Laurel Highlands to Host Highly Sought-After Media Marketplace Event in 2018

The LHVB and Nemacolin Woodlands Resort are proud to announce that the region will play host to the 15th annual Mid-Atlantic Tourism Public Relations (MATPRA) Media Marketplace, Sept. 25-27, 2018! This event will bring more than 100 travel journalists and tourism marketing representatives to the Laurel Highlands for a three-day, two-night conference. Local tours will be offered to attendees before, during and after the conference, resulting in increased exposure for the region’s tourism assets.

“The Laurel Highlands is filled to the brim with unique stories and the opportunity to host the 2018 MATPRA Media Marketplace allows our region the opportunity to showcase and plant story ideas with the incredible talent attending this event,” said Ann Nemanic, Executive Director of the LHVB. “We have already begun the planning process with our partnering host, Nemacolin Woodlands Resort, for an experience beyond compare. Customized tours to our main attractions and hidden gems are just a singular aspect of what attendees will have in store when they arrive.”

MATPRA is a cohesive unit of regional tourism partners encompassing Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Washington D.C. and West Virginia. The alliance works together to serve travel journalists in order to promote the Mid-Atlantic region as a travel destination.

2018 County Tourism Grant Chats Scheduled!

Join the Laurel Highlands Visitors Bureau to learn what you need to know about your county’s 2018 Tourism Grant Program. We encourage anyone interested in applying for a tourism grant to attend this FREE meeting.

Reservations are required and can be made by contacting Rachel at roehrig@laurelhighlands.org or 724-238-5661, ext. 101. Deadline to RSVP is September 25. Please indicate your county when calling.

- Wednesday, October 4 – Fayette County Tourism Grant Chat, Penn-State Fayette, Room 116, Eberly Corporate Training Center
- Thursday, October 5 – Somerset County Tourism Grant Chat, Somerset Country Club

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the grant chat held 9-11 a.m. Light refreshments will be available at each session.

Grant applications will be available online at www.laurelhighlands.org/grants on Oct. 9. Completed applications will be due Nov. 17, 2017.
Meet Allyson!

The LHVB is pleased to introduce Allyson Null, newly-hired Marketing Communications Coordinator, to the marketing team. Allyson is a recent graduate of Indiana University of Pennsylvania with a dual major in Journalism and Public Relations, and Communications Media, as well as a minor in French. Aside from her exceptional writing capabilities, Allyson brings an array of skills to the department including photography and photo editing, radio production, video production and graphic design. In addition, Allyson completed an internship with the Cambria County Convention and Visitors Bureau in 2016, giving her an excellent foundation of knowledge for the industry and understanding of tourism promotion for the area. Allyson will offer support to the marketing department for a variety of needs, but will primarily serve as a content creator for marketing needs. This means writing blogs, content for the website and social media, destination guide editorials and more! Please welcome Allyson to the staff at anull@laurelhighlands.org.

LHVB Annual Dinner | October 25, 2017

Join fellow tourism partners, the LHVB Board of Directors and staff for the Laurel Highlands Visitors Bureau Annual Dinner at The Barn at Ligonier Valley, located just off Route 30 in Ligonier. The striking craftsmanship and rustic ambiance of The Barn at Ligonier Valley and the region’s stunning fall foliage will provide a beautiful backdrop as we celebrate tourism and partnership. The highlight of the evening will include presentations of our Tourism Trailblazer of the Year and Tourism Employee of the Year. Invitations will be arriving in your mailbox in September. We look forward to seeing all of you on October 25!

MARKETING NEWS

Kristin Ecker, Senior Director of Marketing

Fall Marketing

Fall is on its way and the LHVB will be launching targeted digital campaigns with help from Red House Communications. These targeted digital efforts are the start of the implementation of a three-year marketing strategy developed by Red House, which has identified opportunities with different generations, locations and interests that the LHVB can target to drive traffic and increase overnight stays. Alongside traditional media placements such as TV commercials on WTAE and KDKA, billboards and print co-ops, the enhanced digital placements, include social media advertisements, native content advertising, weather-triggered banner ads, video pre-roll ads and more! All of these initiatives allow the LHVB to better target different users in different places with different interests with unique, customized ads developed with each in mind. Once we have caught their attention, visitors will be directed to unique landing pages on laurelhighlands.org with additional customized content, allowing the LHVB to get visitors directly to partner information.

2018 Destination Guide

The LHVB team is hard at work on the 2018 Destination Guide! The guide is the LHVB’s primary fulfillment tool with 175,000 copies printed and distributed annually. Distribution points include 85 regional brochure racks, consumer shows, visitor inquiries, PA Welcome Centers, and PA Turnpike rest areas - just to mention a few! Each guide features unique content, partner listings, a bound-in map, coupons and more! The LHVB also prints and distributes 25,000 additional maps, which are available to partners at no cost. The guide will be printed and ready for distribution in December, so don’t miss your chance to advertise today. All artwork is due September 29. Contact Louise Bates at lbates@laurelhighlands.org or visit us online at laurelhighlands.org/DGads for additional information on how you can participate today!

Website Update

The LHVB is working with its web development company, Simpleview, on a redesign for laurelhighlands.org! The redesign will take aim at enhancing the user experience when they visit the site by streamlining the content into easy-to-find options. This will allow visitors to quickly find the visitor information they are seeking to help them plan their trips and navigate throughout the Laurel Highlands. The redesign will also incorporate high-quality imagery and video of the region. LHVB’s marketing staff expects the new site to launch in the winter of 2018. Stay tuned!

Interactive Marketing Summit | November 3, 2017

Registration and more information about the event is available online at: laurelhighlands.org/summit. Space is limited, so register today! Help spread the word on Twitter and Instagram by using #LHsummit.
Did you know? This time of year is my favorite. Many get energized when the calendar rolls over to a new year, but when I see school supplies lining the shelves, I get excited. I always loved back-to-school shopping with my mom. I remember the fun of cleaning out my closet and buying a new pair of sneakers, the anticipation of seeing my friends after a long summer, wrapping my books in paper grocery bags and decorating each one with my new set of markers. But above all, it was about learning something new. I’m a perpetual learner.

How do you help yourself, or your staff, learn about the Laurel Highlands? Perhaps you can take a page out of my book and start an In the Field Day. Many years ago someone asked me, “How do you know so much about this area? You’re not from here.” A true statement and probably, all the more reason I needed to learn what was in my own backyard. I’m doing the same with your LHVB staff. Each month we are taking roughly five hours out of the office to discover the Laurel Highlands as a group. One staffer takes the lead and plans a mystery trip. Everyone has a colorful journal to record their thoughts, jot down facts, all to be used for their own work-use. Taking a tour, talking to a partner, asking questions will make each of them a better blogger, tour planner, escort, writer, and visitor information specialist. And, the best part might be learning something new about each other. Who knew Jared would pet a snake or Kristin felt comfortable behind the wheel of a race car!

Learning has also been a part of the process for our incoming LHVB board members. During an orientation on August 23, seven board members were introduced to the inner workings of the Bureau. We welcome Stephen Clark, National Park Service; Clinton Piper, Fallingwater; Monte Hansen, Nemacolin Woodlands Resort; Ken Bisbee, Ohiopyle State Park; Michael Simons, Spring Hill Suites Latrobe-Pittsburgh; Alicia Henry, Westmoreland Industrial Development Corporation; and Bryan Perry, Allegheny Trail Alliance. We look to their leadership and knowledge to advance our organization over the next year.

Another learning opportunity will come in early October for all tourism businesses in the Laurel Highlands when we host our annual grant chats in each of our three counties. These two-hour workshops will provide helpful information on the tourism grant programs in each county. Most criteria will remain the same, but it is always helpful to join us to see if there is something you might have missed, or to pick up a pointer on how to improve your application. If you are unable to join us, all content will be uploaded to laurelhighlands.org.

Sharpen your pencils class! There’s something new to discover this season in this magnificent destination we call home.
