

THRILLIST

EVENTS

Everything You Need to Do in Boston This Weekend

By MEAGHAN AGNEW
Updated On 01/16/2020 at 05:02PM EST

Too bad that gorgeous weather didn't land on a long weekend, huh? But while last week's stunning (and unnerving) temps are but a distant memory, there's lots of inside fun to be had this weekend to distract from the current cold and snow. You have a pastry pop-up, a cocktail class, a fried-chicken party, and a cost-effective hotel getaway just to the south. All of that builds to MLK Day, your chance to partake in a traditional local service project. Here is everything you must do in Boston this long weekend.

Get outta dodge for Hotel Week RI

Saturday, January 18 - Monday, January 20

Rhode Island

Our neighboring state to the south houses some of the region's most luxurious hotels -- and for the next two weeks you can check out one or more at greatly reduced prices. Yes, that includes the renowned Ocean House on Watch Hill, currently boasting an outdoor fondue village, as well as classic spots in Newport, Narragansett, and Providence, and Block Island.

Cost: $100-400 a night