DAY THREE

Start your day in Paso Robles with excellent gourmet coffees and teas at the popular AMSTERDM or Spearhead coffeehouses. Just around the corner, you'll find the Paso Robles General Store which sells a vast array of local goods and provisions for pantry and home.

Next, visit Hambly Lavender Farm, located just a few miles north of Paso Robles in San Miguel where one can wander among acres of lavender or take a guided tour. Outside the marvelous gift shop—which sells everything lavender—there is a patio, with tables and a fountain. So, feel free to bring your own lunch and a bottle of wine and relax amongst the purple fields and the magical scent of lavender.

While you're in San Miguel area, do not miss the historic Spanish-era Mission. Founded in 1797, Mission San Miguel is a National Historical Landmark that has been an important part of Central Coast history for over 200 years. Or if you feel like getting to the ocean, take a lovely 35-minute and unhurried drive to the artisan community of Cambria.

For lunch, check out Linn's Restaurant, a SLO CAL favorite. It serves hearty farm breakfasts, as well as lunch and dinner. Or head to Linn's Gourmet Goods located just down the street to pick up a freshly baked pie, berry preserves, Linn's farmed produce, and a few gifts. On your way out to Linn's Farm Store, stop by Stolo Family Vineyards to taste its "cool climate" wines and enjoy its large lawn, surrounded by vineyards and farms.

After returning to Paso, visit one—or more—of almost 20 tasting rooms in and around downtown Paso Robles, such as Alpha Omega, Derby, Hoyt Family Vineyards, and Diablo. After your wine wanderings, try La Cosecha Bar and Restaurant, with its focus on Spanish and South American cuisine; or the Alchemist Garden, featuring fantastically creative cocktails and an eclectic share-plate menu in a lively bar setting.
