Bettina Reventlow-Mourier , Deputy Director, Copenhagen Convention Bureau

Bettina is deputy director of Copenhagen Convention Bureau. She has, for more than 20 years, worked closely with both associations, academia, organisations, companies and government on securing international congresses and conventions in the capital region, supporting their long-term, positive impacts and contributing to the continued development of the meetings industry.

Bettina has been the initiator and co-founder of Copenhagen Legacy Lab, which received the GDS Innovation Award 2021, the IMEX-EIC Innovation in Sustainability Award 2022 and the GDS Impact Award 2024. And also initiator of the Copenhagen Risk Assessment White Paper and upcoming Copenhagen Risk Navigator launching 20th May.

Strongly focused on close partnerships with the industry, Bettina is actively involved in organisations such as ICCA, BestCities, The ICEBERG, CityDNA and ESAE and is a frequent speaker on various international platforms.

She received the ICCA 'Inspirational Woman Award' in 2018, was named ECM Community Hero in 2020 and was awarded the ICEBERG Award for Excellence in 2025.
