Bicycling Safety on Roads and Trails

- Always wear a helmet: Pennsylvania law requires all cyclists under age 12 to wear an approved bicycle helmet. Helmets are recommended for all riders.
- When riding a bicycle on a roadway, the bicycle is considered a vehicle and must obey all traffic laws. Ride with the flow of traffic. Obey stop signs and traffic lights. Hand signals are required.
- You can ride a bicycle either on the shoulder or the roadway itself, depending on conditions. Like all road users, slower vehicles should keep to the right and ride single file.
- Left turns should be made from the left side of the driving lane or from a designated left turn lane.
- A bicyclist must yield to pedestrians on roads and trails.
- You are not permitted to ride a bicycle on a sidewalk in a business district.
- If you use your bike at night, it must be equipped with a front lamp, rear reflectors and side reflectors. Borough parks and off-road trails are closed from dusk to dawn.

Hand and Arm Signals

To signal a left turn, extend the left hand and arm horizontally.

To signal a right turn, extend your right hand and arm upward.

To signal a stop or decrease in speed, extend the left hand and arm downward.

What is a Sharrows?

A shared-lane marking, or sharrow, is a marking placed in a traffic lane to indicate that a bicyclist is likely to occupy the same lane. Shared-lane markings are used to:

- Assist bicyclists with positioning in lanes that are too narrow for a motor vehicle and a bicycle to travel side by side within the same traffic lane;
- Alert motorists that bicyclists are likely to occupy the same lane;
- Encourage safe passing of bicyclists by motorists; and
- Reduce the incidence of wrong-way bicycling.

How to use a Bike Rack

The recommended procedure is to rack the bike perpendicular to the rack to allow the maximum number of bikes.

A cable works better than a "U" lock to allow securing the frame and both wheels. It would be advisable to run a cable through the seat as well.

Carlisle's Wayside Markers

The Borough of Carlisle, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania was founded in 1751. Throughout the colonial period, Carlisle was the major jumping-off point for travel west to the Ohio Valley. It was George Washington's choice for his army's first arsenal and school. Carlisle was also home to the Carlisle Industrial Indian School, a school for American Indians, of which Olympic champion Jim Thorpe is an alumnus. The location of the Carlisle Industrial Indian School now houses the U.S. Army War College. Carlisle is also home to Dickinson College, which was chartered at the end of the Revolutionary War in 1783 — the first college to be chartered after the Treaty of Paris.

Example of Wayside Marker

In 2002, Historic Carlisle, Inc. and the Borough of Carlisle partnered to initiate the Carlisle Wayside Marker Project using interpretive signage to honor and preserve Carlisle's rich heritage for the enjoyment and education of Carlisle's residents and visitors alike. The Wayside Markers tell the story of Carlisle's people, buildings and historic sites and events.

The map below will assist you on a self-guided walking and/or biking tour of the Wayside Markers through the streets and byways of Carlisle's Historic District and beyond. Please obey traffic rules, use crosswalks and watch for traffic as you visit each site to learn more about the history of Carlisle.

The Historic District is indicated by a Bold Red Line.
The Square is indicated by the green box.

Who Has the Right of Way?

On a roadway, the bicyclist has the right of way. However, having the right of way does not ensure that motorists will yield to a bicyclist. Many motorists are either unaware or do not care that a bicyclist has a right to ride on the road. Therefore bicyclists must ride defensively and never assume that motorists will yield to them when required.

A bicyclist must yield the right of way to pedestrians. On the road or on a trail, pedestrians have the right of way. When a bicyclist approaches a pedestrian from behind on a trail, the cyclist should call out to warn the pedestrians that he or she is preparing to pass. Pedestrians should move to the right to allow safe passage.
