Aviation's Benefit for Florida

Florida's economic well-being is intrinsically entwined with its vibrant airport system and its robust aviation industry. The aviation system in Florida allows the state to capitalize on an increasingly global marketplace. Aviation in Florida both sustains and leads economic growth and development. Airports in Florida are important economic engines, and support vital health, welfare, emergency, and safety-related services.

Florida's system of commercial service and general aviation airports are important to businesses throughout the state. Air travel is essential to tourism, Florida's number one industry. Protecting and investing in airports throughout Florida will support the aviation industry and the economic benefits described in this report. With continued support, Florida's dynamic aviation system will continue to provide a significant economic return in the years to come.

Palm Beach County Park Airport

Located in Palm Beach County, approximately six miles south of West Palm Beach, Palm Beach County Park primarily serves recreational/sport and training aircraft, as well as business/corporate general aviation activities. With its three intersecting runways, the longest of which is 3,489 feet, the airport can accommodate small multi-engine general aviation aircraft. The airport's terminal is ideal for serving local users as well as those visiting the area.

There is one fixed based operator and numerous businesses on the airport that offer a variety of aircraft services. Palm Beach County Park's largest tenants include Palm Beach Aircraft Propeller, Inc. and Windward Aviation, both of which are aircraft maintenance businesses, and Palm Beach Flight Training. The airport primarily serves as a reliever airport to Palm Beach International and supports the area's local general aviation and flight training needs. All of the airport's tenants and flight activities are important to the airport's revenue streams and economic impact.

The annual economic impact of Palm Beach County Park Airport is associated with direct impacts that come from tenants/businesses located at the airport and construction projects that are undertaken by the airport or by on-site businesses. Indirect impacts are associated with spending from visitors who arrive in the area via general aviation aircraft.
