A paved brick path leads up a hillside towards the building's entrance, flanked by lush green trees and shrubs. A blue handrail runs along the right side of the path. Robinson College

Robinson College provides a unique environment for national and international conferences.

From the outset, Robinson College was planned with the needs of conferences very much in mind. Set in several acres of attractive wooded gardens yet only a few minutes' walk from the city centre and the famous "Backs", the College building is architecturally striking and highly functional.

The College has been a venue for residential and non-residential conferences and meetings since 1981 and over the years has steadily grown in experience and reputation. In September 2015, it added a new meetings and events space, the Crausaz Wordsworth Building offering flat-floored cabaret and classroom-style set-ups along with three breakout rooms and bright spacious foyer area all contained within the same building. The Auditorium and Umney Theatre offer purpose-built, raked floor theatres seating 270 and 120 guests respectively.

The College also has a further 20 meeting rooms available for smaller meetings, training courses, group and syndicate use.
