Not many girls' trips make it out of the group chat. But boy, oh, boy, is it ever fun when they do. Sometimes you just need to ditch all your responsibilities and get away with the ladies that mean the most to ya. And, you know, maybe drink a few glasses of wine in the process.

If you and your gals have been meaning to plan your next getaway, you're in luck: I rounded up and ranked 35 flawless vacation spots in the U.S. that would make for the ultimate girls' trip (that's right, no passport required!). And I fully guarantee there's a place on here within driving distance of your house, so you can skip pricey flights and make a road trip out of it (don't forget the snacks, obv).

From enchanting sunsets in Santa Fe that look straight out of a Georgia O'Keefe painting to swanky spots to sip bubbly in Charleston, there's something for every girl group on this list—and that's a promise. Read on for the best of the best, and start planning those 'fits.

Newport, Rhode Island

The most important thing to do in Newport? The Cliff Walk. It's a stunning walk along—you guessed it—a cliff, with the ocean on one side of you and some casual Gilded Age mansions on the other (which yep, you can stop in and tour). This isn't exactly a ~nightlife~ town, so consider it a great opportunity to eat huge amounts at dinner and go back to your hotel room (The Chanler, if you're feeling fancy and love a converted mansion) to sleep it off.
