Welcome to the Hunter Museum! Visit the lobby and see the amazing work of art by sculptor Alyson Shotz. Look straight up into the center of the lobby to see her piece suspended from the ceiling. You can find more of her work upstairs in different materials, shapes, and sizes. The lines in her work seem to be static and moving all at once. They are connected and twisting into shapes that gravity would naturally pull them into. Try connecting these dots below using lines:

Did you connect the lines in a linear fashion, going in order from dot to dot?

Or did you connect the lines more abstractly?
