CITY OF GREENSBURG

EMPLOYEE SPOTLIGHT

Amber Coyne

BUILDING OFFICE ASSISTANT
CITY HALL

A lifelong resident of Greensburg, Amber graduated from Greensburg Community High School in 1997. She remains deeply rooted in the community, surrounded by her husband, children, parents, siblings, and their families. After high school, she attended the University of Southern Indiana where she majored in Business Administration. During college, Amber began a career in the hospitality industry, eventually advancing from a front-desk position to serving as a General Manager.

During her tenure in the industry, she also served as a Training Manager, developing and managing programs for new general managers. This is where she met her husband, Curtis. Amber transitioned away from hospitality in 2011 following the birth of her first son, Jacob, and later welcomed her second son, Tyler, in 2014. Amber was fortunate and proud to be a stay-at-home mom for ten years before she re-entered the workforce in 2021 as the Administrative Assistant for Main Street Greensburg. There, she managed the Farmers Market and collaborated with downtown business owners on various events and initiatives.

She joined the City of Greensburg as the Building Office Assistant in December 2021 and will celebrate her five-year anniversary with the city later this year! For Amber, the most fulfilling aspect of her role is witnessing the tangible impact the Building Department has on the community. She enjoys seeing the transformation of properties and the full lifecycle of major development projects across the city. She finds deep satisfaction in working for the place where she grew up, noting that every effort made by the city is designed to improve the community as a whole.

Outside of her professional responsibilities, Amber prioritizes time with her family. She also enjoys spending time with her two doodles, Molly and Joy. Reflecting on her experiences, Amber offers this advice: "Slow down and enjoy the journey, because time goes very quickly."

"Amber is a dependable and hardworking member of the Building Office team. She consistently demonstrates professionalism, attention to detail, and a strong commitment to serving the public. Her positive attitude and willingness to go above and beyond make her an invaluable asset to the department."

– Sarah Hamer, Building Commissioner
