The National Women's Hall of Fame located in Seneca Falls, NY - the birthplace of the American Women's Rights Movement. In 1848 Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucretia Mott and 300 other women and men held the first Women's Rights Convention. The Declaration of Sentiments, modeled after the Declaration of Independence, was presented and passed by the convention. These resolutions included, among other demands, that women had the right to vote. Seventy two years later, in 1920, the 19th amendment to the constitution was ratified, which gave women many rights, including the right to vote. In 1969 the women and men of Seneca Falls created the National Women's Hall of Fame, believing that the contributions of American women deserved a permanent home in the small village where the fight for women's rights began. The National Women's Hall of Fame is the nations oldest membership organization dedicated to recognizing and celebrating the achievements of great American women. (womenofthehall.org)

When visitng the National Women's Hall of Fame, please check out these local women owned businesses:
