

VISIT NAPA VALLEY

Better With Time

MAY 20, 2020

mering

COPY

POST COPY:

Sometimes, the best things in life take time. And the Napa Valley is no exception. The grapevines are growing, the flowers are blossoming and your anticipation for a trip to our valley continues to ripen. Until then, keep your glass half full and we'll see you soon.

HEADLINE

Better With Time

COPY

ON-IMAGE TEXT

Here's to patience

POST COPY:

With time, everything gets better. And the Napa Valley is no exception. The grapevines are growing, the flowers are blossoming and your anticipation for a trip to our valley continues to ripen. Right now, raise a glass to you. Soon, you'll raise a glass with us.

HEADLINE

Better With Time

COPY

ON-IMAGE TEXT

Here's to being together

POST COPY:

Instead of 6ft apart. Until then, we're working to ensure you can enjoy all the Napa Valley has to offer, safely—from tasting rooms to restaurants, shops to hotel rooms—and when you're ready to return to the Napa Valley, just know that good things in life are worth waiting for.

HEADLINE

Better With Time

COPY

ON-IMAGE TEXT

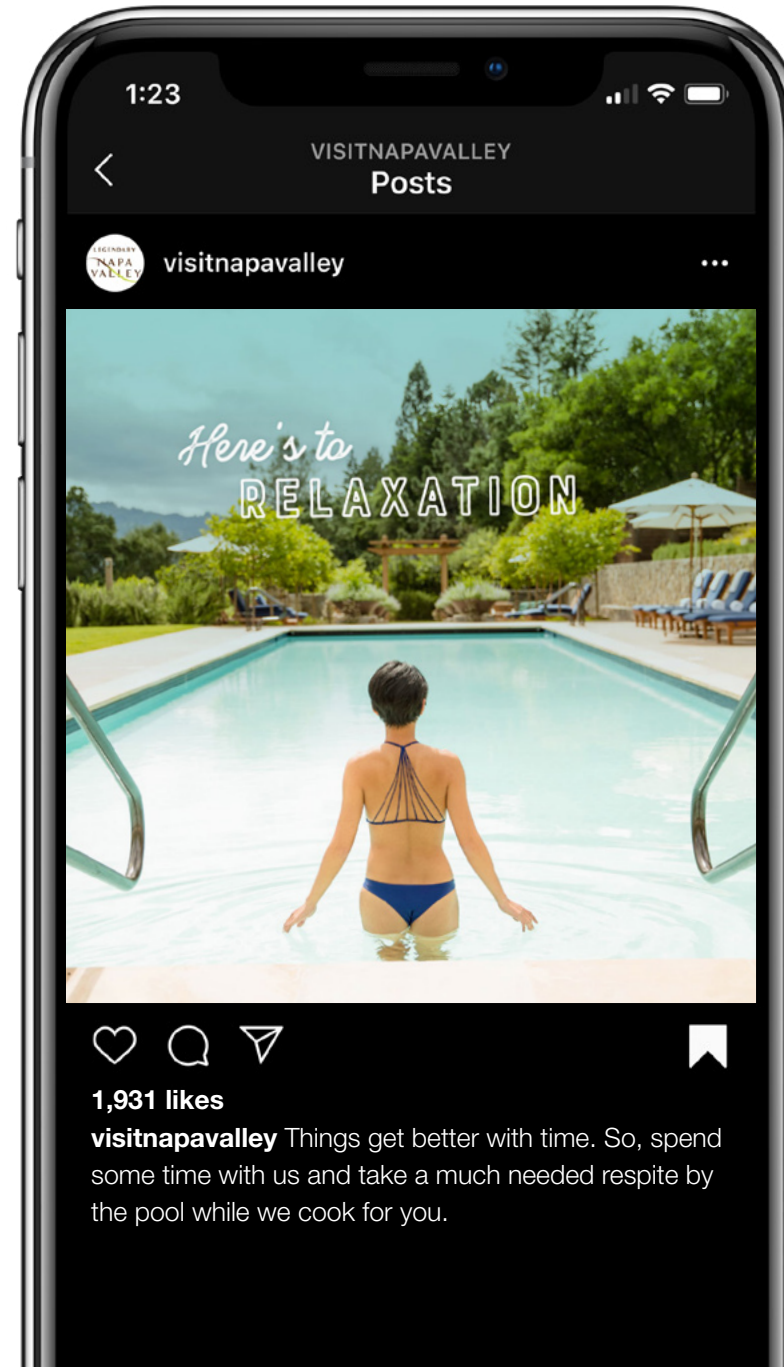

Here's to relaxation

POST COPY:

The time has almost arrived. When we can enjoy sheltering in some other places. When going stir crazy only happens in the occasional cooking class. And social distancing simply means going off the beaten path. For now, when your mind wanders, make sure it heads to the Napa Valley.

HEADLINE

Better With Time

COPYON-IMAGE TEXT

Here's to raising a glass

POST COPY:

A toast to your return to the Napa Valley. Wining and dining together again. Enjoying tastings and small plates. Taking afternoon strolls through charming towns and spending evenings under the stars. Until then, keep your glass half full and we'll see you soon.

HEADLINE

Better With Time

COPYON-IMAGE TEXT

Here's to a full stomach

POST COPY:

We think it's safe to say we're all ready for a home cooked meal, as long as it's cooked outside of our home. And to enjoy the best of what the Napa Valley has to offer. But don't worry, the next time you dine with us it'll be like you never left.

HEADLINE

Better With time

COPYON-IMAGE TEXT

Here's to a breathtaking view

POST COPY:

Rolling hills. Open spaces. The natural beauty of the Napa Valley. Made even better when paired with your closest friends and family. Right now you may be waiting. Soon, we'll see these incredible views together.

HEADLINE

Better With Time

Thank you

mering