

This month, we're studying ecosystems. Ecosystems are made up of very specific living creatures that coexist and, in some instances, depend on each other for survival.

October

is Natural History Month

