

30 Best Valentine's Day Getaways in America

Flowers and chocolates just don't compare to these trip ideas.

We can imagine few things to do on Valentine's Day dreamier than whisking your lover away to a seaside destination, a quaint Victorian town, or a mountaintop bed and breakfast—which is why we're rounding up the best Valentine's Day getaways right here. There's nothing more fun than a weekend road trip, particularly if it involves one of the most scenic drives in America!

These small town hideaways are more than just charming; they're downright magical. Bet you didn't know that Nebraska has towns called "Cupid" and "Valentine." Meanwhile, Illinois has "Fidelity" and Louisiana has "Eros." There are places called "Darling" in Mississippi, "Lovely" in Kentucky, and "Venus" in Florida. And if that's not enough to thrill you, consider that both Colorado and Idaho boast regions called "Sugar City." You can bet their small town main streets live up to the hype!

But the romance in some of our favorite Valentine's Day-ready towns goes well beyond their names. If you're really interested in taking your significant other on the trip of a lifetime—not to mention give them an amazing Valentine's Day gift—you'll want to read on for the ultimate destinations!

3

Beaufort, NC

There are few things more romantic than wild horses, and Beaufort can give you a close-up view of them. See them from a stand-up paddleboard, or simply take in the gorgeous Victorian architecture in this cool, quaint town.

PLAN YOUR TRIP