Brian Savage Joins Salt Palace Event Management Team

Brian Savage joins the Salt Palace Convention Center as the newest Event Manager. He first came to the Salt Palace as a client, producing the 2015 Salt Lake City Parliament of the World's Religions. He says he could not be more excited to be a part of the Salt Palace team.

"Living in the hustle and bustle of Chicago and New York City for the past 20 years, I fell in love with the natural beauty, warm people, and more manageable pace of Salt Lake City and decided to make it home," said Savage. Growing up outside the small town of Louisville, IL, Brian received his earliest education from the farm folk by and among whom he was reared.

Jed Hansen, Director of Events at the Salt Palace, is delighted to welcome Brian on board. "We feel very fortunate to have Brian join our team. He has a great understanding of the facility and how we operate, having been a client. He brings with him a depth of professional experience that will only enhance our continuing effort to provide excellent customer service."

Brian was educated at Saint Louis Christian College, Emmanuel Christian Seminary and Chicago Theological Seminary. He has an extensive career in fundraising and event production for national agencies focusing on AIDS and breast cancer awareness, youth education and world religions.

When he is not at the Salt Palace, Brian loves skiing, hiking, camping; basically anything that gets him into the mountains. He lives in Salt Lake City with his husband Loren and two cats.
