The Roots

OF FINGER LAKES WINE COUNTRY

Mamed America's "Best Wine Region" in 2018 and 2019 (USA Today) and one of the "World's Top 10 Wine Destinations" for 2019 (VinePair), the roots of Finger Lakes wine lead back to 1829 in the small town of Hammondsport where Reverend William Bostwick planted the first vines.

While interested in making sacramental wine, Bostwick inspired several of his parishioners to grow grapes as a potential source of income for the community. According to historians, the vineyards flourished. By 1870, Hammondsport boasted 3,000 acres. Nineteen years later, that number grew to 14,500 acres and by the end of the century there were over 25,000 acres of vineyards in the area. For a sense of perspective, today the Finger Lakes AVA is the largest wine region in New York State and has about 11,000 acres of vineyards.

At first, the fruit was primarily sold as table grapes, but eventually the area gained a reputation for its sparkling wines thanks to Pleasant Valley Wine Company. Founded in 1860, Pleasant Valley was the first American winery to win awards in Europe (in 1867 and, again, in 1873).

However, the common belief for the next century was that it was too cold here to grow the delicate European Vinifera grapes. Until 1962, when Dr. Konstantin Frank started his own winery in Hammondsport and subsequently proved that theory wrong, kicking off the Vinifera Revolution.

In that same small town today, you'll find third-, fourth-, and fifth-generation winemakers carrying on that same won't-be-denied determination, as well as the next generation of award-winning winemakers who continue to raise the bar.

Vintage Report

While Steuben wineries have played a crucial role in establishing and developing the Finger Lakes as a premiere wine region, these recent accolades are a testament to the exceptional quality of wine being produced today.

A number of variables all play a part in crafting world-class wine, including the characteristics of the soil (aka terroir), topography, climate, and the expertise of the winemaker. Each vineyard displays its own unique characteristics when it comes to aspects like the mineral content of the soil which contributes certain notes that can impact aroma and taste. Knowing what grape varietals are growing in what sort of soil is just one of the many things a skilled winemaker takes into consideration. Proximity to the lakes impacts how temperate the climate is, which directly affects the growing season. But that climate, or specifically weather, plays a significant part in the successes and challenges of making excellent wines.

In 2018, the Finger Lakes experienced an unusually high amount of rain which meant grape growers and winemakers had to be vigilant and wary of things like mildew and Botrytis (a fungus that can reek havoc on plants, but in the right hands can be used to make some remarkable sweet wines). The hot, dry summer and warm, dry harvest of 2020 meant conditions were almost ideal, allowing most winemakers to access fruit at its best without threat of bunch rot or other potentially damaging elements.

Opposite is a "Vintage Report" which, for the sake of this guidebook, means the personal perceptions and anecdotes from a few of our winery owners, vineyard managers, and winemakers as they look back on the 2020 growing season and the resulting vintages.

STEUBEN VINTAGE REPORT

Overall, how did the 2020 vintage go?

"The 2020 vintage is one that will be remembered for a long time . . . We were able to pick all the fruit based on true ripeness. The wines from Riesling to Cabernet Franc and everything in between show density and intensity but still maintain the Finger Lakes elegance and refinement. They will be special wines."

-Jordan Harris, Winemaker at Heron Hill Winery

"It's quite convincing. It's simply the best vintage that we have ever seen at Ravines and this is our 19th vintage going back to 2002"

---Morten Hallgren, Winemaker and Co-owner at Ravines Wine Cellars

"2020 was a spectacular year for Finger Lakes viticulture. Unfortunately, a hailstorm destroyed 90% of our crop in early June . . . But, what we were able to harvest is of potentially phenomenal quality."

> ---Christopher Bates, Master Sommelier and Winemaker at Element Winery

What can we expect from the wines as a whole?

"Honestly, purity, delicacy, detail, balance and elegance are our hallmarks. We look to build wines of structure, giving them long life spans. We work to allow the fruit and the place to shine, and work constantly to not impede the fruit's natural quality, and I believe that shows. Our wines are not meant to be powerful, rich or extracted. They are meant to be expressive."

-Christopher Bates

"The wines from 2020 will be special. They will have almost atypical intensity and concentration. The wines will show ripe fruit across the board but still have the telltale Finger Lakes refreshing acidity and minerality. Sensational wines."

—Jordan Harris

"It will show to be a vintage with great ripeness, but also beautiful balance and acidity, a result of being able to harvest at the perfect times for each grape with almost no disease pressure throughout the growing season."

—Morten Hallgren

Do you have any new styles/releases slated for 2021 and which wine are you most looking forward to releasing this year (please explain why)?

- "I believe wholeheartedly that every vintage we have made has been better than the last, and that continues. The new release of 2016 Pinot is stunning, and highlights some changes in stem inclusion and maceration, while the 2015 Syrah may be the best wine we have made to date. Though, one of our last workshop releases, the 2016 Gewürztraminer is pretty stunning, and is a wine we have obsessed over for 5 years now." —Christopher Bates
- "We have a new small lots program of Riesling called our Block Series. These are 5 small lot Rieslings coming from Ingle Vineyard and will showcase each of the five individual blocks planted at different areas of the vineyard and of different ages. It is a really interesting lineup with five superb but wildly different expressions coming off the one site which is especially fun to then taste alongside the Ingle Vineyard Riesling blend that has portions of each. It's a true deep dive into terroir and understanding site differences with Riesling." —Jordan Harris
- "We are extremely excited that later this year we will release our 2nd vintage of Sparkling Riesling and the first since 2013! Our 2018 Sparkling Riesling, Argetsinger Vineyard, that will be released later this year, will be followed in 2022 by a 2019 Sparkling Riesling, White Springs Vineyard." —Morten Hallgren

cc . . . some of the most exciting and undiscovered wines in the country."

-Shana (Sokol) Clarke, Paste

What is it about the Finger Lakes region that make it a great place for winemaking?

"The Finger Lakes is the next great frontier for wine regions. As the consumer comes back full circle to appreciating wines of delicacy and balance . . . the Finger Lakes is among only a few new world wine regions who is naturally endowed to produce these wines. While others can pick early to achieve this, and are, the Finger Lakes themselves produce this elegance naturally." —Christopher Bates

- "People want wines with less manipulation, more sense of place, a local and unpretentious feel, and most importantly still delicious with freshness. Nowadays everyone talks about wanting bright acidity and wines that speak of the vineyard instead of the winemaker. Here in the Finger Lakes we are perfectly suited to this. Our wines require less barrel manipulation, less additions, less input. They are true expressions of what our beautiful area and nature have to offer." —Jordan Harris
- "There are no other major wine regions in the United States that provide the 'cool climate' which allows for vibrant acidity, vintage after vintage." —Morten Hallgren

Will the 2020 vintage be better for reds or whites (and in what way)?

"From the small amount of wines I was able to make, they are consistently great across both categories. Producers had the option to push ripeness across all grapes if they chose to do so, but, that is not our style. We tend to crop low and pick early." —Christopher Bates

"Riesling and Chardonnay thrive pretty much every year. However the swing with the reds this year will be the most noticeable. Expect a density and flavor ripeness like we have possibly never seen in the Finger Lakes. The warm, sunny and dry summer made for nearly perfect ripening conditions." —Jordan Harris

"Only time will tell, but right now they look to be about equal." —Morten Hallgren

STEUBEN COUNTY, NEW YORK

Please sum up the 2020 vintage in just three words.

"Challenge forces growth."	—Christopher Bates
"Consistent, powerful, delicious."	—Jordan Harris
"Generous, structured, powerful."	—Morten Hallgren

You wouldn't expect the genesis of European wine production in the Eastern United States to be so off-the-beaten-path."

The Vinifera Revolution

Sometimes it takes a revolution to transform a thing that is already popular and good enough into something exceptional. That's certainly true with regards to Finger Lakes wine.

By the time Dr. Konstantin Frank sparked the Vinifera Revolution, the Finger Lakes had been making wine for over a century. Along the way, Prohibition certainly played a part in holding most winemakers back, but in the years that followed as wine made a resurgence throughout the region, the consensus was that fine European-style wines just couldn't be made here. That the delicate Vinifera grapes couldn't be grown here.

Despite pleading to those at the helm of New York State's wine industry that it could in fact be done, Dr. Frank ran into a collective mindset that good enough was good enough. After all, droves of people were visiting the wineries. Why mess with a good thing? The answer is simple. To get a great thing!

History reveals that Dr. Frank wouldn't accept no for an answer and eventually proved beyond a doubt that Vinifera grapes could grow here—could thrive here forever changing winemaking in the region and beyond.

Azure Hill Winery's first vintage was in 2010. Since then, this boutique winery has been making friends one bottle at a time. The small tasting room off the wine production area offers a unique glimpse into the process and creates a more personal tasting experience as you are served by the winery's owners. In addition to making the region's flagship varietal, Riesling, Azure Hill focuses primarily on two red varietals not found in many FLX wineries: Saperavi and Zweigelt.

Special Note: Groups larger than 6 are urged to call ahead. Offers local craft beer on tap by the pint, flight or growler for non-wine drinkers.

AMENITIES

Tasting Room, Outdoor Seating, Online Shopping

VARIETALS

Riesling, Zweigelt, and Saperavi grown in their vineyards. From other local growers: Chambourcin, and various others for red or white blends. Also, apple juice to make a Sparkling Apple Wine. All sourced in the Finger Lakes.

Dr. Konstantin Frank

Dr. Konstantin Frank Winery has been leading the way for over 60 years and four generations. On a special site on Keuka Lake, in 1958 Dr. Frank successfully planted the first Riesling, Chardonnay, and Pinot Noir vines in New York. Igniting this "Vinifera Revolution" would forever change the course of quality winemaking in the Finger Lakes and the Eastern United States. See why USA Today named Dr. Frank's one of the 10 Best Tasting Rooms in America.

Special Note: Dr. Frank's vines from 1958 are some of the oldest in the country with the 2nd oldest Pinot Noir vines in America. Named a Top 100 Winery by Wine & Spirits Magazine in 2019, they've received multiple Best Winery awards in the New York Wine Classic.

AMENITIES

Element Winery is an artisanal producer of Finger Lakes wines representative of their place. Focused on making wines of purity and clarity, allowing the fruit to speak for itself, the winery produces tiny quantities of Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Cabernet Franc and Syrah. "The lineup is emblematic of the quality one should demand from the Finger Lakes." The intention: produce wines that stand shoulder-to-shoulder with the great wines of the world, while being true to the region, climate and terroir.

Special Note: Element's focus is simple. Work with the best fruit. Work gently, without changing its inherent character: hand harvesting, strict sorting, spontaneous fermentations, no additions, no adjustments, no new oak influence, only large oxidative aging vessels, no fining, no filtration.

AMENITIES

F.L.X. Provisions in Corning acts as a tasting room, wine bar, and retail shop. You can taste flights of Element wines by themselves, or in the context of other world class producers.

VARIETALS

Core Wines include: Riesling, Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Cabernet Franc and Syrah, with workshop wines occasionally being introduced to experiment with other varieties.

MOST POPULAR WINES

Keuka Lake Vineyards is a small, boutique winery turning heads as much for its down-to-earth personality as for the skills of the people working there and the quality of its wines. KLV specializes in growing and making exceptional dry Rieslings and Vignoles and remarkable reds in smaller quantities. Its Cabernet Franc has been cited by the New York Times as outstanding and its Léon Millot, made largely from 70-year-old vines, is sought after by those in the know.

Special Note: KLV is a quiet, friendly place that aims to bring a rich wine experience with pleasantness in a beautiful environment. Find KLV wines in restaurants in NYC, Washington DC, Boston and Tokyo. Enjoy it this summer with superb NY State cheese and fine charcuterie.

AMENITIES

200-year-old rustic Tasting Room

VARIETALS

KLV Grows Riesling, Vignoles, Cabernet Franc, Léon Millot and a bit of Pinot Noir, and purchases Sauvignon Blanc and additional Cabernet Franc.

MOST POPULAR WINES

Dry Vignoles, Methode Ancestral Vignoles, Vignoles CO2 and the 20 Rows Dry Riesling, as well as other Dry Rieslings. While Léon Millot is a favorite of many, Cabernet Franc is perhaps the most popular in the tasting room and with distributors.

UNIQUE VINTAGES

KLV prides itself on making wines that reflect the vintage and the terroir—the vineyard. Falling Man Vineyard and Evergreen Lek Vineyard Dry Rieslings are unique and exceptional. KLV's dry Vignoles (the best of breed) pairs well with seafood and spicy dishes. Its Léon Millot, made predominantly with grapes from 70-year-old vines planted by the late renowned Charles Fournier, is coveted by many.

Living Roots

Living Roots is an urban winery in the Finger Lakes region of New York and a not-so-urban winery in the Adelaide Hills region of South Australia. Sixth generation winemaker and Adelaide native Sebastian and Rochester NY native and marketer Colleen Hardy aim to make wines with regional and varietal expression, minimal inputs and maximum deliciousness. Of particular interest: sparkling wines; rich, aromatic whites like Riesling and Pinot Gris; and emerging/re-emerging hybrids that can produce high quality, low input wines.

Special Note: Some wines are made year-to-year while others are one-offs. Each vintage is an opportunity to explore new vineyards and varieties, and to highlight the terroir and natural strengths of these diverse regions.

AMENITIES:

Keuka Pop-Up includes open-air tent, picnic tables, lawn chairs and fire pits. "In the future, we will have more permanent facilities with indoor and outdoor tasting spaces."

VARIETALS

On the Shale Creek property, we grow Riesling, Chardonnay, Pinot Gris, Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier, and Cabernet Franc. Also sources grapes from other growers including a couple of hybrids for Pét-Nat, but these are generally the varieties focused on in the Finger Lakes.

MOST POPULAR WINES

From the Finger Lakes, any of the sparklings (traditional method and Pét-Nat,) Dry Riesling, and Cabernet Franc. From Australia, our McLaren Vale Grenache, Adelaide Hills Shiraz and Red Blend.

UNIQUE VINTAGES

The winery's latest project is a range of lower alcohol wines (7-10% ABV) - made with natural techniques such as picking super early and making piquette as a blending component.

Wild Brute Winery tends to break away from what might be expected. After apprenticing at Chateau Frank and studying at Cornell, Justin Recktenwald returned to his roots among the farms of Arkport to start an artisanal farm-winery focusing on the production of wild-fermented Finger Lakes Wines. Wild Brute offers guests a rural tasting experience of uniquely-styled vintages like his popular unfiltered Cab Franc.

Special Note: You can also enjoy Wild Brute wines, as well as other wines and craft beverages from around the region, at The Brute: A Finger Lakes Focused Wine Bar in nearby Hornell.

A Landscape

Fly high over New York State and you'll see eleven long, slender, finger-shaped lakes after which the Finger Lakes region gets its name. Compliments of glaciers of another time. Of course, Keuka Lake stands out as much for it's distinct Y-shape as for the impact the wineries around it have had on the region and beyond.

As you get closer to the ground, though, you'll also notice the dynamic landscape that in many ways defines the region. The deep valleys. The lush, rolling, forested hills. The fertile farmland. The steep slopes surrounding the lakes, providing an exquisite patchwork of vineyards that are quite striking against the pristine blue water. You'll find rugged, dramatic gorges with their myriad waterfalls throughout the region as well, the stunning work of streams that have spent millennia carving stone.

While breathtaking to look at, the landscape of the region is also a significant factor for why this is such a spectacular place for making high quality wines.

Add the region's rocky soil and a new generation of ambitious winemakers to the mix, and you've got the ingredients for truly exciting wine."

In addition to the way the lakes (which are some of the deepest in the country) extend the growing season by moderating vineyard temperatures, you'll hear winemakers talk about Finger Lakes "terroir." A French word meaning earth and soil, for a vintner it is much more than that. For terroir has to do with the interplay between the geology of a place and the topography, the climate, and the specific types of grapes grown in any one location.

Each of the main Finger Lakes (Cayuga, Seneca, Keuka) has its own microclimate. And each vineyard around those lakes has its own mix of rocky soil. Some with more shale, some more limestone. Some more acidic, some less. So the very same variety of grape (take Riesling for example or Cab Franc), grown in different vineyards around Keuka Lake and Seneca Lake will end up with rather different flavor profiles.

For a winemaker no year is the same as the last. So even the most seasoned winemakers are constantly observing and adjusting. It is the job of the winemaker, after all, to understand the diverse characteristics terroir imparts on different grape varieties, to recognize the varying terroir in the particular vineyards they use, and to often come up with creative methods (in addition to traditional techniques) for unlocking the full potential of those grapes as exceptional wines.

Lucky for us, the winemakers around Keuka Lake are extremely good at doing just that!

The Finger Lakes region is rich with incredible, ancient soils and microclimates, making for a special terroir that gives the vines a strong sense of place."

Less than a five-hour drive northwest from Manhattan lie New York's Finger Lakes, a bucolic wine region yet to be fully recognized."

-Alexander Peartree, Wine Enthusiast

The Finger Lakes has been a wine region for nearly 160 years. In the early days, wines were made with native grapes that tended to be much sweeter. Eventually, French-American hybrid varietals were planted as wine drinkers craved some drier-style wines. But it wasn't until the 1960s when Dr. Konstantin Frank revolutionized winemaking in the region by introducing Vinifera grapes. This allowed winemakers to craft a wide range of wine styles, from sweet to bone dry. While there are dozens of different grapes planted throughout the region, below are the most popular varietals.

What's in a name?

While you're in the Finger Lakes region exploring wineries off the beaten path, it's the perfect opportunity to try some unique wines you won't find just anywhere. Rest assured, it's not just about the uncommon names, but the wonderful, unusual flavors as well.

ICE WINE

True ice wine requires a few essential things: several days of extremely cold weather, grapes that have survived long enough to freeze on the vine, and a labor-intensive process of harvesting and pressing. Due to all these variables, true ice wines are not made by many wineries and are not made every year. A dessert wine that pairs well with a bold, sharp cheese to balance out the sweetness, or simply as dessert itself.

LÉON MILLOT

A hybrid grape created in 1911 in Alsace, Léon Millot is time consuming to harvest by hand and not a wine most people encounter, but when done right, this red wine is well worth the work. Flavor profiles range from lighter styles like Pinot Noir to more full-bodied styles like Syrah.

RKATSITELI

You may not have heard of this one, but at one time it was the third-most planted grape varietal in the world. Wine historians believe this grape was growing in the Georgia region of the former USSR over 5,000 years ago. With a wonderful balance of acidity and spiciness, be prepared to discover a new favorite white wine.

—Carolyn Helper, The Atlantic

SAPERAVI

Another ancient Georgian grape varietal, Saperavi means "dye" or "paint" in the Georgian language, which is fitting since it is one of the only grape varieties in the world with red pulp and red skin. As a result, this delicious, complex, heavy-bodied wine has a deep dark color.

VIGNOLES

While the actual origins of this hybrid grape variety may be up for debate, this complex wine has some characteristics similar to Riesling and can, as with other varietals, range in styles from dry to semi-sweet to dessert wines.

Where can you find it? Keuka Lake Vineyards

Other wines growing in popularity in the region include Grüner Veltliner, Blaufränkisch (also known as Lemberger), and Zweigelt, among others.
