

The power duo in Høyanger

The power duo in Høyanger is two hikes in one, where the theme is power production in the past and present. The duo consists of 5 km by foot / bike / car, followed by a walk beside or on 2500 lofty stair-steps. The return is in the same manner.

If you don't wish to complete the whole power duo, you can just as easily stop after 5 km in the end of the valley and skip the stairs.

On this hike you'll get to experience essential power installations in Høyanger and see the community's power history unfold in the landscape. By the stairs you'll find Eiriksdalen power plant and K2 (pictured below), two generations of power plants where the former replaced the latter in 2014. At the top of the staircase you'll get a view of the valley towards Høyanger, and you'll see power installations which formed the very foundation for the industry that the town has sustained itself on through over 100 years.

If you want to experience varied nature and activities in one and the same hike, this is the one for you! You'll encounter power installations from both the pasts and present, while at the same time getting an overview of the foundation of power production in Høyanger. You'll also get an understanding of how power has been a prerequisite for all the activity in the local community since the early 1900s.

Øren Hotel

Øren Hotel is over 100 years old, and was built in correlation to the emergence of industry in Høyanger in the early 1900s. Today the hotel has 25 rooms (single, double and family rooms), restaurant, bar and a pub. The hotel sees it as its main mission to make your stay as comfortable as possible, and therefore personal service is most important.

Øren Hotel lies in Høyanger town center and is the perfect base to explore this unique industrial community, planned and architect designed as the ideal small town a hundred years ago.
