CEDAR PARK, TEXAS - The Coleman NHL Combine completed its two-week training camp at The Crossover. This camp brought boys and girls from 12 states and two countries to help further their hockey skills.

The Coleman NHL Combine is a joint project between Shawn Killian, Founder of Planet Hockey, Inc. and Blake Coleman, current Calgary Flames forward, two-time Stanley Cup Champion and former Planet Hockey student.

Planet Hockey has been running resident skills camps for 24 years in Colorado, Vermont and Massachusetts. This camp would make their first in Texas.

The Combine is designed to provide highly committed and skilled players, ages 14-16, a unique training experience with elite skills trainers that positively influence and motivate them by providing information, lessons and experiences that will accelerate their hockey skills. It infuses innovative skills training both on and off the ice by including consulting, classroom sessions, dryland training and individual skills training. Students receive exposure to proven and effective on ice techniques, off ice training, research instruction on nutrition, preparation, goal setting, distraction management, leadership and after high school opportunities.

“It was a pleasure to come to Cedar Park to train the players and to instruct so many Texas players. Being from Texas, it was fun to work with the future of hockey in Texas. I was pleased with the skill level of the Texas players and enjoyed my time this summer at the Crossover. It was the perfect facility to host our event,” said Blake Coleman.
