CHRISTINE HA

Despite experiencing vision loss due to neuromyelitis optica (NMO), a rare inflammatory autoimmune disorder of the central nervous system, Chef Christine Ha's success as a local chef and entrepreneur has never been brighter. Her restaurant, The Blind Goat, is a modern Vietnamese eatery located in Houston's Spring Branch neighborhood.

Her appearance on the popular cooking competition Gordon Ramsey's MasterChef catapulted her status as an accomplished chef, particularly after being crowned the show's Season 3 champion. In 2020, The Blind Goat restaurant was recognized as a James Beard semifinalist in 2020 for Best New Restaurant.

In 2023, Chef Christine and her husband John opened Stuffed Belly, a drive-through sandwich concept located in the adjacent parking lot from her other restaurant, The Blind Goat.
