Trail Map

Whitestone Springs Spur Trail is a one way route to the historic location of Whitestone Springs. Here you'll find evidence of the bottling business and the foundation of the 4 story hotel from the late 1800's. Plus enjoy a cool drink from the spring!

Length: Rocky Ridge 3.4 miles,
Whitestone Springs Spur (one way) $\frac{3}{4}$ mile
Difficulty: Moderate

Foster Mill

From the stable area, take the fourth trailhead off the gravel road for the Foster Mill Trail. Much of it travels along an old road bed. It is the widest trail in the Park with portions going from single wide to double wide, making it perfect for both equestrian and hiking beginners. You will pass through some of the best historical areas in the Park, where you will see old trestle bridges as well as cemetery sites. This trail will take you along ridges, crossover beautiful Kelsey Creek and take you along the shore of Lake Craig.

Length: 6.5 miles
Difficulty: Moderate due to length

Southside Loop

This is the longest trail in the Park and can be accessed either by crossing the Advanced America Bridge on the Palmetto Trail or from the Southside Parking lot at the end of Groce Road. It offers access to many other mountain bike and hiking trails in this extensive trail system totaling over 16 miles. You'll travel through rolling terrain, across hills, and along creeksides. In the lower elevations, the trail winds along Fairforest Creek

Palmetto Trail: Croft Passage

Explore part of the 'Mountains-to-the-Sea' Trail. This multi-use trail serves hikers, mountain bikers, and horse riders. Hikers can use the entire trail, but horses and bikers only parts of it. The 12.6-mile trail enters Croft at the Glenn Springs Passage trailhead and crosses the 65-foot Advance America Bridge over Fairforest Creek. This is the longest footbridge in any SC State Park. Hikers and equestrians follow established trails to the east and north while mountain bikers follow roads to the west and north until all join at Henningston Road. The newly built trail from mile 8.5 to the northern trailhead follows ridges, crosses drainages, and hugs Kelsey Creek to the historic Cedar Springs area. Be on the lookout for remains of old homesteads.

Length: 12.6 miles

Difficulty: Moderate

Nature Trail

This is a quiet, foot-traffic-only, 1.5 mile loop trail through varying wildlife habitats. You will descend through mixed pine and hardwood trees, wind along the rocky shoals of Fairforest Creek which gives a sense of a mountain trail, and then loop back uphill. Remains of an old mill site along Fairforest Creek and a bridge crossing are two historical points to view along this trail. Trail signs at intersections will help you find your way back. You may see a variety of wildlife including birds, deer, squirrels, and snakes.

Length: 1.5 miles

Difficulty: Easy

Rocky Ridge/Whitestone Springs

This trail takes you through a variety of habitats and is used for part of the Camp Croft Half Marathon route. Rocky Ridge bears off of Foster Mill just past the Kelsey Creek Bridge crossing. It offers several scenic passages through hardwood forest along with views of rollings hills and creeks.

Things To Do in the Park:

Hiking—all trails are open to hikers.

Horseback Riding—dedicated trails for riders. Horse stalls are available for campers and a Show Ring is available for rent.

History of The Park

This land was once home to a farming community and old farmsteads can still be found throughout the Park. Whitestone Springs attracted visitors in the late 1800's and early 1900's. You can have a drink from the Spring today and see the foundation of a 4 story hotel and evidence of the bottling business (Rocky Ridge/Whitestone Spring Trail).

World War II brought about the need for more training facilities. The first troops began training on March 7, 1941 and the camp eventually housed 250,000 soldiers. The facility was shut down after the war and opened as a State Park in 1949. Today it is one of the largest tracts of land in the SC State Park Service.
