About The Old Market™

Strolling through The Old Market neighborhood is a feast for the senses. The smells coming from the 42 restaurants, the sounds of street performers where Howard and 11th streets meet, the people-watching available at the 19 pubs and taverns in the market—all are easily within walking distance of the numerous hotels in the area. If you need a massage after all the walking around you'll want to do, or a book to read while you sip some coffee (or something stronger) on one of the numerous outdoor patios, the market has you covered there too. When you stay and shop in The Old Market, you're supporting local, independent, one-of-a-kind businesses. These establishments provide an experience you won't find everywhere else.

Old Market History

Sam Mercer,
1920-2013

Photo by Vera Mercer

THE HISTORIC OLD MARKET

At the end of the 19th century, Omaha was in its prime as a great railroad center, connecting the settled East with the wide-open West. The Old Market area was the epicenter of the activity, bustling with produce dealers, buyers, and transporters.

The area's heyday continued until the 1950s, when Omaha's westward expansion and radical changes in grocery marketing abruptly brought the activity to a halt. That's when Sam Mercer, threatened with building condemnation notices, proposed to rescue his family's red-brick warehouses by renovating them for new uses. Most people thought him imprudent. Today, they call him a visionary.

The son of prominent Omaha physician and landowner Nelson Mercer, Samuel Mercer was born and raised in London, England, and educated at Oxford and Yale. After living in Washington, D.C., he based his law practice in Paris, where he mostly lived the rest of his life, holding dual citizenship.

With the death of his father in 1963, Mercer took charge of Mercer Management in Omaha. He appreciated the century-old brick warehouses, some Mercer-owned, comprising the wholesale produce market just southeast of downtown.

By 1968, Mercer moved strategically to gain control of a collection of buildings in what is now The Old Market. It was Mercer's idea to make the ground-floor space of the former Gilinsky Fruit Company into a French restaurant. It became The Old Market's signature spot, the French Café (now Le Boullion), with apartments above it.

More anchor attractions followed—Homer's, M's Pub, Mr. Toad's, the Spaghetti Works, Nouvelle Eve, the Firehouse Dinner Theater, the Bemis. With his son Mark, daughter-in-law Vera, and nephew Nicholas Bonham-Carter, the Mercers evolved this never-planned but organically developed area. Distinct features to this day include The Passageway, V. Mertz, La Buvette, and The Boiler Room.

"We knew these warehouses had possibilities," Mercer said, "and to tear them down to construct contemporary buildings would have been like painting over the Mona Lisa."

HISTORIC TOUR

The Old Market is filled with sites and buildings of historical interest. Several of these have been specifically identified and researched. As a result, an Old Market Historic Walking Tour with identification plaques of these edifices began in 2003.

The Old Market

FOOD & DRINK

Omaha is one of the best cities for a foodie, and The Old Market is the best neighborhood for foodies in Omaha. The 40-plus restaurants in the area offer everything from street-style tacos, to hearty pub food, to nationally recognized, upscale cuisine. The cocktail scene is also thriving—offering delectable tiki concoctions or craft beers brewed right here in The Old Market. So whether you're craving a 5-course meal, a snack to replenish your energy, or a tasty beverage to quench your thirst, you will easily find what you need. All within walking distance of wherever you're staying.

SHOPPING

Walking through The Old Market, you might miss one of its unique, locally-owned gift shops if you're not paying attention. In every nook and cranny, or even underground, the market has something for everyone if you just know where to look. Some shops are up, down, around the corner, and even in the alley—waiting for the right collector of one-of-a-kind items to come in and discover the magic of the perfect piece. From cigars to jewelry to kitschy magnets, you can find it in one of our shops.

Blackstone

Blackstone is once again a burgeoning business and residential district spilling out from mostly turn-of-the-century doorways. Its proximity to major academic and medical institutions, Omaha's airport, and other historic neighborhoods make it a convenient destination or the perfect place to live and work.

Step into one of the many stylish establishments for delicious eats, distinctive microbrews, craft cocktails, or an espresso from a nationally renowned barista. Come experience the exciting renewal in this classic-meets-contemporary part of town.

Midtown Crossing

This is what a strong urban core looks like—a diverse neighborhood where restaurants and retail, community events and individual experiences come to life. An energetic embrace when you want to live loudly, a quiet escape when you don't. We're dinner conversation with friends and shopping you won't find anywhere else. Sixteen acres of life's little extras: activity, serenity, community. Perfectly centered. East of expected.

Located just north of the Old Market, North Downtown is Omaha's fastest growing neighborhood with several new developments currently underway. North Downtown is home to a range of entertainment options, from Hot Shops Art Center and TD Ameritrade Park, to the Slowdown (Omaha's iconic live music venue) and Film Streams independent movie theater. It's no surprise that entrepreneurs, creatives, and young professionals are flocking to the neighborhood to live, work, and play.

NORTH DOWNTOWN is a good place to...
