WHAT'S NEW:

Great Wolf Lodge – Opened in late 2016, the property has 311 guest rooms, 20,000 square feet of meeting and event space, and seven dining outlets. One of the major highlights is the large water park available only to hotel guests and other indoor fun like a ropes course, miniature golf and the brand's first and only rock climbing wall. greatwolf.com

U.S. Olympic Training Center – The visitor center recently underwent a state-of-the-art renovation that includes a digitally enhanced rotunda, social media wall to track athletes, rotating exhibits and more. The center has 65,000 square feet of meeting space and various activity options for groups. visitos.com

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING:

Sandy Milis, CTA, meeting and event planner for the Evangelical Presbyterian Church and president of Joyful Journey Travel, coordinated a faith-based meeting of pastors at Cheyenne Mountain Resort and is looking at doing the same in 2017. "I would recommend a visit to the Olympic Training Center to my church pastors if they do return to Colorado Springs this year," Milis says. "I think the natural beauty of the mountains definitely adds to the appeal of Colorado Springs, and an excursion up to Pikes Peak would definitely be worth the trip."

SANTA FE NEW MEXICO

OVERVIEW: Santa Fe, the United State's oldest and highest state capital, is only 16 miles from Ski Santa Fe. The downtown plaza, museums, one-of-a-kind shops and hotels are just steps from the Santa Fe Community Convention Center with 72,000 square feet of meeting and event space. Plus there is the iconic Canyon Road, home to more than 80 galleries. You may not think of Santa Fe as a mountain town but downtown is just a few minutes from the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, and the Jemez Mountains and Ortiz Mountains are nearby as well.

PROPERTIES WITH MOUNTAIN BACKDROPS:

Four Seasons Resort Rancho Encantado – This boutique hotel with 65 casita guest rooms and suites and 13,700 square feet of meeting and event space was designed on 57 acres tucked away in the Sangre de Cristo foothills. A spa offering regionally inspired treatments and a restaurant focusing on local influences and ingredients are highlights.

Bishop's Lodge – The iconic 1920s ranch resort on 317 acres, also in the Sangre de Cristo Range of the Rockies foothills, has new ownership, is undergoing renovation and should reopen in late spring 2018. The project is upgrading all areas of the ranch and expanding accommodations to 123 rooms and suites. The horse stables are still open for business, providing trail rides and Equus, a horse-assisted personal development and leadership experience. <code>bishopslodge.com</code>

La Posada de Santa Fe – On the outer edge of downtown, La Posada has a secluded feeling that reflects its roots from 1880s brick mansion, early 20th century art colony and ultimately a 26-building, 6-acre hotel. More of a village than a typical hotel, the property has 4,500 square feet of function space and 157 casita-style guest rooms, some dating back more than 230 years. laposadadesantafe.com

Other Great Options: Sunrise Springs Spa Resort; Eldorado Hotel & Spa; Inn and Spa at Loretto; Hilton Santa Fe Buffalo Thunder Resort & Casino.

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING:

Dual Language Education of New Mexico has hosted its annual convention for more than 2,400 attendees and GLAD Summer Institute in Santa Fe.

Favorite Properties: La Fonda on the Plaza, Eldorado Hotel & Spa, La Posada de Santa Fe and Drury Plaza Inn.

Venues: Community Convention Center, New Mexico History Museum, New Mexico Museum of Art.

Attractions Attendees Love: International Folk Art Museum, Institute of American Indian Arts, Georgia O'Keeffe Museum, Santa Fe Children's Museum.

Why Santa Fe?: "We look for retreat-like settings, and with the size and the people in the hospitality industry we find Santa Fe to be a great destination. It might be considered too small a town for our group, but as we grow we have found ways to work out some of the size challenges, and our participants beg us to return as often as we can. The mountains in November are usually snowcapped, and even with 60-degree day temperatures, the mountains hold their snowy beauty."

- David Rogers, executive director, Dual Language Education of New Mexico

Venues & Attractions with a Mountain Twist:

Ski Santa Fe, Ten Thousand Waves, mountain views at La Fonda on the Plaza's outdoor patio garden off the La Terraza room and fifth-floor Belltower Bar and Eldorado Hotel & Spa's Presidential Patio.

WHAT'S NEW:

Meow Wolf – The 20,000-squarefoot "House of Eternal Return" interactive art experience is housed in a former bowling alley and has several immersive spaces, a 300-person music venue, video game arcade, treehouses and more.

Santa Fe Margarita Trail – Introduced in May 2016, the trail highlights 31 restaurants and bars that offer special, uniquely designed and named margaritas. Passports are available from Santa Fe Margarita Trail and TOURISM Santa Fe for $3, provide $1 discounts on margaritas, and result in prizes when collecting five, 20 and all 31 stamps.

Hotel Updates - Rosewood Inn of the Anasazi and La Fonda on the Plaza have completed final phases of renovations. La Fonda focused on the revitalization of the historic property's lobby, La Fiesta Lounge and more, while the Rosewood Inn of the Anasazi wrapped up a three-year renovation and celebrated its 25th anniversary in July. Drury Plaza Hotel introduced the 3,000-square-foot O'Keeffe Room with an open design and ability to seat up to 300 guests, bringing the hotel's total indoor and outdoor meeting and event space up to 20,000 square feet.
