PRICELESS GEM TOUR

3 PM

UNC Visitors Center / 250 East Franklin Street Chapel Hill (919) 962-1630

This distinctive walking tour provides an African-American history of the University, with emphasis on the 19th and 20th centuries. The Black and Blue tour contributes to a real understanding of our past as we build a better Carolina and work to create a fuller perspective of Carolina's history. Our guide, Robert Porter, has more than 30 years of experience as a lecturer in the department of African, African American, and Diaspora Studies and has won numerous teaching awards. He remains passionate about his interests in history, public history and African-American history, all of which go back to his grade-school days. The Black and Blue tours depart from the UNC Visitors Center lobby. www.unc.edu/visitors/

"I AM A MAN" CIVIL RIGHTS PHOTOGRAPHS, 1960-1970

5:30 PM TO 7:30 PM

Center for the Study of the American South / 410 East Franklin St Chapel Hill (919) 962-5665

Opening Reception: "I AM A MAN" Civil Rights Photographs, 1960-1970 - The images in this collection offer a glimpse into the courage and brutality of the 1960s, a decade that unleashed hope for the future as well as profound and tumultuous changes. Viewers will recognize photographs of protesters carrying signs with messages such as "I AM A MAN" or sitting at segregated lunch counters as iconic, familiar images associated with the Civil Rights Movement. An inter-institutional team of researchers led by Professor Emeritus Bill Ferris collected these photographs for a recent exhibit at the Pavillon Populaire in Montpellier, France. For our opening reception, we will be joined by Doris Derby, acclaimed photographer of the Civil Rights Movement. Join us as we pay tribute to the students, organizers, journalists, and ordinary citizens who risked their lives to end Jim Crow segregation within the American South. This event is free and open to the public. Photographs will remain on display through May 2019. south.unc.edu/

CONVERSATIONS WITH SCHOLARS

2 PM TO 3:30 PM

Chapel Hill Public Library / 100 Library Dr. Chapel Hill (919) 968-2777

The Lasting Environmental Impact of the Great War - A Global Environmental History of the First World War, Tait Keller Associate Professor of History at Rhodes College. Keller's new book, Green and Grim, will be the first global environmental history of the Great War, focusing on how energy geopolitics linked the battle lines and home fronts with industry and agriculture in ways that transformed the environment around the world. In 1914, agriculture, industry, and warfare formed a violent triad geared for the production of destruction. While combat caused devastation, the resulting damage to nature was short-lived. Major environmental change occurred behind the lines, away from the killing fields. By understanding how warfare and energy extraction coevolved over the course of the First World War we can better appreciate the intersections of armed conflict, human victimization, and environmental exploitation during the twentieth century.
