

What's coming in 2023

Brand new North American exhibit will open at Cincinnati Zoo and Botanical Garden

With new zoo babies, exhibits and interactive attractions – 2023 will be an exciting time to visit the world-famous Cincinnati Zoo!

- Meet Fritz, one of the newest members of the Cincinnati Zoo, and the younger brother of world-famous Fiona. Stop by Hippo Cove to meet the whole brood!
- The former “Bear Hill” has been renovated and reimagined into a series of “North American” exhibits! Soon you’ll be able to watch sea otters, black bears, and an entire exhibit featuring local wildlife that you may see regularly in your own backyard.
- Feeling adventurous? Take on Kanga Klimb – a ropes course located directly above Roo Valley. Navigate over 58 different physical obstacles and challenges, all with a view you won’t forget.

Two new special exhibits coming to National Underground Railroad Freedom Center

This state-of-the-art museum is committed to honoring and exploring freedom’s heroes. The National Underground Railroad Freedom Center will be opening two new temporary exhibits in 2023 that you do not want to miss.

- ‘Free as they want to be’: Artists Committed to Memory; this moving exhibit explores the historic role that photography and film have played in remembering slavery and its aftermath. Featuring more than 20 artists, this exhibit uses photography, video, silkscreen, projection and mixed media. Open through March 6, 2023.
- Solidarity Now! 1968 Poor People’s Campaign; take a deep dive into one of the most important grassroots movements of the civil rights era. This exhibit uses photographs, objects, documentaries and maps to tell the story of one of the earliest fights for equality in the United States. Open from March 18 - June 11, 2023.

Girlhood exhibit from Smithsonian coming to Cincinnati Museum Center

The Cincinnati Museum Center is the perfect place to bring the entire family, and in 2023 visitors can check out Girlhood (It’s Complicated). This new exhibit, from the Smithsonian National Museum of American History, commemorates the anniversary of suffrage by exploring the concept of “girlhood”. Open from October 2023 - January 2024.

Princess and the Frog and Moana Jr. highlighted at Children’s Theater of Cincinnati

Who doesn’t love a night at the theater? The Children’s Theater of Cincinnati offers shows for audiences of all ages. New to 2023, catch the world premiere of the Princess and the Frog, running from February 18 - 27, 2023. Then, check out Disney’s Moana Jr. as you’ve never seen it before, running from April 15-24, 2023.

Picasso and O’Keefe Exhibits Coming to Cincinnati Art Museum

Home to more than 67,000 objects, and spanning 6,000 years of history – the Cincinnati Art Museum always has something new to explore. In 2023, museum patrons can look forward to:

- Beyond Bollywood: 2,000 Years of Dance in Art; an exploration of the representation of dance in Asian arts. Running November 11, 2022 – February 2, 2023.
- Georgie O’Keeffe, Photographer: a collection of photography from legendary artist, Georgia O’Keeffe. Running February 3 – May 7, 2023.
- Robert Lugo: Hi-Def Archives; a collection of ceramic and 2D works from the iconic American potter, social activist, spoken word poet and educator. See a blend of hip-hop, history and political subject matter. Running from March 17 – June 4, 2023.
- Picasso Landscapes: Inside Out; have you ever seen a Picasso in real life? Now is your chance. See a collection of pieces focusing on landscape subject matter. Running June 23 – October 15, 2023.
- Charles White: A Little Higher; a skilled draftsman, printmaker and painter, Charles White was committed to creating powerful images of African Americans. View this powerful exhibit of “images of dignity” from July 14 – October 8, 2023.

Frisch’s Mobile Roller Rink

Looking for something unique to do that’s outdoors and fun for the entire family? The pop-up Frisch’s Mobile Roller Rink will return for the 2023 spring and summer season. Dates and downtown locations to be announced!