to ride, hike, or run, time between the iconic mountain sunrises and sunsets is easily lost.

Here, you can hit the trails for hiking or mountain biking and set up camp at any of the designated camping areas to enjoy the peace of nature.

Local favorite hikes include the Bridle Trail at Rotary Park - a 4.5-mile loop that wraps around the Garden Creek Falls waterfall and showcases stunning vistas of Casper, or the 4.1-mile Eadsville Trail - starting at the Casper Mountain Trails Center and immersing visitors in the mountain's lush forest filled with colorful Aspen trees.

THE ONLY WAY TO RODEO

"THE WESTERN SPIRIT IS PALPABLE..."

- A short story by local Chelsea Combe

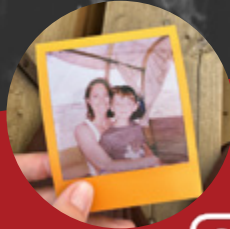

There is something electrifying about Casper when the CNFR rambles into town every June. As a Casper local, it's challenging to fully capture the essence of CNFR – it's a cultural celebration that demands to be experienced on its own. Yet the western spirit is palpable: summertime digs her spurs in, cowboy hats flood the city streets and Casper comes alive as an ode to tradition in its truest form. From downtown Casper to the dirt arena in the Ford Wyoming Center, I find rodeo culture is enticing locals and visitors to come closer. I tend to be drawn to the western fashion scene between eight-second rides. When I'm not showing off my Wyoming roots through fashion, you can find me chasing down live music, swinging on the dance floor, and on the edge of my seat rooting for the cowgirls and cowboys at CNFR. On your trip to CNFR, I encourage you to immerse yourself in all Casper has to offer. The rodeo is a direct reflection of what makes this place memorable, and I promise you'll leave better than you came (and likely with a new pair of boots).

"... FAST-PACED, ACTION FILLED AND JUST ALL-AROUND FUN." - A short story by Natalie Kovarik

My family and I have attended the CNFR four summers in a row; it's one of our favorite mini family vacations to take. With our location in the Midwest, it's an easy drive to Casper and provides a stress-free and affordable getaway. We absolutely love CNFR. It's fast-paced, action filled, and all-around fun. No matter what night of the week you attend, there always seems to be a large crowd, making for a great atmosphere. Beyond the rodeo, Casper offers a handful of great activities for families. Our favorites include Alcova Reservoir for amazing views and on-the-water fun; we've kayaked, hiked and taken boat cruises – each time we've left excited to come back again. We also enjoy the National Historic Trails Interpretive Center; it's a fun way to learn the history of the area. Take your family trip up a level and book a tour with Historic Trails West. Your family will get to ride in a covered wagon and eat a Dutch oven meal; it's fun for kids and parents alike. We really cannot say enough great things about Casper, Wyoming.
