

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Ocean City Life Saving-Station Museum Archives and Artifacts Changing Exhibit

February is over and thus it is time for the Ocean City Life-Saving Station to change the contents of its monthly exhibit: Archives and Artifacts. March is a new month with a new topic: The Storm of 1962. This month learn all about the storm that devastated Ocean City on March 6th and 7th, 1962.

Archives and Artifacts is an exhibit that changes monthly. The exhibit allows the museum to showcase pieces from its vast collection that have either never been displayed or have been off display for a long period of time. March's exhibit will be the Storm of 1962

During March for every two paid admissions into the museum you will receive a copy of The Tides of March written by Beryl and Bill Dryden.

The museum is open Saturdays and Sundays from 10:00-4:00pm.

Ocean City Life-Saving Station Museum
805 S. Atlantic Ave.
Ocean City, MD 21842
End of the boardwalk, across from the Inlet Village

Christine Okerblom
410-289-4991
Christine@oceancitymuseum.org