Visitors

Previously known as “Hotel Week RI,” Rhode Island extended this year’s promotion to a month following the success and growing interest of its first two hotel weeks.

“Based on consumer feedback, we are thrilled to extend the program so more visitors can enjoy the state and Rhode Islanders can enjoy staycations,” said Anika Kimble-Huntley, Chief Marketing Officer for Rhode Island Commerce Corporation. “Hotel Month RI serves as a much-needed boost to tourism and we are grateful to have so many amazing lodging partners participating and ready to show guests the wonderful amenities and superior service they have to offer.”

Unbeatable deals include stays at The Wayfinder Hotel in Newport for just $69 per night, Hotel Providence for $104 per night, Avonlea Jewel of the Sea on Block Island from $100 per night, 30% off at Weekapaug Inn and much more! In addition to discounts on accommodations, Hotel Month will also extend special offers at restaurants, attractions and activities around the state.

Rhode Island

From tip to toe, Rhode Island is 400 miles of New England coastline, dripping with beaches and fresh-from-the-ocean seafood that travelers have come to know and love.

Recognized as the Ocean State and proud of it, take a second look and you'll find Rhode Island is also public art, swanky mansions, charming villages, local farms, local brews, winding trails, and walkable cities.

Little Rhody is artistic, rebellious and historic and modern, welcoming and diverse. In 2020, tourism in Rhode Island generated $1.3 billion in tax revenues, with $597 million accruing to state and local governments.

The traveler economy supported 66,402 jobs in 2020, which represents 1 in 9 of all jobs in Rhode Island. For more information on Rhode Island including travel guides, events, go to www.visitrhodeisland.com.
