

An heirloom apple (the Northern Spy), fields of wheat, hops (that means breweries too!), Nathaniel Rochester, founder of the city of Rochester, the largest Antique communications museum in the United States, and the Authentic America Road – Routes 5 and 20. These are just a few historic exports from the town of East Bloomfield.

The Bloomfields are located in the northwest corner of Ontario County, in New York State's world-famous Finger Lakes region. The Town of West Bloomfield makes up the western border of Ontario County, adjacent to Livingston County. These historic towns are less than 30 minutes to the cities of Rochester and Canandaigua and the heart of lake country.

West Bloomfield and Bloomfield are communities characterized by rolling hills, New England country charm and a reverence for historic preservation and outdoor recreation and agriculture. As the Bloomfield Buzz mentions, “These towns are surrounded by the tranquil beauty of farms and woodlands. The welcoming small-town spirit provides residents, businesses, and visitors with a balance of warm hospitality, recreation, and relaxation. Lovely country roads lead you to delightful restaurants, farm stands, antique shops, and outdoor activities galore. Golfing, horseback riding, nature hikes, canoeing, fishing, biking, hunting, bird watching, photography, cross-country skiing, and snowmobiling make Bloomfield a year-round paradise for outdoor enthusiasts.”

Alpacas, at Lazy Acre Alpaca Farms in West Bloomfield are a favorite of school groups, families, and even corporate groups who can host a team building yoga class with these cuddly, people friendly animals. The farms are a year-round favorite. In the winter grab a pair of those Alpaca socks.

In the fall – the colors and pastoral setting create a special aura for relaxation and a breath of fresh air.

Come to the Bloomfields to learn, to play, to appreciate having your own space and being able to take it at your own pace.
