GATLINBURG

T E N N E S S E E

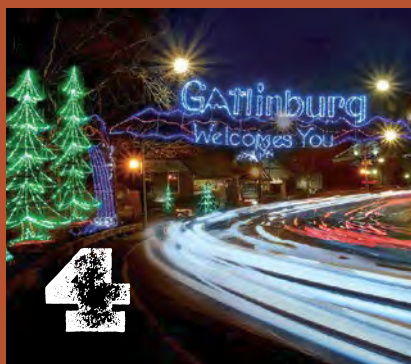

A photograph of Dolly Parton with her signature blonde curly hair, wearing a bright red textured sweater. She is smiling and looking towards the camera. The background is a scenic view of the Great Smoky Mountains at dusk or dawn, with layers of blue and orange-hued mountain ranges and a forest of trees with some autumn-colored foliage in the foreground.

The Great Smoky Mountains have always been an inspiration for me. Now more than ever is a great time to escape for a visit and let them inspire you and your family!
— Dolly Parton

The Mountains Are Calling

Welcome to Gatlinburg! My very favorite place in the Smokies! I love this town! Have a great time at Ole Red and don't do anything I wouldn't do because what's the fun in that?
— Blake Shelton

SPRING

The start of each new year brings with it a re-awakening of nature in Gatlinburg. Baby bears, cuddled with mama, begin to poke their little heads out of wintry dens. Likewise, spring wildflowers push up from their slumber welcoming warm weather back to the Smokies. We suggest you get outdoors and take advantage of the hiking trails in the National Park. Or, try browsing the original art on display at the Great Smoky Easter Arts and Crafts Show taking place at the end of March through early April. Get in touch with your creative side and take a class during 'Hands on Gatlinburg' in early May.

4 Seasons, 4 Reasons

SUMMER

Gas up the car. Pack up the snacks. It's time for a road trip to Gatlinburg. No matter what direction you're coming from, all roads here include breath-taking views free of charge. Channel pent-up excitement and shake off road trip inertia with some fly fishing, hiking, or whitewater rafting. For an extra special visit, our 4th of July activities can't be beat. From our award-winning Midnight Parade to our fireworks extravaganza, we roll out the red carpet for our nation's special day.

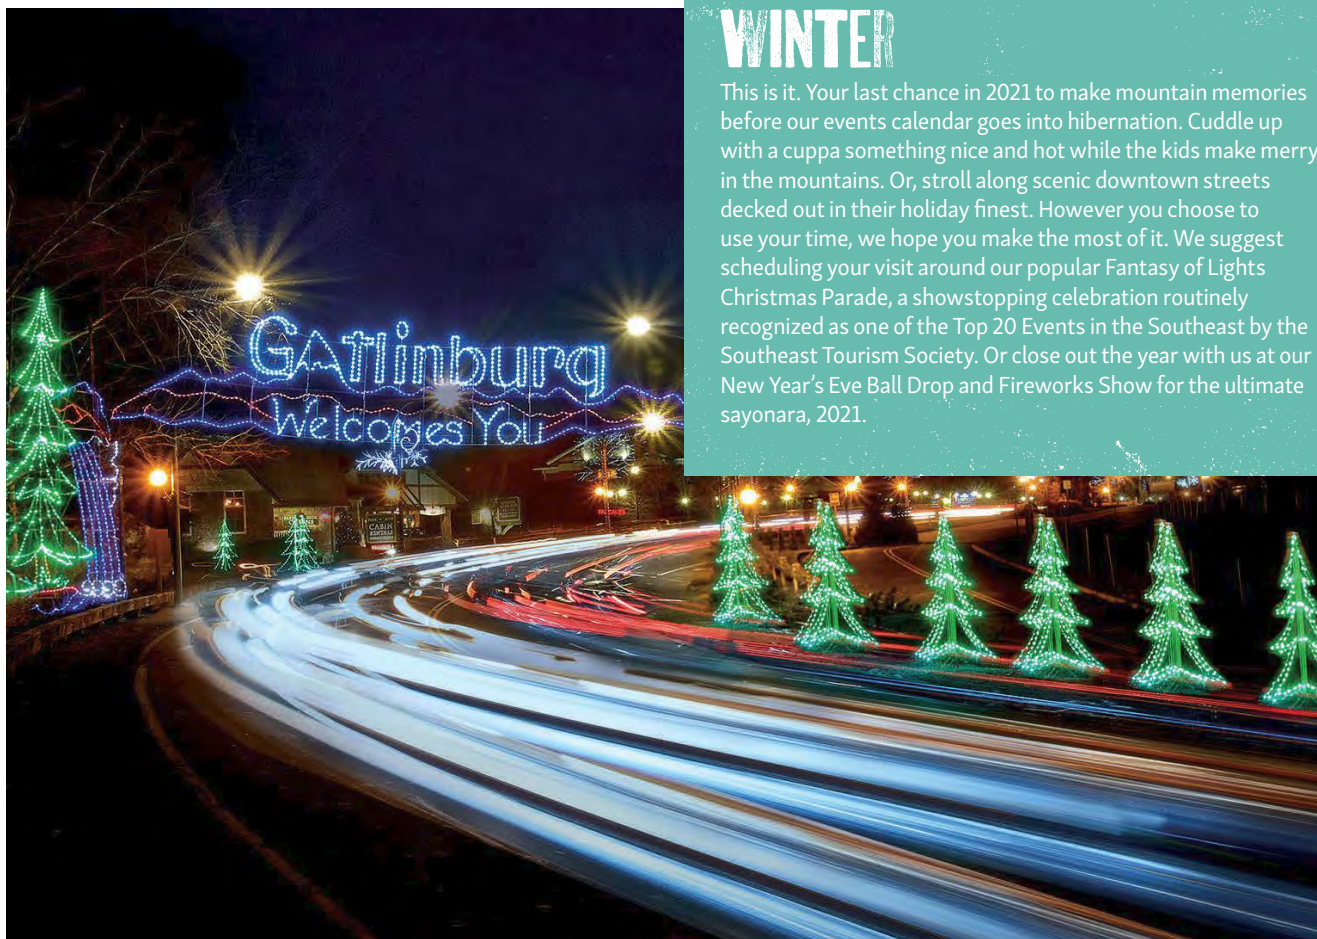

FALL

It's fall, y'all. We think every season here is spectacular but there's something extra special about autumn in Gatlinburg. Maybe it's the changing colors, or the mountain chill in the air. Whatever it is, everyone should experience it at least once in their lifetime. Peak color changes happen from Mid-October to early November, while seasonal activities like OktOberfest and the Gatlinburg Craftsmen's Fair up the good times ante. For an extra spooktacular visit, check out Ripley's Fright Nights and The Legend of Hallow Mountain at Anakeesta, both taking place throughout the month of October.

WINTER

This is it. Your last chance in 2021 to make mountain memories before our events calendar goes into hibernation. Cuddle up with a cuppa something nice and hot while the kids make merry in the mountains. Or, stroll along scenic downtown streets decked out in their holiday finest. However you choose to use your time, we hope you make the most of it. We suggest scheduling your visit around our popular Fantasy of Lights Christmas Parade, a showstopping celebration routinely recognized as one of the Top 20 Events in the Southeast by the Southeast Tourism Society. Or close out the year with us at our New Year's Eve Ball Drop and Fireworks Show for the ultimate sayonara, 2021.

Finding Us Is Half The Fun

Anakeesta Canopy Walk

Located in the Eastern United States, Gatlinburg is conveniently located less than a day's drive from many major cities. So make a playlist, fill up the tank, and hit the road—America's Mountain Home awaits.

If you plan on following your GPS to Gatlinburg, it will bring you from I-40 (at Exit 407) down through Sevierville. But if you're looking for a more scenic and less-traveled route, consider taking Highway 321.

From the East

If you're coming from Asheville, take Exit 443 (off I-40) and follow Foothills Parkway to Hwy 321 South to Gatlinburg.

From the West

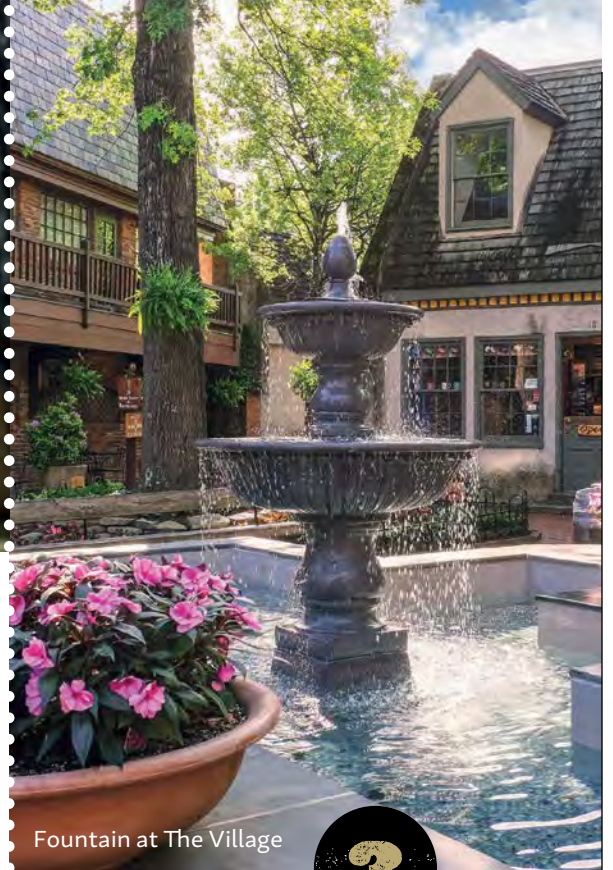

Take Exit 364 (off I-40) OR Exit 81 (off I-75) and follow Hwy 321 North to Pigeon Forge. Then, take a right on Hwy 441 South to Gatlinburg.

The Main Attraction

DON'T MISS THIS

OLD NEWS ALERT: THERE'S LOTS TO DISCOVER IN THE SMOKIES. OUR RECOMMENDATION IS TO MIX THINGS UP A BIT—A HIKE ALONG THE APPALACHIAN TRAIL, A TOUR OF WATERFALLS RAINBOW, GROTTO, AND BASKINS CREEK. THROW IN A PICNIC UP ON ANDREWS BALD, AND YOU'VE GOT YOURSELF A PRETTY NICE TRIP.

The Mill That Fed The Mountains

Every small American town has its local celebrity, and for a time, Andrew Ely was ours. A Yale-schooled lawyer by trade, and a Tennessee native by birth, Ely built the mill in 1925 after growing disenchanted by Northern city life. For decades, it served as both a grain mill and furniture shop. Now it's operated by Ely's granddaughter, Ruth Wellborn, who's preserved Ely's vision for the property and serves as its resident historian. While no longer operable, the mill is one of our favorite places to pause along the Roaring Fork Motor Nature Trail. If you're in need of a stretch, some refreshments, or a little slice of Smoky Mountain history, do yourself a favor and pay Old Ely's Mill a visit.

— Keeping watch —

CASSIUS CASH
Park Superintendent

When considering the full panorama of his career, one thing is immediately clear: Cassius Cash is a man of the land. His professional relationship with the national park system is predated by his time serving in the U.S. Forest Service as a wildlife biologist at Gifford Pinchot National Forest in Washington State in the early 1990s. In the years since, Cassius has served our parks system as an administrative officer, district ranger, and civil rights officer before becoming the superintendent of Boston National Historical Park and Boston African American National Historic Site prior to joining Great Smoky Mountain National Park as superintendent in 2016. Cassius Cash, a man of the land indeed.

LISA HENDY
Chief Ranger

Though she'd never admit it, there is nothing ordinary about Lisa Hendy. A native of Lookout Mountain near Chattanooga, Hendy became the first woman chief ranger of Great Smoky Mountains National Park in 2019. Now in her third year leading GSMNP, Hendy boasts a career of nearly 30 years with the National Park Service—and a CV that's almost as long. A 2007 recipient of the Intermountain Region Exemplary Service Award (given for saving a woman's life in the Grand Canyon), and of the prestigious Harry Yount National Park Ranger Award, a peer-nominated award given to those who display a singular excellence in protecting our national resources and serving visitors, Hendy is, like the mountains she watches over, a national treasure.

INFO

If there's one thing you may have noticed about the Smokies, it's that they're big. Big to the tune of 522,427 acres, in fact. So before you dive in, hiking boots-first, arm yourself with as much knowledge as you can. There's no better place to do that than the Sugarlands Visitor Center. Situated just south of Gatlinburg off US 441, Sugarlands offers free maps, a bookstore, a free 20-minute park film, and the opportunity to ask on-duty rangers any lingering questions you may have.

MOUNTAIN ETIQUETTE

Dog Friendly Trail in Park

We love your fur babies, but there's only one designated path within Tennessee park boundaries where you're allowed to bring them. Look for the aptly named Gatlinburg Trail which begins at the end of town and snakes its way to Sugarlands Visitor Center, running alongside the Little Pigeon River.

IT'S EASY BEING GREEN

We really like the way things look around here--and we've worked hard to keep it just so. Even before the launch of our Sparkle Days program in 1979, we put a premium on sustainability and environmental care. With the help of recent infrastructure investments like our 26 solar-powered, animal-proof, trash-compacting waste receptacles, and our world-class recycling and composting facility, it's never been easier to go green in Gatlinburg.

If you happen to be passing through this year, we'd love it if you could help us maintain this beautiful place we call home. Here are a few steps you can take that we sure would appreciate:

- Use trash receptacles—liter makes us sad (and makes a mess)
- Take advantage of our Free Park and Ride trolley stops or grab a Trolley in lieu of using your car to get around
- Keep showers brief, and reuse towels and bedding
- Support businesses that have pledged to go green

Not Your Average Bears

Bears in the Smokies are born wild and stay that way. They may look cuddly and tame, but they're not your friend, or a prop for social media. If you come across a bear while you're here, please follow the guidelines below to keep yourself and those with you safe.

WHEN YOU SEE A BEAR

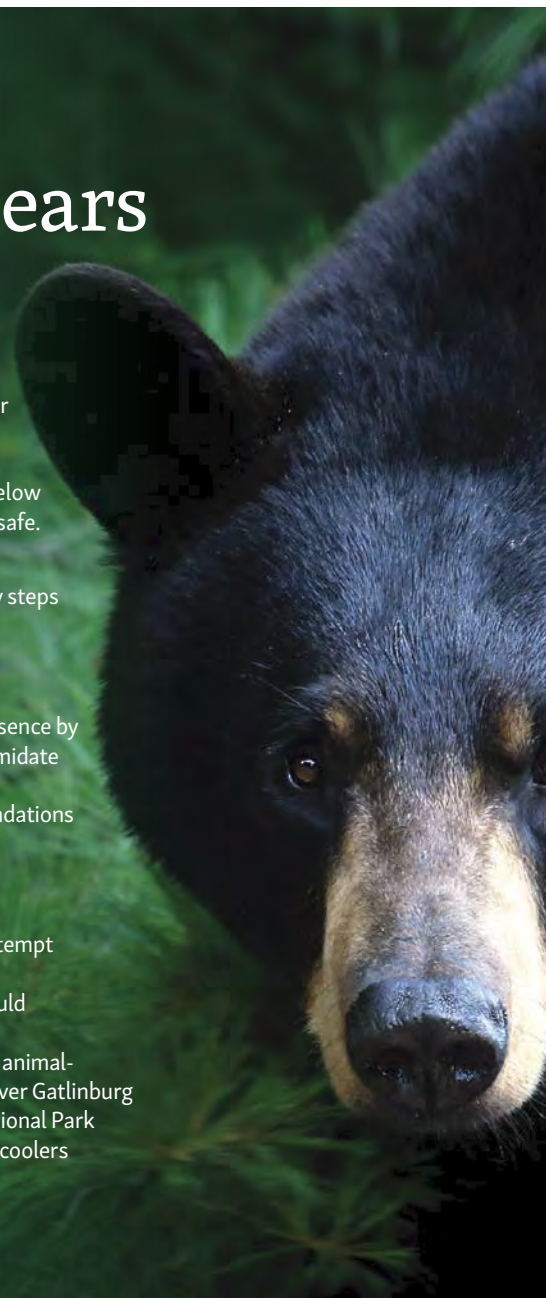

- Back away from it in slow, steady steps
- Bring children and pets indoors

WHEN THE BEAR DOESN'T SEE YOU

- Make the bear aware of your presence by yelling and making noises to intimidate it—this will encourage it to leave
- Then, follow all above recommendations

GENERAL BEAR SAFETY PRECAUTIONS

- Never approach bears
- Don't place food outside in an attempt to attract them
- In-use grills and picnic areas should be attended at all times
- Deposit trash in one of the many animal-resistant cans or dumpsters all over Gatlinburg and Great Smoky Mountains National Park
- Don't leave food in your car or in coolers outside the cabin

What Wonders Await

Taking it all in—and then some

Gatlinburg's always been a place where world-famous showstoppers and hole-in-wall treasures comfortably coexist. Everybody and their mother knows about Anakeesta and the Gatlinburg SkyLift. But it takes a true adventurer to discover, and appreciate, the hidden gems that dot our city limits. Take Hillbilly Golf for instance. It's, well... exactly like it sounds: random, kitschy, and one-of-a-kind. Trust us when we say it's not to be missed.

But the true beauty—and we mean that quite literally—of Gatlinburg is our expansive outdoors. From guided hikes to horseback riding through the wilderness of the Smoky Mountains, wild Trout fishing with professional anglers, and river rafting, Gatlinburg offers one of the best opportunities east of the Mississippi to explore the great outdoors as Mother Nature intended. If you've been itching to get out of the house and do some serious exploring all within easy reach of civilization, you'd be hard pressed to do better.

When it comes to mapping out your ultimate itinerary, the Attractions Listings pages will be your new best friend. Our advice? Start slow. Dream big. And work your way from the A's all the way down to the Z's—or, in our case, the W's. By the time you hit whitewater rafting, you'll practically be a local.

ATTRACTIONS & OUTDOORS

Ripley's Believe It or Not!®

For some fantastical, far-fetched (literally) fun, don't skip Ripley's Believe It or Not! Museum. Three floors of strange and wonderful oddities, collected from around the world, are waiting to be discovered. Get lost in one of the two new escape rooms or blast your way through a themed laser tag course and 18-holes of mini golf that challenge even the steadiest of hands. Or, spend an afternoon (or the whole day) shooting, putting, and pin-balling till your totally tubular heart's content. It's fun for the whole family that doesn't require a 10-mile hike. We can get down with that.

Trout's big game here in Gatlinburg. In fact, some of the best trout fishing you'll find in all of Tennessee happens right here in our neck of the woods. To fish in our streams, make sure you have the proper identification and licensing. The city maintains a trout farm and stocks the West Prong of the Little Pigeon River through the middle of town every Thursday. If you plan to cast a line in city limits, check out the kids only fishing streams in Mynatt Park and Herbert Holt Park, where there is a handicapped fishing pier. Looking for back country fishing holes? Enlist the help of our local guide services. They'll show you where to drop a line.

Distilleries & WINERIES

Goes Down Smooth

A weekend tasting tour hits the sweet spot between a trip that's too long, and one that's not long enough.

While the vast majority of our visitors come to do it all—the mountains, the shopping, the crafting—a growing population are discovering that Gatlinburg is the perfect two-to-three-day getaway destination. And our distilleries, breweries, wineries, and cideries are a big reason why. You can build a pretty nice itinerary just by hopping between tastings at Ole Smoky Distillery (the first legal distillery in the state), Tennessee Homemade Wines (quite possibly the most-visited winery in all of Tennessee—though, after a few glasses, who can say?), Sugarland Cellars, and a whole host of other great watering holes. So, grab your guys, or your gals, or both, and leave the kids some pizza money. It's time the adults had a little fun of their own.

DISTILLERIES & WINERIES

Tennessee Cider Co.

This here's moonshine country, but you wouldn't know it by the amount of breweries, wineries, and cideries we've got, on—ahem—tap. Between hot-spots like Doc Collier's, Sugarlands Distilling and the Tennessee Cider Co. (pictured here), you could pack an entire weekend full of superior sippin' and still need a few days to get everything in—and see straight again. Belly up to the bar at the aforementioned Sugarlands Distilling for their small batch "Roaming Man Rye," a collectible that was inspired by the spirit of both exploration and tradition—embodying the perfect blend of so much of what we do and who we are in Gatlinburg. However you choose to explore our liquid bounty, we ask that you enjoy what we have to offer responsibly, and in good company.

Calling all vinophiles! While everyone knows about Napa and Sonoma and all the other famous West Coast valleys that produce so much of our nation's wine, Gatlinburg is a hidden gem, known only to those curious enough to try something off the beaten vineyard. A walkable city center makes winery hopping convenient and much safer than the alternatives, too. In fact, nearly all of our wineries, including Sugarland Cellars, Little Bear Winery, and Tennessee Homemade Wines, are located right on the Parkway—some even within a bottle or two's distance of each other. Whether you're in town for a girls' getaway or a romantic weekend, don't put a cork in your stay until you've treated yourself to a glass or two of something special that proves you can get good wine east of the Mississippi—if you know where to look.

Fill 'er up

Full bellies make the fun more satisfying

You're gonna work up an appetite while you're here. As well you should. Thankfully, there are loads of places to satisfy even the hangriest in your group. Snatch a home cooked meal from Mama's Chicken Kitchen or pack a lunch to go with provisions from Parton's Deli. And for those visiting for a special occasion (hello, newlyweds), there are plenty of more formal options to celebrate in style.

We also boast plenty of al fresco dining options that often come with a pretty nice view to boot. To satiate all your senses, check out places like Tom and Earl's Back Alley Grill, Alamo Steakhouse, and Loco Burro Rooftop Bar for outdoor dining at its best.

As always, use the guide to getcha where you need to be. And please, remember to tip your servers.

DINING

Pancake Pantry

The Park Grill

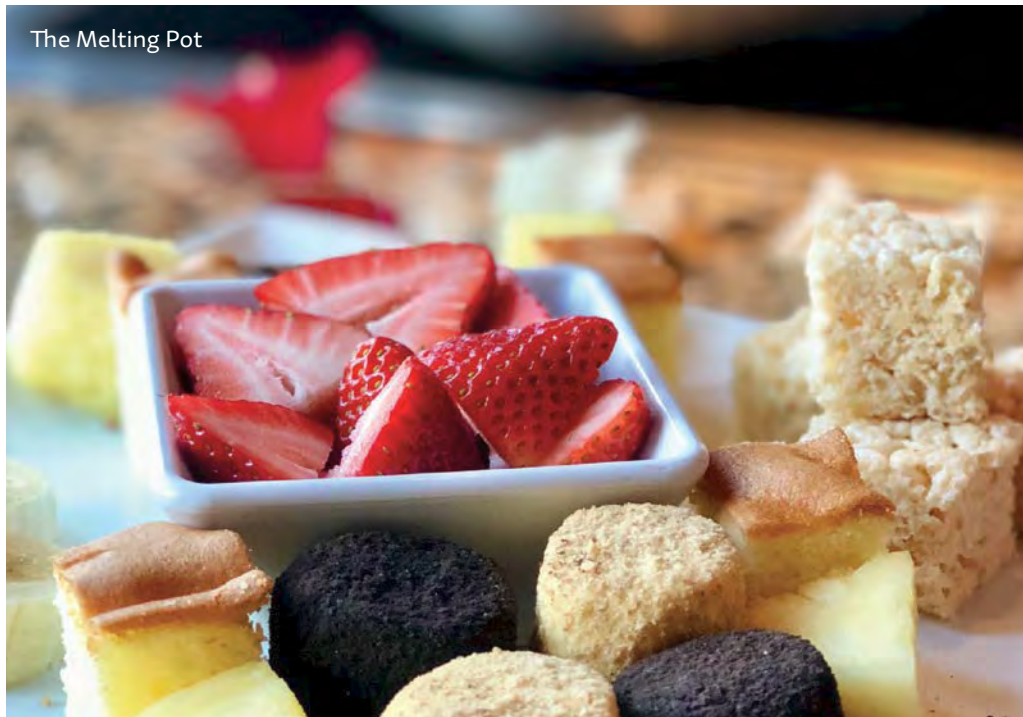

If you haven't been paying attention, you might not know that we've become a bit of a destination for burger geeks all over the country. So much so that in 2020, we launched our own burger celebration, aptly titled GatlinBURGER Week. For seven days, restaurants in town compete in the ultimate burger-making challenge, bringing their best off-menu gourmet burgers to a table near you for an everyday burger price. While you're here - for GatlinBURGER Week or otherwise - swing by any of our local restaurants where they're vying for top burger honors everyday. You be the judge. What is your favorite GatlinBURGER?

Is there anything more American than a big breakfast? Probably not. (Sorry, apple pie.) Around these parts, we specialize in all kinds of fixins', from fancy to the Far East, but there's just something special about waking up to crisp mountain air and cracklin' bacon. Breakfast is fuel for the day. Motivation to get out of bed. And just really good. Grab a seat at one of our many eating establishments that serve up a mean plate of morning grub, from Crockett's Breakfast Camp to the Little House of Pancakes to Flapjacks Pancake Cabin or the Log Cabin Pancake House (hmm...we're sensing a theme). Bring the little ones and the big ones and dig in to the day.

ARTS & CRAFTS

Artist Jim Gray

What We Make Matters

*Our generations turn over,
but our art is forever*

With a legacy that stretches back dozens of generations and hundreds of years, the arts and crafts community helped put our mountain town on the map—and keep it there. In fact, it's through our art that we best preserve and tell the story of Gatlinburg.

While you're here, you have the opportunity to be a part of the story in more ways than just making a purchase. Take advantage of "You Create Classes" offered in various galleries or jump in on the class offerings at Hands on Gatlinburg, a yearly event hosted by the Great Smoky Arts & Crafts Community where guests like yourself can learn how to make crafts from local professionals. Or pay a visit to the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts, which is responsible for preserving so much of our arts and crafts heritage. This is your chance to be a part of something special. What are you waiting for?

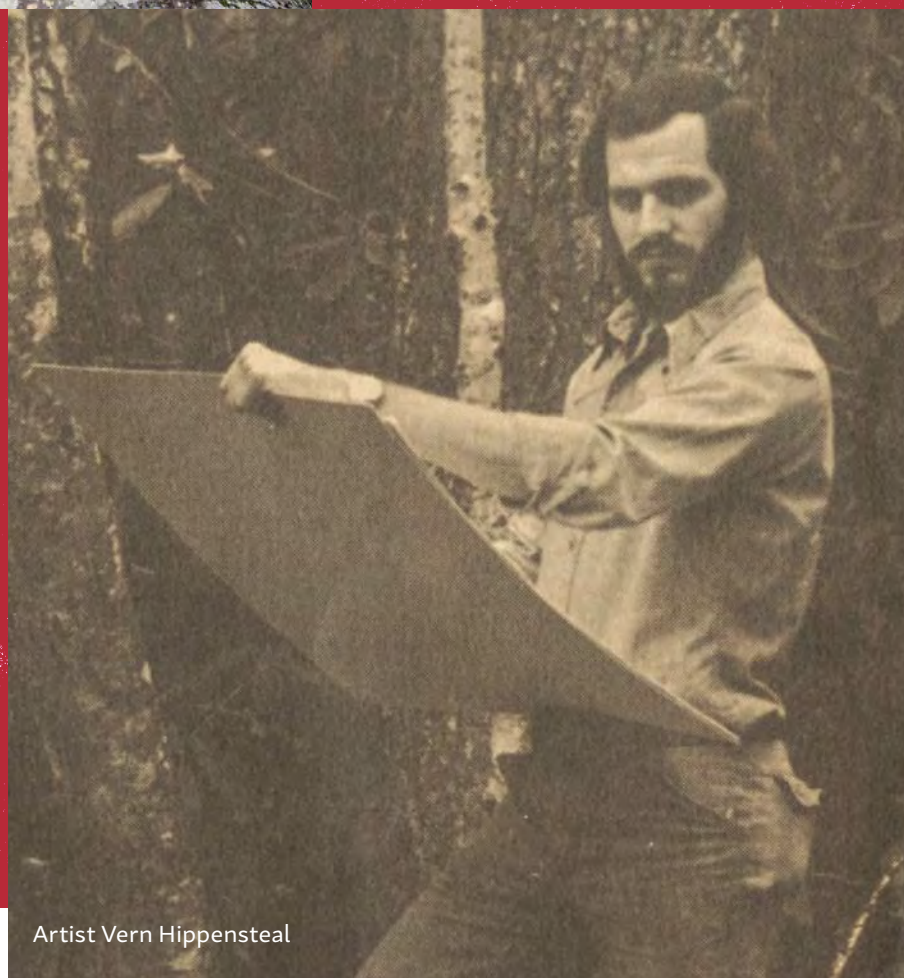

ARTS & CRAFTS

Woods Hippensteal and Dan Gray

Art runs in our blood. Try as we might (and we have) we've yet to find a generation that hasn't contributed to the artistic culture of Gatlinburg in one way or another. Take Dan Gray and Woods Hippensteal for example. Dan now runs the world-famous outpost, Jim Gray Gallery, founded by his grandfather, Jim Gray. As the latest generation to run the gallery, Dan's on a mission to preserve Jim's legacy, while putting his own spin on things. For his part, Woods Hippensteal has begun to walk in his father's shoes in the Gallery while making a name for himself—separate from his artist father, Vern, whose watercolors have been bringing the Smokies to life for decades—via the surreal and unexpected. Together, both men are rearticulating for a new generation of Gatlinburg artists just what it means to create from a place of something.

Before Dan and Woods, there were the artists and crafts-people of the mountains. Those whose creations weren't just for show, but made out of necessity. When we think of the generations that came before ours, our minds naturally drift to the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts, a place that's done so much to not only preserve our artistic heritage, but to mold it into what it's become. Initially founded as a scholastic outpost by Pi Beta Phi Fraternity for Women, early teachers were thanked by local school children with handcrafted trinkets, including baskets and wood-carvings, made by their parents. This started a conversation about how to preserve and secure Appalachian crafting, and the rest, as they say, is history.

Ole Smoky Candy Kitchen

Savannah Bee Company

Shopping Done Different

Why buy the ordinary when the extraordinary is everywhere?

We could tell you all about our nine malls (yes, you read that correctly). Or our specialty stores along the Parkway. Or the fact that we've got modern shops tucked away on streets straight out of the Old World. But what really sets shopping in Gatlinburg apart is that it's accessible, varied, and so unlike anything you've probably ever experienced. For the full experience, make sure to set aside some time while you're here to treat yourself to something you wouldn't find anywhere else in the Lower 48.

SHOPPING

Marketplace

The world is full of generic keepsakes and mementos. You can buy those any time, in any old place. While you're here, we encourage you to think bigger than the obvious. Take home a piece of history to pass on someday, or something hyper-local to stretch your visit beyond your physical presence. Places like the Ole Smoky Candy Kitchen and Savannah Bee Company are sweet gateways into the finer things you'll find in nearly every nook and cranny throughout our many shopping districts.

Our unique shopping doesn't stop at Parkway boutiques—it extends into the most commercial of spaces: the modern American mall. Our malls make a weekend out with the girls, or a weekend shopping for the guys, a rewarding experience in and of itself. Browse handcrafted leather goods from local artisans you can get to know by name, or jewelry made by third generation gemologists. Enjoy the European atmosphere of The Village Shoppes, or browse the charming shops of The Marketplace while you find the right special something for your special someone. Like we said, there's nothing ordinary about anything we do. And that goes for shopping, too.

Wedding SERVICES

We Vow to Wow

Stunning views, locally sourced menus, and flexible planning simply can't be beat

Wedding trends come and go, but Gatlinburg weddings stand the test of time. And there's never been a safer bet for exchanging "I dos." With countless outdoor spaces to host your gathering, and traditional and not-so-traditional packages for every budget, we're more than ready to help you walk down the aisle in style. If a full-blown gathering isn't in the cards right now, consider a micro-wedding—a great alternative to overblown, overpriced, over-everything weddings that leave you more in debt than in love. Browse our list of vendors to help you create a day that won't quickly be forgotten.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Elk Springs Resort

Treehouse Grove at Norton Creek Resort

Home Sweet Home Away From Home

*It's not where you stay
but how you stay*

The average person spends a third of their lives sleeping. So why not spend some of that time someplace where the air is as crisp as fresh linen? From historic hotels to creaky cabins, our menu of available accommodations is endlessly customizable for however large or small—or demanding—your traveling party may be.

Camping out is no longer reserved just for the hearty, outdoorsy folks. Sleeping under the stars has never been more luxurious than it is at one of our comfy campgrounds. Grab your friends and enjoy a roaring campfire complete with s'mores and stay in a climate-controlled safari tent. Or, cozy up with someone special in a tree house or vintage camper. Glamping has never been more fun!

Choose from upscale lodges, classic motels, or cozy bed and breakfasts. Or, mix it up, and split your stay across two or three experiences. Whichever route you choose, you can't go wrong. Just make sure to make the time count.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Historic Gatlinburg Inn

Imagine yourself here. Enjoying this view with a glass of wine or nice aged rye in hand. Not a bad life, is it? Now, we have a feeling it didn't take too much effort to transport yourself inside this magazine, rather than staring at it. And you know what else doesn't take much effort around these parts? Finding a room with a view. You can thank The Gatlinburg Inn for that. An early lodging establishment, the Inn has welcomed First Ladies and celebrities, and has inspired many (very good) imitations over the years. Rated in the Top 10% of all hotel destinations worldwide by TripAdvisor, The Gatlinburg Inn really took off—like a lot of other things in America—shortly after WWII. Now it serves as a cornerstone of our hospitality industry, welcoming road weary travelers and weekend warriors as much as the next Lady Bird Johnson.

Just up the street from The Gatlinburg Inn you'll find Zoder's Inn & Suites, another iconic Gatlinburg lodging known for its nightly service of milk and cookies and its enviable location on the Parkway. Like the Inn, Zoder's also began as a family-run outpost in the first half of the 20th Century. What started with three cabins has now become a built-out 6-acre property nestled up against Roaring Fork Creek. And, with access to Gatlinburg's Trolley service, it's an ideal pick for those who'd rather not be stuck playing chauffeur during their stay.

We Don't Just Look Pretty

Real people live here year round, and they've got lots to do. Here's how they get it done, and where you can too.

Sure, you're on vacation, but that doesn't mean you're just sitting by the pool doing nothing (okay, for maybe a few of you it does, but we're not talking to you right now). Maybe you need to mail a postcard (Hi, Mom!) or forgot your tent spikes, or need a notary real quick (we won't pry). Those are all things that happen on a daily basis and we want you to feel like this town is yours, too, while you're here. So take advantage of all the services we have to offer like you're just another local going about their business.
