PISMO BEACH THEN & NOW

The rich history of Pismo Beach began at least 9,000 years ago with the Chumash Indians, who referred to the area as "pismu" meaning tar, a reference to the tar deposits commonly found on the beach back then.

1542 – Juan Rodriquez Cabrillo christens San Luis Bay as Todos Santos (All Saints Bay).

1769 – Don Gaspar de Portola and parties camped in the area. According to the diary of Costanzo, a member of the Portola expedition, "The party continued over the sand dunes and then descended to the beach, along which they walked for several miles before camping for the night. Near their camping place was an Indian village of some forty people." This same beach is known today as Pismo Beach.

1840 – The Mexican government established the 8,830-acre Rancho el Pismo and granted it to Jose Ortega. In 1850 California statehood dissolved the earlier land grants, and the area was divided into much smaller parcels.

1881 – Pismo's first wharf was built by San Francisco businessmen.

1887 – John Price sells the Pismo Beach Hotel to A.E. Pomeroy and Charles Stimson.

1891 – The Southern Pacific Railroad opened a railroad depot at Edna Road, connecting Pismo Beach with San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara.

Early 1900s – The turn of the century was a wild time in Pismo Beach. Pismo was known for its many saloons, and several notorious brothels. Other amusement-type businesses offered a variety of entertainment, including a skating rink, a bowling alley, and a dance hall. Hotels such as the El Pismo Inn and the Wave Hotel welcomed tourists from all over California, and soon the overflow created Tent City, rows and rows of clean, comfortable beach tents that rented for $8 a week.

1911 – Many thousands of clams on the beaches led city officials to set the first clam limit at 200 per day.

1924 – The new Pismo Pier was completed. It was rebuilt after incurring damage in the early 1890s and was considerably longer than it is today.

1945 – On New Year's Day, a group of businessmen decided to hold a clam bake and car race on the beach, with one event calling for the men to wade out into the cold ocean to dig for clams. This event marked the first Clam Festival.

1983 – Major storm washes out the Pismo Pier.

1985-86 – Pismo Pier was rebuilt in the design as it stands today.

2017-18 – Pismo Pier rehabilitated.

2020 – Pismo Promenade opened.

2021 – Pismo Beach 75th Anniversary.

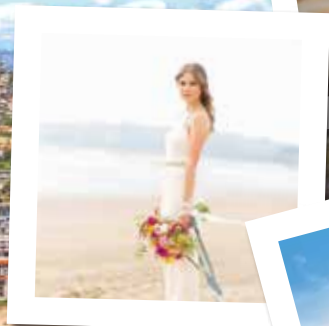

Pismo [State] Beach is a throwback to endless summers gone by, a time when you could drive on the beach, build a fire in the sand and then camp beside it.

WINE COUNTRY

JUST MINUTES AWAY IN EDNA VALLEY

Discover Pismo Beach's unrivaled proximity to wine country. Whether you're looking for that oaky Chardonnay, a light and fruity Pinot Noir or just a place to dig your toes into the sand as you watch the sun go down, Pismo Beach has something for everyone. When you head back to the beach, be sure to bring a bottle of your favorite find to enjoy as you watch the sunset and settle in for another dreamy Classic California evening in Pismo Beach, your one stop Wine & Waves™ destination.

San Luis Obispo County is home to more than 250 wineries and many tasting rooms are just a short drive away from Pismo Beach including the wine regions of Edna Valley and Arroyo Grande Valley.

EDNA VALLEY

The region's rocky volcanic soils produce fruit with intense varietal character and complex flavors. It's best known for Chardonnay and Pinot Noir.

ARROYO GRANDE VALLEY

This serpentine valley stretches 16 miles inland from Arroyo Grande and offers rich, concentrated flavors.

OTHER TASTING WITHIN AN HOUR OF PISMO

Paso Robles is home to more than 200 wineries. Cabernet, Zinfandel, Merlot, Syrah and various Rhône varietals dominate the vineyard landscape.

York Mountain is higher, wetter, cooler and much smaller than the sprawling Paso Robles wineries. Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay, Grenache, Pinot Blanc, Pinot Noir and Syrah are grown here.

Santa Maria Valley is best known for Chardonnay and Pinot Noir, but vineyards also produce Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Grenache, Merlot, Mourvèdre, Sangiovese and Syrah.

PISMO BEACH FOOD FEST

Wine and dine your way through town

Kale and heirloom tomatoes from the farm down the road. Fish from local boats. Breads and pastries from the downtown bakery. Wines from the estate vineyard a few miles away.

Food doesn't get much fresher than this, and in Pismo Beach you can access it all over town. Talented chefs use these farm-fresh ingredients to create delectable dishes, paired with regional wines. Dining options run the gamut, from elegant restaurants and lively steakhouses to casual, family-run cafés. You can also pick up your own ingredients at farmers markets and local shops.
