Our Mission.

The mission of the Jefferson Convention and Visitors Bureau, Inc. (JCVB) is to actively partner with the tourism and hospitality industry by marketing and selling the destination brand experience with resulting additional spending by leisure and group travel visitors leading to enhanced community economic vitality and resident quality of place.

— ABOUT JEFFERSON PARISH —

What if it were possible to explore a variety of towns each with its own charm, atmosphere and background, all while being minutes away from the Big Easy? Home to the Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport, and the gateway to New Orleans, we can't tell our story without our famous next-door neighbor. Encompassing both sides of the Mississippi River, each town offers its own personality with sceneries ranging from swamps and bayous to cityscapes and high-rises. Our various communities are comprised of outdoor centric attractions, quaint historic districts, as well as a trendy art presence, contemporary restaurants, modern theatres, as well as shopping and metropolitan expanses. Rich in culture, diverse in its people, and steeped in tradition, Jefferson offers all the heart of New Orleans, with a unique Jefferson experience.

We invite you to embrace the outdoors when you hike or stroll one of our nature trails or boardwalks at Jean Lafitte National Historical Park. Relax and unwind when you overnight in a furnished floating cabin at Bayou Segnette State Park, or camp on the beach of Louisiana's only barrier island at Grand Isle State Park. You'll find that art and cuisine collide when you dine along the Jefferson Parish Louisiana Oyster trail, where each restaurant along the trail is marked with a 3-foot-tall oyster sculpture each uniquely hand-painted by a local artist. Navigate through coastal wetlands and encounter aquatic wildlife when you board a swamp tour along the bayous of Jefferson. Whether discovering one of only three lifesize NASA prototypes at the Rivertown Space Science Complex and Planetarium, or shopping at Lakeside Mall, the retail capital off Louisiana, you will come to expect the unexpected.

A world-class airport, two convention centers, numerous recreational facilities, and over 8,000 hotel rooms are only a two-step from New Orleans in Jefferson. Our ideal proximity offers convenient transportation access, affordable accommodations all while enjoying the ease of being next door to New Orleans. Jefferson Parish offers venues and accommodations to a broad spectrum, hosting conferences, meetings, exhibits, theatrical performances and sports tournaments. With attractions such as Jean Lafitte National Historical Park, Bayou Segnette and Grand Isle State Parks, German American Cultural Center, and the Jefferson Parish Louisiana Oyster Trail, Jefferson Parish prides itself on its family friendly accommodations, serene green spaces, charming historic districts, and savory seafood cuisine. Whether traveling solo, for business, or on a family vacation, Jefferson's convenient airport location, family-friendly accommodations, and ideal proximity to New Orleans provides a significant value to your visit.

= HISTORY OF JEFFERSON =

With Jefferson being home to some of history's most outlandish characters such as Huey P. Long and Jean Lafitte, the history of Jefferson Parish is sure to intrigue you. Learn the history of Jean Lafitte and his controversial contributions to the Battle of New Orleans, and discover the history of Huey P. Long and the significance of the Huey P. Long Bridge. Jefferson is also home to three historic districts, Kenner, Gretna and Westwego.

Grand Isle

Located at Jefferson's southern most tip, Grand Isle is Louisiana's only barrier Island with a thriving seaside community with petroleum and seafood industries as well as everything the visiting sportsman, tourist or camper would enjoy. The State of Louisiana maintains a mile of beachfront at Grand Isle State Park on the easternmost end of the island. The park looks out toward nearby Grand Terre island, once the lair of the legendary pirate (or smuggler, if you choose) Jean Lafitte and site of the ruins of U.S. Army Fort Livingston. Grand Isle State Park has a 400-foot long public fishing pier with a nearby fish-cleaning station. State officials say that over 280 species of fish are known to live in the waters around this sandy spur. The camping area of the park can accommodate up to 100 families or groups with nearby bathhouses with running water and an adjacent dump station.

Gretna

The name Gretna, immortalized by a popular play from the last century, recalls Gretna Green, Scotland - a haven for young couples who wish to elope. Gretna captures this romantic history by offering Valentine's Day weddings at its Gretna Green Blacksmith Shop. Gretna welcomed German immigrants to the West Bank and their story, along with the earlier migration into southeast Louisiana, is magnificently told in the German American Cultural Center. Gretna was also an important railroad center. In the city's historic area, one can find the oldest Firehouse in America - the David Crockett Fire Company #1, complete with a museum and a blacksmith shop that recall the area's nineteenth century heyday. Gretna's historic area is home to several charming shops and restaurants, as well as the Jefferson Parish courthouse and other public, historical buildings.

Harahan

Named for the onetime president of the Illinois Central Railroad, James Harahan, Harahan is an industrial community that is comprised of Jefferson and River Ridge, two quaint towns nestled at the bend of the Mississippi River. Harahan is also home to the infamous Huey P. Long Bridge, the bridge that unites the parish.

Harvey

A business community fueled by its vital shipping route to the Gulf of Mexico, Harvey is a hub of activity along its port as well as its boulevards. This community is out front continuing the effort in maintaining Jefferson's role and position in the environmental, energy and shipping industries. Harvey is also home to numerous subdivisions, businesses, hotels, and the Fountain Park Centre, a 20-acre commercial development with retail, banquet facilities, restaurants, and office space.

Kenner

Named for early plantation owner Duncan Kenner, this town boasts the historic area of Rivertown along the banks of the Mississippi, the Pontchartrain Center on Lake Pontchartrain and its neighbor the Treasure Chest Casino. Science and nature exhibits, theater performances, even a NASA Prototype are among the exciting possibilities found in Rivertown. The Kenner Planetarium and Megadome Cinema are a must-see. Kenner is also home to the Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport.

Marrero

This West Bank community, Marrero, is home to the Barataria Preserve, part of the Jean Lafitte National Historic Park and Preserve offering bayous, swamps, marshes and hardwood forests with eight miles of boardwalks and walking trails for exploring Jefferson. In addition, Marrero is a thriving community of neighborhoods, schools, businesses, and restaurants.

Metairie

This East Bank community on the south shore of Lake Pontchartrain was once the site of the Colapissa Indian Village on the natural raised banks of a bayou along which a trail ran into New Orleans. This Metairie Ridge was ideal for farming, the name Metairie in French refers to small, leased farm holdings. Today in "Old Metairie", Metairie Club Gardens is a charming residential area first developed in the early decades of the twentieth century. Metairie Road winds along the old trail through upscale shopping centers and new developments. Metairie also has great retail shopping, with Lakeside Shopping Center and Clearview Mall, and countless free-standing boutiques. Metairie is home to schools, churches, hospitals, subdivisions, restaurants and an abundance of hotels.

Town Of Jean Lafitte

Named for the legendary pirate who once made his hideaway here, the Town of Jean Lafitte is a waterway refuge rich in Louisiana culture. You can explore the bayou country, dance to Cajun music or stay overnight at one of the many inns that overlooks the marshes of the breathtaking Bayou Barataria Basin. A thriving fishing village since the 1700s, the Barataria region is still the point of departure for fishermen and their trawling nets filled with shrimp, crab and oysters. You, too, can experience some of the best fishing in Louisiana, whether by boat, private charter or atop Lafitte's public fishing pier. Lafitte is an excellent way to be immersed in the beauty and mystique of Louisiana wildlife.

Westwego

Once a passageway for pioneers headed to the Western frontier, Westwego borders some of Louisiana's most picturesque bayous and swamps. Westwego's adjacent 580-acre Bayou Segnette State Park is a great escape from the hustle and bustle of the city. Nestled on the banks of Bayou Segnette, the park's extensive grounds comprise the most popular state park in Louisiana.

It is also home to the John A. Alario Event Center and Bayou Segnette Sports Complex, developed for conferences, tournaments and performance events. The City of Westwego is the launching point for several swamp tours and bayou excursions and is the locale of an excellent seafood market offering fish caught fresh from Louisiana waters.

Sala Avenue is the city's Historic District and is currently being redeveloped for the enjoyment of locals and visitors. The Westwego Farmers and Fisheries Market, opened summer 2008, features fresh produce, seafood, arts and crafts Wednesday and Saturday from 9am to 1pm. The Westwego Historic Museum is located in the century-old fisherman's exchange building and features an old-time hardware store and completely furnished upstairs living quarters with antique furniture.

= OUR AMBASSADORS, THE IMAGINATION MOVERS! =

We are very fortunate to be next to one of the greatest cities in the world. A major, internationally known city like New Orleans creates opportunities for a neighbor like Jefferson. More and more visitors want to explore the road less traveled, and that's us.

This kind of thinking led us to a step-by-step process to create a campaign to entice leisure visitors to discover Jefferson Parish. Sure, Bourbon Street can be wild, but have you seen our wild side? Our Just Imagine campaign shares with visitors on how to best experience our culture and lifestyle.

To deliver our campaign message we employed the talents of The Imagination Movers ... not just because of the campaign title, but because this entertaining troupe will serve collectively and individually as terrific ambassadors for the parish and region. The Movers are a high-energy, interactive live music act. Over the last decade, they have entertained fans in North America, Europe, and Asia. One of their tours attracted 150,000 fans and was named by the leading concert magazine – Pollstar – as a Top 100 tour - one of only two family acts on the list. The Imagination Movers ranked as the No. 1 rated major touring act for families according to Ticketmaster.com and 98 percent of the people who see The Movers recommend them to friends and family.

There's no better spokespersons to promote family entertainment in Jefferson Parish than four long-time friends - Rich Collins, Scott Durbin, Dave Poche and Scott "Smitty" Smith ... The Imagination Movers.
