

Look Up to Find Fun this Month

As the weather starts to change and the leaves start to turn, Cheyenne is taking to the skies with soaring events this September.

Start off your month with the 2021 Wild West Airshow, September 11-12 at the Air National Guard base. Here, you'll get to see awe-inspiring aerial displays that will make your gut drop and your heart soar. Wander amidst static aircraft displays and get up-close and personal to planes flown throughout history. There's even food and drinks available so you can take your time and explore everything the airshow has to offer! Gates are open 10 to 3 on both days of the show, with complimentary shuttles to base running from the JAX parking lot at Frontier Mall.

If airplanes aren't your speed, take the drive to Pine Bluffs and watch the skies fill with color during the "End of the Trail" Kite Festival September 25. Here, there will be kites of all shapes and sizes overhead, flown by amateur and semi-pro kite flyers alike! Taking your kiddos? Come early, as the first 100 children under age 14 get a kite for free! On top of all of the high-flying fun happening during the festival in the air, take a moment to wander through the booths of kites for sale, craftsmen, food and drinks at the festival.

The Homes of Cheyenne Food Trucks

This summer, Cheyenne became a street food and food truck hotspot. Scattered across town, the small beverage-based businesses capitalized on this and filled their customer's growling tummies using the food-on-the-go model. Downtown soda gurus, Beach Please, is always the place to look for a mid-day energy kick and quick meal. Most weekends their parking lot has a truck, whether it's an old favorite like Cruisin' Thru and Munchin' Moose Express, or an emerging classic like the brand-new Bernie's Café.

If you're looking for a beer and a bite after a long day, Cheyenne's breweries consistently have food truck specials. Black Tooth Brewery hosts trucks every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday night with choices that range from tacos to gourmet sandwiches. Tuesdays at Danielmark's features Los Conejos' Burria - the only time you can find these delicious tacos during the week! And Freedom's Edge Brewing Company frequently has a truck out front, including Josh Allen's favorite wings at Wetzel's Wings... worth stopping in for a pint just in case!

Is your mouth watering yet? Sounds like it's time to make a plan to visit Cheyenne!

Hispanic Festival is Back!

Cheyenne has its fair share of cultural festivals and after a postponement, the Cheyenne Hispanic Festival is coming back to the Depot Plaza on Saturday, September 11! Experience Cheyenne's Hispanic heritage - sample some of the best Mexican dishes that Cheyenne has to offer and watch the vibrant colors and movement of the traditional dancers. Throughout the festival are opportunities to admire Cheyenne natives' best rides during the annual car show. Want more information? Check out the Cheyenne Hispanic Festival's Facebook page (@HispanicFestival) to keep updated on all their news and event schedules.
