

MILE HIGH MONDAYS

with Mercantile dining & provision

Opened by Chef Alex Seidel in 2014, Mercantile dining & provision is one of the star restaurants at the renovated Denver Union Station. Chef Seidel is also the founder of Fruition Farms, Colorado's first artisan sheep's milk creamery and the source of many ingredients used on Mercantile's menu. In 2018, Chef Seidel was awarded a James Beard Award for Mercantile. Last year, Seidel passed the reins to Executive Chef Matt Vawter, who began his culinary career at the age of 14 and has since been named both a StarChefs Rising Star Chef and one of Zagat's "30 under 30 Culinary Game Changers". Chef Vawter believes that Mercantile provides a unique platform to both share artisan products and create memorable food for the community.
