

CALLING ALL ADVENTUROUS EATERS

PULL UP A CHAIR

Welcome to good eatin' country.

We hope you came hungry. Because if there's one thing we don't lack in Gatlinburg, it's places to nosh like nobody's watching. Our local chefs continue to amaze us with what they're serving up. From simple Southern staples, like meat-and-threes, golden-fried chicken and creamy grits, to more modern dishes and fine dining, there's something here that can speak to everyone's taste buds. Have a sweet tooth? Satisfy it with the likes of decadent caramels, fudges, taffies and donuts—all made fresh daily by local sweets shops. Someone's a picky eater? There are plenty of family-friendly eateries to choose from, too.

We might be biased when we say there are no wrong choices but, trust us, anywhere you take your appetite will offer a taste of Tennessee's mouthwatering flavors and widespread hospitality. And the thing is—we really love food. Like, really love it. Did we mention that, every year, we have two whole weeks set aside for a couple of our favorite dishes? (Flip back to page 16 for more on that.) Now that's dedication. So, come sit around our table to see what we're cooking next. We're a bunch of down-to-earth foodies ready to share homestyle recipes made with a whole lot of heart.
