

Hotel Development in NYC: Fall – Winter 2021

It's Time for New York City --Fall Hotel Update

The New York City hotel community offers the most expansive and varied choices of hotel accommodations across the five boroughs in diverse neighborhoods from the Bronx to Staten Island. As the City continues to plan for more activities, more openings, and more visitors within the highest safety guidelines, more rooms are returning to active inventory and building activity continues on nearly 60 properties. Through October 2021, there have been 22 new hotel openings adding 4,139 rooms. The active pipeline adds another 13,838 rooms expected to come on line in the next 3 years.

As of the end of October, the New York City's hotel sector reported over 114,000 rooms in active inventory, accounting for about three-quarters of the total capacity including new and under construction projects. Each month established favorites are coming back on line to welcome business and leisure travelers to their rooms and amenities. Following a year marked by temporary closures, limited capacity, and acquisitions, the city's hotel pipeline remains one of the most active in the country. Despite the disruptions caused by the pandemic, construction on the majority of new and developing projects resumed as soon as work was permitted. As existing projects picked up pace, foundation work continued, floors are added and exciting façade designs are changing the look of neighborhoods while interior work on hundreds of new rooms showed the industry at its most sustainable and creative.

The hotel pipeline in New York City continues to stand out in the US for diversity of properties and investment. With a range of ground up new buildings, restorations of historic buildings, and expansions, the hotel sector is meeting the diversity of traveler preferences and expectations. Over the past decade, the city attracted new brands, international properties, authentic neighborhood independents, and a wide-ranging collection of select service brands, business class hotels, lifestyle and boutique properties, and new luxury destinations. The list of hotels identifies new brands, exciting amenities and attractions, outstanding architectural renovations, and fabulous locations.

Editor's Note: This report is prepared for the travel trade to aid in planning and product development. It is for reference only. Information about many of the City's new and proposed hotel projects is provided below. It is not intended as a complete list. As plans change frequently, please contact hotels directly for additional information. All projected opening dates are provisional as are room count and key elements of each project. At the time of publication, the list of hotel properties under construction was still expected to open on or near their scheduled or projected completion dates. The vagaries of construction permitting and the pressures of securing financing throughout the construction cycle which may influence the expected timing have been added to in the current environment in which the Covid-19 pandemic response outweighs most other considerations. In general, the properties listed here were in final planning and/or permitted, and in most cases, demolition and/or excavation had begun. Room counts and other details are subject to change.

Hotels in Development -- 2021 and beyond:
