SHOOTING ON CATALINA ISLAND

Catalina Island is a very unique and desirable location; however it is not for everyone. There are unique and special features in staging and promoting shoot on Catalina Island, and in some cases these features create challenges in logistics and cost control.

Jurisdictions

There are several businesses/agencies/entities involved in shooting on Catalina Island. Each entity has its own insurance needs, requirements, permits and approval process.

City of Avalon – The City is responsible for all of the roads, structures, services and facilities within the town of Avalon, unless otherwise shown as a Santa Catalina Island Company property. The City will be the clearinghouse and will drive the permitting process. The Catalina Island Chamber of Commerce helps facilitate the permitting process for the City. The City of Avalon will also generate cost estimates for city services, sheriff services and other pertinent fees, where applicable.

City of Avalon Harbor Department – Operates all on water operations and the Green Pier. All moorings, boat traffic patterns and pier operations must run through the Harbor Department.

Santa Catalina Island Company \(SCICo\) and Catalina Island Resort Services \(CIRS\) – Operates the Casino Building, Catalina Island Golf Course, Catalina Island Country Club, Descanso Beach Club and other individual roads and facilities in the City of Avalon. The “Island Company” is a great resource for research and facility usage. They also own and operate some roads within the Interior.

Catalina Island Conservancy – The Conservancy operates the Memorial Gardens in Avalon and the entire “Interior” of Catalina Island. If an event is to take place outside of the City of Avalon, then most likely it will be held on Conservancy property and a Conservancy issued permit will be required.

Los Angeles County Baywatch Lifeguards – The lifeguard office has jurisdiction over all paramedic services on the island, they initiate any Search & Rescue operations, and oversee all safety issues on the beaches or in the water.

Catalina Island Fact Sheet

OWNERSHIP:

The first American owner was Thomas Robbins who acquired the island in 1846 by a land grant from Pio Pico, the last Mexican governor of California. The island land changed hands several times before most of the island was acquired by the Banning brothers who incorporated the Santa Catalina Island Company in 1894. Present ownership of that company stems from majority interest stock purchases made by William Wrigley Jr. in 1919. In 1975, the Santa Catalina Island Conservancy, a non-profit operating foundation, acquired title to approximately 42,139 acres of Catalina, now owns approximately 88% of the island's 76 square miles.

CITY OF AVALON:

Avalon, the major city on the island, is a general law city and was incorporated in 1913. The population is about 3,700, although summer and weekend population rises to over 10,000. The area of the city is approximately 802 acres, or slightly over one square mile. Approximately 30% of the land area in Avalon is independently owned. The other 70% is owned by the Santa Catalina Island Company. Private property may be purchased from individual owners.

GOVERNMENT AND UTILITIES:

Avalon is governed by a 5-member City Council, including Mayor. The chief administrator of Avalon is the City Manager. Avalon is in Los Angeles County and Police and Fire protection, the Sheriff's Department, the Library, the Health Nurse, and the Justice Court is through a contract with Los Angeles County. The school system (Grade K through 12) is part of the Long Beach Unified School District. Avalon has a 12-bed municipal hospital with an adjoining medical clinic. Electricity, water and gas for Catalina are supplied by Southern California Edison Company. Telephone service is by Pacific Bell Company with microwave service between Catalina and the mainland.

CATALINA "FIRSTS":

Communication:

Pigeons were used to carry messages between Catalina and the mainland from the 1850's to as late as 1899.

The world's first commercial wireless telegraph station was built in Catalina in 1902, and was the news source for Avalon's newspaper, The Wireless. The first commercial radio telephone system was installed at Pebbly Beach in Avalon in 1919. The first American-made submarine cables in the U.S. were laid between Avalon and the mainland laid in 1923. The first civilian use of microwave system (a World War II secret development), the Catalina microwave station was installed in May 1946.

Transportation:

The first side-wheeler boat service to Catalina was in 1880. The first cross-channel steamer service began in 1888. The first cross-channel airplane flight was made by Glenn L. Martin in 1912. The first commercial aviation service between Catalina and the mainland (by amphibian airplane) was in 1919. The first helicopter service between Catalina and the mainland was in 1977. Avalon is the first city in California empowered by the State Legislature to control the number, size, speed, and noise of vehicles operating within the city limits.

Recreation:

The Catalina Island Golf Course was the first golf course in Southern California, built in 1892. The first successful glass bottom boat was launched in Catalina in 1896. The first cross-channel swim, named the Wrigley Ocean Marathon, was held in 1927.

TRANSPORTATION IN AVALON:

Taxi, tram, and bus services operate in Avalon. The most common mode of transportation is golf carts, bicycles, and walking. The use of private automobiles is subject to City permit. Avalon is the only city in California authorized by the State Legislature to regulate the number and size of vehicles authorized to drive on city streets. Currently, there is an 8-10 year waiting list to own a car on the island and there are no rental cars available. In Avalon, there are 557 personal cars & trucks, 204 commercial vehicles, 925 golf carts, and 147 motorcycles/mopeds.

YACHTING:

Catalina is a popular offshore rendezvous for Southern California yachtsmen. Moorings, supplies and services for yachtsmen are available in Avalon (check with Harbor Master) and at Two Harbors (contact Catalina Harbor Department). Avalon Harbor is a no discharge area and moorings are on a first-come, first-serve basis. There are approximately 400 moorings at Avalon, approximately 720 moorings elsewhere around Catalina Island, including 257 at Isthmus Cove.

MINING:

In 1863 and 1864, gold and silver prospectors stampeded to Catalina and, under the mistaken impression they were on public lands, staked out “claims”, but they were forced off the island when the U.S. (Union) Army occupied Catalina during the Civil War. However afterwards, mining was resumed on an organized basis. In the 1920’s, a mine in the Black Jack area and another in the Pebbly Beach area were developed and successfully extracted silver, zinc and lead until the reduced value of these metals made operations unprofitable and the mines were closed.

EL RANCHO ESCONDIDO:

Completely renovated in 2005, El Rancho Escondido is a working ranch in Catalina’s interior where horses are raised and trained. Some of America’s finest Arabians are from this ranch, as proved by the many awards and ribbons to be seen on display in the tack room. Daily horse shows for passengers on the Inland Motor Tour.

ANIMALS:

Catalina is home to an interesting variety of land and marine animals. Catalina is the only Channel Island with rattlesnake or native quail. The island has its own subspecies of ground squirrel and its own subspecies of the Channel Island fox. Catalina’s native species are an essential part of a special and interesting ecosystem. Since its discovery by the Spaniards, many animals have been introduced to Catalina, including pig, goat, deer, and the American Bison. Fourteen buffalo (Bison) were brought to Catalina in 1924 for use in the filming of “The Vanishing American” and then were left here. In 1934, eleven additional buffalo were purchased to supplement the herd, which by then had increased to nineteen. Today there are approximately 200 buffalo roaming Catalina Island.

BIRDS:

More than 100 species or varieties of birds make Catalina their permanent or transitory home. They include the Catalina Quail, (Lophortyx californica catalinensis), a separate and distinct subspecies that grows larger than the mainland quail. Other Catalina birds include ravens, mocking birds, shrikes, burrowing owls, red-tailed hawks, peregrine falcons, turkey and bald eagles. Through a joint project of the Catalina Conservancy and the Institute for Wildlife Studies, the magnificent bald eagle again soars above Catalina. The island is also home to pelicans, cormorants and is a nesting site for western gulls.

FISH:

The game fish of Catalina include the marlin and broadbill swordfish, tuna, yellowtail, albacore, white sea bass, barracuda, mackerel and bonito. Other Catalina fish include black sea bass, opaleye, halfmoon, Garibaldi, kelp bass, kelp perch, kelpfish, sheepshead, California moray, grouper, red snapper, sand dabs, sole, halibut, whitefish, sculpin, flying fish and shark.

FLORA:

Land – There are 396 identified species of plant life on Santa Catalina Island. Eight are endemic or native only to Catalina. In addition to the Catalina Ironwood (Lyonothamnus floribundus floribundus) and St. Catherine’s Lace (Erigonum giganteum giganteum), these include Catalina Mahogany (Cerocarpus traskiae), Wild Tomato (Solanum wallacei wallacei), Catalina manzanita (Arctostaphylos catalinae), Catalina Bedstraw (Galium catalinense), Yerba Santa (Eriodictyon traskiae traskiae), and Live Forever (Dudleya hassei). Other trees and plants native to Catalina include Catalina Cherry, Island Oak, Toyon, California Lilac (2 species), Island Bush Poppy, Mariposa Lily, Blue Dicks, Shooting Star and Island Poppy. Plants introduced over the years that thrive in Catalina include many species of Eucalyptus, Palm, various conifers, Cacti, Geranium and several beautiful forms of Bougainvillea.

Sea – Catalina marine plants include Giant Bladder Kelp, Southern Sea Palm, Sea Heather (Sargassum), and several varieties of colorful Algae.

CAMPING:

Avalon: The Hermit Gulch Campground is the closest campground to town and is located on Avalon Canyon Road and accommodates 200 people. This trailhead campground provides BBQ pits (no wood fires), picnic tables, and indoor hot showers and is handicapped accessible. Rental tepees and equipment are available and there is a small general store. A ranger is on site 24 hours a day. Tram service is offered in the summer from downtown Avalon. Interior of Catalina Island: Catalina campsites include Blackjack, Little Harbor, Two Harbors and Parson's Landing. The Blackjack Campground is nestled among pine and eucalyptus trees in Catalina's interior near 2,097-foot Mt. Orizaba, Santa Catalina Island's highest peak. At 1,600 feet above sea level, the facility provides eleven campsites with sweeping views of rolling terrain to the ocean. Little Harbor Campground is rated "One of the Best Campgrounds in the West" by Sunset Magazine. Little Harbor is a sandy, beachfront campground located about seven miles east of Two Harbors and 16 miles from Avalon. The Two Harbors Campground offers regular tent camping and unique tent cabins. The campground sits on a bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean at Catalina's Isthmus, just a quarter-mile outside the village of Two Harbors. The campground features 42 individual sites and three group-camping areas. The Parson's Landing Campground offers eight secluded beach primitive camping site, located seven miles west of the village of Two Harbors. Camping is by permit only and advance reservations are required. Contact the Santa Catalina Island Company at 310-510-TENT (8368).

HIKING:

For safety and maximum enjoyment, hiking into the interior requires a hiking permit (no fee), which can be obtained at the Santa Catalina Island Conservancy's Visitor Office at 125 Clarissa Avenue, Avalon.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND CONSERVANCY:

In 1972, members of the Wrigley Family established the Santa Catalina Island Conservancy as a private, non-profit organization dedicated solely to the conservation and preservation of Catalina Island. With more than 42,000 acres and 48 miles of coastline under its charge, the Conservancy's legal mandate is to preserve the island's native plants and animals, its biological communities and its geological and geographical formations of educational interest. Equally important, the Conservancy also manages the island's open space for controlled recreational purposes.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY:

In 1974, in a significant gesture to help create the Conservancy area, an easement agreement was signed with Los Angeles County, giving the County the right to share the use of 42,000 acres of Catalina's interior and much of its coastline for park, conservation and recreation uses for a period of 50 years. Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation designed a 3000-square foot interpretive center, which is located in Avalon Canyon, just below the Wrigley Memorial and Botanical Garden. The center consists of displays showing the history of the Easement Agreement with the Conservancy, a large topographical relief map of Catalina Island and various other displays on the flora and fauna of the area.

CATALINA'S "AIRPORT-IN-THE-SKY":

The Airport in the Sky is open to the public and owned and operated by the Santa Catalina Island Conservancy. It is located approximately 10 road miles from Avalon. At an elevation of 1,602 feet it was built by leveling two mountain peaks. An asphalt-paved 3250-foot runway can handle aircraft up to and including DC-3's. The Administration Building has Pilot's Lounge, a historical native Indian artifacts display, DC3 Gifts and Grill and restrooms. Breakfast and lunch is served daily. At the airport, the Catalina Conservancy has established the Catalina Nature Center to help visitors enjoy and understand the exceptional characteristics of Catalina's natural history and native plant botanical. This is also a hub for nature hiking in Santa Catalina.

GEOGRAPHY:

From the mainland at the San Pedro breakwater to the city of Avalon is 21.8 miles; to Two Harbors it is 19.7 miles. Catalina's "Airport-In-The-Sky" is approximately 37 miles SSW of Los Angeles International Airport. Distance from Avalon to Two Harbors is 13.4 miles by boat, 23 miles by road. The length of the Island is 21 miles and the width is 8 miles at its widest point (Long Point) and 1/2 mile at Two Harbors at the Isthmus. Its perimeter is 54 miles and encompasses approximately 47,884 acres or about 76 square miles. The highest elevations are Mt. Orizaba (2,069 feet) and Mount Black Jack (2,006 feet). The deepest water between Catalina and the mainland is approximately 3,000 feet or more than 1/2 mile. Water temperature ranges from 64 to 73 degrees in the summer and 54 to 59 degrees in winter.
