ICCA, Chief Executive Officer

Resilience personifies the shared desire to move our industry forward.

ICCA sees many positives and great potential as in-person meetings return.

Everyone knows the international events and meetings industry was severely impacted by the global pandemic. But in a strange way, the enforced time out many of us endured, allowed us the space – and the opportunity – to dream it all up again. To think differently and be more resilient. To utilise technology and smarter ways of working. To make what we do matter more by shaping content through legacy, sustainability, DEI and innovation. And I believe this report, adapted for all to see, shows just how well we – as ICCA – and our industry in general, have emerged from the shadow of COVID-19.

The through narrative of 2022 was how resilient associations and members were, representing an industry-wide desire to meet once again in-person. Of course, key markets such as China remained in a lockdown scenario, and the social/economic turbulence caused by the war in Ukraine impacted Europe and beyond. However, all of us involved in our global community can take heart from 2022 and now look forward to a positive and healthy return to (hopefully) pre-pandemic activity levels in the coming years.

The welcome return of our annual Country - and City - Rankings (on which this Public Abstract is based) for the year 2022 coincides with the World Health Organization's recent declaration that COVID-19 no longer qualifies as a global emergency, thereby emphasising the return to normalcy for the association meetings industry. At the end of 2022, ICCA made the proactive decision to revert to normal rankings again based on the observation that approximately 85% of all meetings were held in-person. ICCA's Research team identified over 10,500 meetings of which some 9,000 meetings were held in-person, being either unaffected by COVID-19 or held in a hybrid format.

This Public Abstract focuses primarily on actual meetings (in-person and hybrid) as this is the main driver of our industry when it comes to knowledge sharing, human interaction and economic impact. However, as ICCA recognises the destinations' achievement of winning the bid in the first place, the total number of planned meetings is available in ICCA Business Analytics – the new and more definitive name for the Data Comparison Tool (DTCDCCT). This allows members the option of creating alternative rankings based on their requirements.

The ICCA Country – and City – Rankings always generates huge industry interest. It's heartening to see the drive towards in-person meetings is once more very strong and we predict this trend will grow. And as ever, if you want to know more about ICCA and the level of detail and analysis that goes into what we do day after day, I sincerely recommend you explore the options available of becoming an ICCA member and joining a unique and vibrant global community of talented and committed professionals.

Introduction

Shaping the future and value of international association meetings.

ICCA - the International Congress and Convention Association - is the global community and knowledge hub for the international association meetings industry. The international trade association now comprises over 1000 member companies and organisations in almost 100 countries worldwide with a professional network of approximately 100,000 people.

Specialising in the international association meetings sector since its establishment in 1963, ICCA offers unrivalled data, communication channels, and business development opportunities to its members, who represent the top destinations worldwide and the most experienced specialist suppliers.

International meeting planners can rely on the ICCA network to find solutions for all their event objectives, such as:

- Venue selection.
- Technical and strategic advice.
- Assistance with delegate transportation.
- Full convention planning.
- Ad hoc services.

ICCA's research department has collected information on international association meetings since ICCA's founding in 1963, now possessing 60 years' worth of data. This is kept up-to-date by ICCA's global Research team in partnership with ICCA Members, who submit meetings data on a continuous basis. This information is available to ICCA Members only through the online ICCA Association Database, which – in June 2023 - was relaunched as ICCA Business Intelligence, part of ICCA's substantial Digital Transformation.

ICCA also functions as a platform for ICCA Members to share their expertise and marketing channels on the corporate meetings market.

2022 ICCA Statistics – An essential guide for any international association and all meetings industry stakeholders.

Use this report to improve your bidding or decision-making methodology and facilitate more business opportunities.

The aim of this publication is to assist international associations and meetings industry players in improving their selection process and to become more conscious of the large number of variables that should be considered in order to make a professional decision.

How non-ICCA Members can use this report.

This publication is produced for associations, press, students and universities, consultants, and other potential ICCA Members. The full ICCA Statistics Report is a member-only benefit.

We have created this abstract to give non-members access to the Country and City Rankings by number of meetings in 2022 and provide background information on ICCA, the ICCA Association Database and ICCA Membership benefits.

Associations

ICCA Association Community

In 2020 ICCA opened its doors to associations with the launch of the “ICCA Association Community”, offering education, connections, tools and resources to associations to organise more effective meetings.

The Association Communication benefits include:

- Access to the ICCA Associations Meetings Intelligence tools, including the Association Meetings Database, the Destination Comparison Tools and the Big Data Search.
- Possibility to update your meeting information that we hold in our database to ensure you receive tailored proposals from ICCA Members.
- Access to publications containing advice for associations (such as white papers), case studies on cutting-edge international association meetings, and other resources that can assist you in all areas of event management.
- Excellent education and networking opportunities at the in-person and virtual ICCA events.
- Bid manual reviews. Whether you already have a bid document for your event or are considering compiling one, ICCA is happy to review your manual and make suggestions where and if needed.

If your meeting adheres to our criteria - it rotates between at least 3 countries, occurs regularly, and attracts a minimum of 50 participants - then you can apply to join the ICCA Association Community.

To join the ICCA Association Community and for more information on any of the above benefits, please visit the ICCA website at www.associations.iccaworld.org or contact Frances van Klaveren CAE, Community Engagement Manager, at associations@iccaworld.org.

Press

As a member of the press, you are free to use the data in this report for your articles, as long as you quote ICCA as the source and www.iccaworld.org as the reference.

We always appreciate receiving news pieces that mention ICCA, so when your article has been published, we highly encourage you to send us the digital or print version. We will then add it to our PR records and share your article with the #ICCAWorld online community.

For more information about ICCA or the ICCA Statistics, please see www.iccaworld.org/about-icca/media-centre/press-contact/contact.

Be the first to receive breaking news from the meetings industry's leading players.

ICCA Members are the leading suppliers in the international meetings industry and ICCA contact persons are usually the main marketing budget holders. The ICCA Press Database is used by our members both as a source of potential advertising channels and as a press list, which means they will be providing you with information that is highly relevant to you or your publication.

The Press Database is a fantastic source of breaking news stories and innovative way to gather insider content from leading meeting industry sources and suppliers, so including your details in our database could be highly beneficial!

If you would like to receive news releases from ICCA and/or ICCA Members, please add your profile to the ICCA Press Database by filling in this form. For more information about ICCA membership or ICCA activities in your region, please contact your local ICCA Regional Director.

Students and Universities

ICCA is keen to engage with – and attract - young professionals into our industry so as a student, you are free to use the data in this report for your research, as long as you quote ICCA as the source and www.iccaworld.org as a reference. We are also always interested in receiving examples of research that incorporate ICCA statistics.

To send us your paper or details about your research project, please email education@iccaworld.org.

Consultants and other potential ICCA Members

All non-member organisations are free to use the data in this report, as long as you mention ICCA as the source and www.iccaworld.org as a reference.

There are three available options that will gain you access to the complete records of ICCA Statistics Reports:

1. Join ICCA

If your company is regularly involved in studies and consultancy regarding the international association meetings market, it will most certainly be beneficial and cost-effective for you to join ICCA.

Benefits of ICCA membership for consultants include:

- View all current and previous statistics reports.
 - Conduct tailor-made studies using our live Association Database for yourself or your clients.
 - Meet potential future clients through networking opportunities with the leaders of the international association meetings industry at regular ICCA events.
- Why?
- Gain credibility as a top industry supplier.
 - Win more international business.
 - Improve professional standards.
 - Learn from peer groups through education and knowledge sharing.

The next step is up to you!

If you wish to be part of this growing professional body, to improve your chances of increasing your business, or learn more about the association meetings market, then you should visit the ICCA website or contact your local ICCA Regional Director for more information about membership.

You will be sure to find an enthusiastic welcome and an answer to any questions you may have about ICCA, its products, services and its members. Remember that being a successful ICCA Member is about involvement. The greater the part you play within the association, the greater your rewards.

2. Sub-contract work to or partner with ICCA Member consultants

There are several specialist meeting industry consultancy companies amongst ICCA's membership body, who are frequently involved in major project research and advice. They not only have access to our data and reports but can provide invaluable specialist knowledge on the industry and client requirements. They frequently provide services for non-specialist consultancy companies.

You can find a listing of our member consultants below. However, please note that many other ICCA Member companies may get involved in occasional ad hoc consultancy work in addition to their core business.

For a current list of ICCA Member Consultants and Research Companies please check out the ICCA Membership Directory Online: Membership Directory > Meetings Support > Consultancy.

3. Work with ICCA members based in the city/country where you are conducting your research or consultancy project

There are over 1,000 ICCA Member companies and organisations in almost 100 countries worldwide, representing all the leading players in the international meetings field. It is very probable that one or more are already key stakeholders in the projects you are working on. If this is the case, they will be able to provide access to the reports on either a complimentary or paid-for basis. You can search for members in the Members sections of the ICCA website or we can provide advice on who to contact if you give us more information on your project, client, and partners.

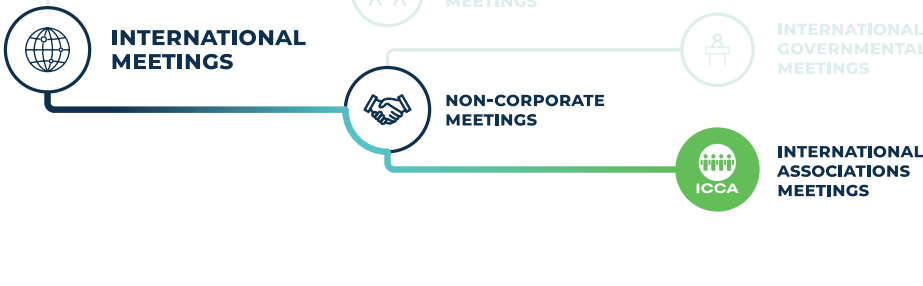

How to segment the international meetings market

The international meetings market can be segmented in many different ways: by meeting size; by type of delegate; by a meeting's purpose; by subject matter; and by many more criteria besides.

However, the main criterion a supplier uses to segment the market is by the initiator of the meeting. The initiator determines what kind of meeting is organised and the kind of supplier services needed.

When segmenting the international meetings market by initiator, two primary markets can be defined: Corporate Meetings and Non-Corporate Meetings.

The latter consists of international governmental organisations and international nongovernmental organisations or associations. ICCA's area of expertise is in the international association meetings market, but we also assist ICCA members in sharing knowledge on the other market segments.

Characteristics of the association market

The association market covers a wide range of meeting types and categories: medical meetings (the largest segment); scientific; other academic fields; trade organisations; professional bodies; and social groupings.

In terms of size, budget, duration and complexity, there are massive variations between and within categories.

However, some similarities can be identified:

- Almost every 'speciality' has an association which holds one or more meetings.
- Most associations have meetings that are repeated at regular intervals. These can be annual, biennial, etc.
- The destinations rotate. They rarely return to the same destination within a very short period of time.
- The local stakeholder, e.g. the national association, is often the one who initiates the hosting of a meeting. If the national association proves difficult to motivate to organise the meeting, the chances are high that the meeting will be scheduled elsewhere.
- Association meetings have very long lead times; it is not unusual to find lead times of 5 years or more.
- It is estimated that a growing minority of about 25-30% of the decision-making processes no longer include an official bidding procedure but have a “central initiator” who selects the location and venues based on pre-determined and strict criteria.
- It is estimated that there are approximately 23,000 different association meetings organised on a regular basis. The ICCA Association Database has collected information on approximately 90% of them.

The international association meetings community is an important industry, bringing revenue, business opportunities and potential change into the communities where these major events are held. ICCA is a passionate advocate for the importance our industry plays and we are committed to positive improvements around sustainability, legacy, DEI and innovation. We champion solution-based thinking and are advocates for change. We are a proud founding partner of the Net Zero Carbon Events initiative. We are also committed to improving education and opportunity in our industry through ICCASkills, our global certification programme for events professionals.

We hope access to this report will give you – as reader – a clearer understanding of what we do.

ICCA's Country and City rankings 2022

Picking up the thread

ICCA is proud to present the return of its annual Country- and City-rankings for the year 2022 after an absence of two years. The publication of the rankings coincides with the World Health Organization's recent declaration that COVID-19 no longer qualifies as a global emergency, thereby emphasizing the return to normalcy for the association meetings industry. At the end of 2022, ICCA made the challenging and proactive decision to revert to normal rankings again based on the observation that approximately 85% of all meetings were held in-person, a percentage which remained consistent up till now.

In a joint effort with our dedicated members, ICCA's Research team was able to identify over 10.500 meetings of which some 9.000 meetings were held in-person, being either unaffected by COVID-19 or held in a hybrid format. As the association meetings industry is still catching up to the numbers of the last pre-pandemic year (13.254 meetings in 2019), we will conduct a brief country and city comparative analysis based on rankings rather than number of meetings. In addition, we will provide context to in-person versus planned meetings and how these statistics can be best utilized.

Comparative analysis top20: 2022 vs. 2019

Rank 2022	↑↓ 2019	Country	# Meetings 2022		Rank 2022	↑↓ 2019	City	# Meetings 2022

4	(-2)	Germany	484		4	0	Barcelona	133
5	(-2)	France	472		5	+4	Prague	129
6	(-1)	United Kingdom	449		6	-1	Madrid	128
7	(+3)	Portugal	294		7	-4	Berlin	113
8	(+1)	Netherlands	253		8	+9	Athens	109
9	(+5)	Belgium	234		9	+19	Brussels	108
10	(+1)	Canada	233		10	-2	London	106
11	(+5)	Austria	232		11	+5	Dublin	105
12	(-4)	Japan	228		12	0	Copenhagen	102
13	(+8)	Greece	185		13	-6	Singapore	101
14	(0)	Sweden	179		14	+4	Rome	79
15	(+2)	Switzerland	175		15	-1	Amsterdam	73
16	(+5)	Denmark	169		16	+13	Helsinki	69
17	(-4)	Republic of Korea	162		17	+18	Oslo	67
18	(+14)	Ireland	152		18	-7	Buenos Aires	66
19	(+11)	Norway	148		18	-3	Seoul	66
20	(+4)	Czech Republic	146		18	+4	Stockholm	66
20	(+5)	Finland	146		18	+14	Milan	66

Spain (+2) and Italy (+3) have replaced Germany and France to claim positions two and three, completing this year's top three, with U.S.A. remaining number one. Belgium (+5) and Canada (+1) have entered the top 10, claiming 9th and 10th positions, while Portugal (+3) and the Netherlands (+1) both reinforced their positions, rising to 7th and 8th place respectively.

The biggest risers in the second half of the top 20 are Ireland (+14), Norway (+11) and Greece (+8) followed by Austria, Denmark and Finland (all +5). Finally, Czech Republic (+4) and Switzerland (+2) have managed to strengthen their positions in the top 20.

After being absent from the top 5 in 2019, Vienna (+5) has risen to the top spot of the 2022 city rankings at the cost of Paris (3rd position), with Lisbon and Barcelona consolidating their 2nd and 4th positions respectively. Prague (+4) completes the top 5. Top 10 newcomers Athens (+9) and Brussels (+19) have claimed 8th and 9th position.

Dublin (+5) and Rome (+4) have fortified their positions within the top 20, while Scandinavian cities Helsinki (+13), Oslo (+18) and Stockholm (+4) as well as Milan (+14) are welcomed as newcomers.

In-person vs. planned meetings 2022

After long and careful deliberation ICCA has decided to base this year's Country- and City-Rankings on the total number of in-person meetings (unaffected and hybrid) as opposed to the total number of planned meetings, which also includes virtual, relocated, postponed and cancelled meetings. The reason for this is that in-person meetings are the driving force of our industry when it comes to human interaction, knowledge exchange and economic impact.

As COVID-19 measures have varied around the world, some destinations have been impacted more than others by this decision. The difference between the number of in-person versus planned meetings is most significant in Asia/Pacific, the most striking example being China-P.R. in place 26 in the in-person rank versus place 12 in the planned ranking.

As ICCA recognizes the destinations' achievement of winning the bid in the first place, the total number of planned meetings is available in the Destination Comparison Tool (DCT). This will provide our members with the option to create alternative rankings based on their requirements. A preview is available on the last page of the rankings.

ICCA strongly believes that statistics exist to tell a story, and this is why we offer our members various tools to do this in a comprehensive way. There is not a single country where at least one planned meeting was affected by the pandemic in 2022, but for our Asia/Pacific members it would certainly be our recommendation to also consult the DCT. The ICCA Database displays the status of each meeting, and in the relevant cases, shows the reasoning behind the organizer's decision not to run a meeting as in-person.

Scope of this report

The most respected global comparison of destination performance in attracting international meetings, ICCA's annual country and city rankings are highly anticipated by the meetings industry.

However, ICCA continuously seeks to emphasise that this annual report is a snapshot of just one segment of the meetings industry, focused on charting the growth of international association meetings.

Only those meetings that meet ICCA's stringent assessment criteria - rotating between at least three countries, have a proven attendance of at least 50 participants, and are held on a regular basis - are recorded within the global association's annual statistics. The full ICCA statistics reports are available to members in the ICCA Business Analytics Tool.
