

TOWN&COUNTRY

14 Incredible Spots to See Fall Foliage Across New England

Consider this your guide to every leaf peeping hotspot in the northeast.

by ALYSSA GIACOBBE, SAM DANGREMOND and MAGGIE MALONEY SEP 23, 2019

Whether you're on the hunt for rare maples or just out for the pretty colors, New England's last party before the long winter is undeniable Insta-candy. Here are 14 brilliant routes to drive, hike, and experience across New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island.

RHODE ISLAND'S OCEAN DRIVE

This one you can, and should, do by bike. Rent a pair of wheels at Newport Bicycle then start out on the Bellevue Avenue side of the Ocean Drive Loop, an 11-mile waterfront route that passes through the American yellowwoods, European beeches, and stately mansions of Bellevue before opening out onto Ocean Drive, offering dual views of Rhode Island Sound on your left and jaw-dropping colors on your right. End at the equally scenic Newport Harbor, where you might pull up to Belle's Café in the Shipyard for coffee and yacht views.

Stay: Gilded (for a downtown option) READ REVIEWS

Stay: Gurney's Newport (for waterfront) READ REVIEWS