LOVE & FARE

Husband-and-wife team Josh Finger and Maggie McConnell met while working in the kitchen at Thomas Keller's Per Se in New York, then moved to Providence to open their first restaurant together last year. Keller's influence is apparent at Claudine, but the duo put their own twists on classic bites, like a plump tongue of sea urchin from Maine or Hokkaido atop an oyster and frothy champagne sabayon for the opening bite. Local seafood and produce inspire their modern New England cuisine supplemented with world-class ingredients from Asia and Europe. Expect perfectly cooked proteins accented with luscious sauces. This is the most ambitious fine-dining restaurant in Providence, with just 26 seats for the eight-course tasting menu. Alcove booth 21 is the best seat in the house, cloistered away for privacy with a wide-open view of the kitchen. 225 Weybosset Street, claudinepvd.com

ART WITH HEART

The Rhode Island School of Design's art and design museum is the best museum in the city, featuring pieces by Claude Monet, Andy Warhol, and Pablo Picasso in the permanent collection alongside thought-provoking exhibitions like a current showcase of Indigenous art honoring the seal by Alaska and Inuit artists, and a deep dive into indigo's importance across cultures and generations in West Africa, with brilliant indigo-dyed textiles and clothing on display. Plan to spend a couple hours minimum wandering through the European, Asian, and American art galleries and exploring the 1906 Pendleton House colonial-style mansion filled with 18th- and 19th-century American furniture, silver, and paintings. Admission is free Thursday evenings from 5-8 p.m. and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. 20 N Main Street, risdmuseum.org

HISTORIC HIDEAWAY

Housed in a circa-1887 red-brick landmark in the heart of the downtown historic and financial district, The Beatrice stands out in a sea of glass and steel. The 47-room boutique is the passion project of former Providence mayor and developer Joseph R. Paolino Jr., who named it for his mother, and was recently ranked the No. 13 hotel in New England by Conde Nast. Upon entry, you're greeted by original brickwork and tall windows in a soaring light-filled glass atrium, while the rooms and suites pair high ceilings, herringbone floors, and sweeping city views with contemporary touches like Matouk linens and towels, Dyson hair dryers, Nespresso machines, heated towel racks, and heated bidet toilets. Guests get access to the members-only Bellini Rooftop, an exclusive top-floor lounge that regularly hosts jazz pianists, local DJs, and haute wine and spirits tastings. 90 Westminster Street, thebeatrice.com

SEAFOOD SPECIALISTS

This downtown icon serves up the freshest locally caught seafood with riverfront views. Open daily for lunch and dinner, Hemenway's is the perfect power lunch spot and offers a kids' menu for families too. Try the clam chowder, either New England-style with a thick and creamy base, or Rhode Island-style with clear and briny clam broth. Whole fish of the day is always a good choice, as well as local monkfish, seafood casserole with Vermont cheddar, and whole lobster mac and cheese. Friendly and knowledgeable servers make great recommendations, and the steaks are sneaky good too. 121 S Main Street, hemenwaysrestaurant.com

MOODY MIXOLOGY

This intimate bar is a sexy escape from the hustle and bustle in Federal Hill, and it feels like stepping back in time to a friend's sepia-toned living room from the 1960s. Co-owners Leishla Maldonado, Osman Cortave, and Yefri Cortave designed the mid-century lounge to reflect their Puerto Rican and Guatemalan heritage with cocktails featuring Latin American ingredients and spirits. The team recently won the 2026 James Beard Award for Best New Bar (Rhode Island's first winner in this category) for their innovative and precisely prepared drinks accompanied by a soundtrack of vintage salsa and Latin jazz. Seating is first come, first served with no reservations. 112 Spruce Street, lomabar.com
