

Hawai'i's Regenerative Tourism Movement - Maui

The Hawai'i Tourism Authority is committed to regenerative tourism for Hawai'i, seeking to balance the economics of tourism with the wellbeing of our communities, natural resources, and culture. This includes attracting and educating positive-impact travelers who are mindful of how they respect and interact with residents, of how their movement through Hawai'i impacts the environment positively and of how they value and respect the Hawaiian culture and other cultures of Hawai'i. This commitment to regenerative tourism advocates for solutions to overcrowded sites, overtaxed infrastructure, and other tourism-related issues; and works with responsible agencies, community, and stakeholders to improve natural and cultural assets valued by Hawai'i's residents.

Advance Reservation Systems

As part of an effort to promote regenerative tourism, counties, and state agencies in Hawai'i, along with national parks are actively managing hotspot attractions by implementing advance reservation systems. These systems are instrumental in managing visitor capacity, protecting Hawai'i's natural environment and cultural sites, improving experiences and allowing us to better steward the Hawaiian Islands. Educate and advise your clients on the importance of making advance reservations so they can better enjoy Hawai'i and mālama (care for, protect and preserve) Hawai'i.

Mālama Maui, Travel with Purpose

In the Hawaiian culture, caring for the 'āina (land) is not just a responsibility for all who live on it, but is expected of guests to our islands. It is an act that connects to life itself, as the 'āina and people are connected. As visitors plan their travel to the Islands, participating in opportunities to $m\bar{a}lama$ (care for, protect and preserve) Hawai'i while traveling and visiting Hawai'i will provide a profound connection to our natural world, culture, and communities. For those seeking to connect more deeply with our island, opportunities abound: plant trees alongside Ka'ehu volunteers, engage in cultural preservation efforts with Maui Cultural Lands, or simply support our local businesses with intention and aloha. In immersing themselves in the very best of Maui, visitors take part in meaningful experiences while actively contributing to the strength, vitality, and spirit of our community.

■ Maui Cultural Lands Honokowai Valley: Extensive archeological surveys of Honokowai Valley conducted in 1999 revealed that beneath the tangle of foliage lay numerous archaeological sites, including homes, farms, trails and heiaus (places of worship), dating back more than a century ago. By the 1920s, sugar dominated the islands' economy, and stream water was diverted for its cultivation. Without a source of fresh water, families left the valley to find new ways to live. In 2002, when Ed Lindsey founded Maui Cultural Lands to facilitate the restoration of cultural sites, Honokowai was number one on the list. Volunteers have since helped to uncover miles of rock walls, along with home sites and heiau along with planting thousands of native plants and trees, restoring lo'i for dryland taro, planted vegetable gardens, and even built a simple hale in the region. Volunteer maintenance work projects dedicated to preserving the Honokowai Valley project takes place every Saturday at 9am. - Ka'ehu: Ka'ehu is a nonprofit organization with the goal of restoring the land and perpetuating traditional Hawaiian culture using a community-based, inclusive, family-oriented approach to environmental stewardship and sustainable agriculture. Workday Activities include: Mālama 'Āina working and maintaining taro patches, restoration of streams, and native plants, clearing overgrowth, removal of invasive species, and more; Mālama Kai Clearing of beach debris along the shore of Ka'ehu Bay. Please visit to learn how to get involved: HOME | Ka'ehu
- Leilani Farm Sanctuary: The mission of Leilani Farm Sanctuary is to provide care for rescued animals and humane education to the community. Leilani Farm Sanctuary offers a variety of projects for volunteers. They welcome visitors to come and brush the goats and the donkey, garden, pick fruit, spread straw, clean the barns, feed the animals, and collect eggs. The Sanctuary also participates in Tourism Cares, a global non-profit uniting the travel industry for positive and environmental impact. For more information, please visit:

Mineral-only Sunscreen

Maui Nui is committed to protecting the ocean and our marine wildlife neighbors. In October 2022, Maui County – with the support of their residents and in response to the Maui Destination Management Action Plan – put into effect a law banning the sale and use of chemical sunscreen. It is an important move which promises to reverse the negative impact that the chemical sunscreen has on our coral reefs, other marine life, and our shoreline. Travelers visiting Maui are encouraged to purchase mineral-only sunscreen on-island at local Maui retailers instead of bringing their own sunscreen. This ensures that mineral-only sunscreens are used. Visitors can also enjoy free mineral-only sunscreen from dispensers at 20 popular beaches throughout Maui and one beach on Lāna'i. Visitors can also enjoy free mineral-only sunscreen from dispensers at numerous popular beaches and other areas throughout Maui and one beach on Lāna'i.
