Dick Stout, DeFazio Law Firm

A native Kentuckian, Stout first came to Jackson Hole in the summer of 2002 and worked as a whitewater rafting guide for four summers. After graduating from the Brandeis School of Law at the University of Louisville in 2007, he moved full-time to Jackson Hole and accepted a position at the DeFazio Law Office, where he is a now a partner in the firm. Over the years, Stout has volunteered in the community in various capacities, including serving as the President of the Board of Directors of the Teton County Housing Authority, Youth Protection Coordinator for the Boy Scouts of America as well as being a long-time Chamber volunteer, particularly during the Christmas season. With long standing ties to the Jackson Hole Chamber of Commerce, Dick is a natural fit for the Board of Directors. In his spare time Dick enjoys skiing, fishing and hiking with his girlfriend Hannah.
