Miles and miles of deals available with '301 Endless Yard Sale'

DUNN, N.C. (WNCN) - Someone else's trash may become your treasure this weekend.

It's time again for a massive yard sale that only happens once a year.

Starting at the crack of dawn Friday, hundreds of vendors started setting up their booths throughout five counties.

"Oh, my gosh, the bargains," Lisa Welch of Johnston County said.

When the 301 Endless Yard Sale started it was 30 miles long. Now six years later, it's more than tripled.

"It's 100 miles and it's difficult to do 100 miles. I've tried shopping it," said organizer Tommy Abdalla.

The deals line U.S. Highway 301 from Dunn to Weldon.

"We had somebody in from New Jersey shopping this," Abdalla said. "They came down specifically for this."

Welch told CBS 17, "(There's) a lot of treasures to be found. I see a lot of antiques. I see some new stuff. It's a little mixed of everything."

Some shoppers come to find something specific.

Terry Mercer, a vendor, was selling a variety of items.
