Buy of the week

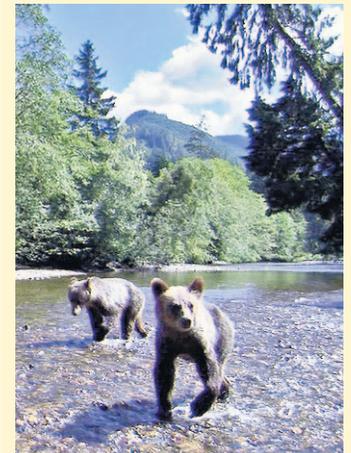

BY JANE MEMMLER

Inspired by a movie about the Andes and its majestic scenery, photographer Tony Hutchings said goodbye to his London photographic studio for six months in 1982 and headed to Peru.

Hitting the road for an incredible 9,300-mile adventure in a secondhand VW Beetle, he armed himself with Hasselblad cameras and Kodak Ektachrome film.

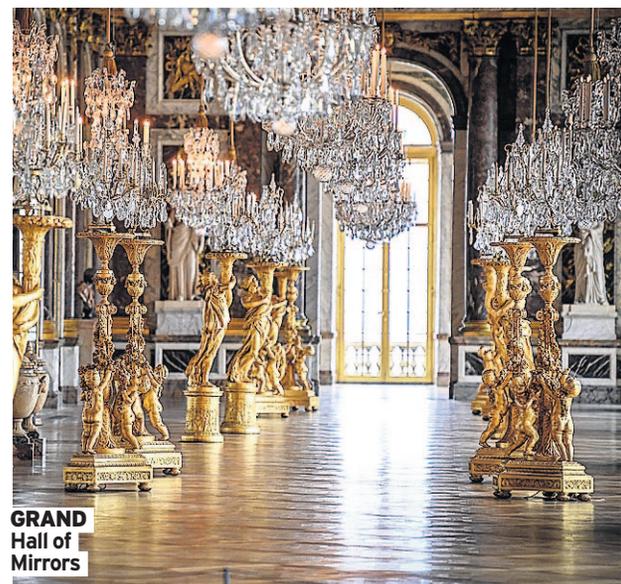

The result is an exquisite collection of images of extraordinary landscapes. From ancient Incan sites and remote villages, to the captivating faces of Peru's people, the book offers a candid insight into everyday life and customs.
