

Discover Seagrove! The country's largest community of working potters~

Shops are open year-round and host several special events during the year including the Celebration of Spring in April, and the Celebration of Fall in November.

Celebration of Spring
Pottery Tour
Event in April

Stepping Into The Craft
Summers in Seagrove

American Craft Week
First two Saturdays in October

Celebration & Studio Tour
Weekend before
Thanksgiving

Open Studio Holiday Tour
First three Saturdays in December

For a complete listing of events, details, and to see the participating shops, visit:

DiscoverSeagrove.com

 seagrovepotters

 @seagrovepotters

Discover the... SEAGROVE POTTERS EST. 1781 in the Heart of North Carolina

Seagrove
Handmade Pottery Capital of the United States

DiscoverSeagrove.com contact@DiscoverSeagrove.com

Visit-

Discover Seagrove, North Carolina, America's largest community of working potters, with the longest continuous history of pottery making in the USA.

Enjoy the beautiful countryside as you tour over 50+ studios and artists who call this unique destination home.

The Craft-

Watch in the studios as potters create their wares, showing off their specialized skills. From mastering the potters wheel, to sculpting, glazing, and firing up their kilns; visit and experience this timeless tradition and meet the makers of the Seagrove area.

The History-

Since the 1700's potters handed down their pottery making skills to family members through the generations. Taking advantage of the rich clay deposits, the pottery industry prospered and thrived. Today, many of these local clays, are still often used by the traditional potters.

A Variety of Styles-

The varied styles of craft available in Seagrove include both traditional and contemporary pottery; made by potters originally from the area, and those that have brought their artisan techniques with them from schools and studios from around the country. This now makes Seagrove one of the most diverse ceramic communities in the country.

Search and find the perfect piece; from kitchen and table ware, beautifully glazed home decor, to hand crafted garden ware. Whatever you are looking for ... You're going to love what you find in Seagrove!

