If your idea of an awesome bachelorette entails phallic-shaped straws, matching outfits (and the requisite group pics that go along with them) and getting a table at some trendy nightclub, this probably isn't the right list for you. While there's certainly no shame in doing all the standard pre-wedding girls' trip stuff (it's a blast and don't let anyone tell you otherwise), some brides are looking for unique ideas that don't fall into the been-there-done-that bachelorette destination box. Maybe that's hiking through red rocks, exploring dramatic coastal cliffs in Big Sur or navigating Iceland's ice fields? Or, perhaps, it's a sun-drenched escape to a less-traveled Caribbean Island. Any getaway can be an epic bachelorette as long as the bride is happy and she has her pals along for the adventure. Here, we've rounded up 30 of the most unique bachelorette party destinations.

Lots of brides plan their bash in Newport. But few even know about the nearby small town of Jamestown. So, we're going to let you in on a little secret: The seafood restaurants (JB's on the Water is a must), cute shops and frame-worthy views of Narragansett Bay make it a great choice if you're down for charm but keen to avoid the crowds. Other local attractions include the historic Watson Farm, Windmill Hill and the Beavertail Lighthouse Museum—perfect for a charming and relaxing weekend before you tie the knot.
